| 5. Review expectations. Reporter – one to three pages (typed) – should contain the following: an overview of the situation, a description of the conflicting parties, define success for both sides, explain how this conflict fits the definition of a siege, explain which side “won” and which side “lost”. Story Teller – using factual information weave together a fictional account of an individual or group that would have been involved in the conflict; the story should be between one to three pages typed – explain the psychological effects of a siege in your city, describe how all five senses are affected in your story. Cartographer – your job is to create two different maps – one map should be two-dimensional and should include the country and area surrounding the chosen conflict; the other map should focus specifically on the area of conflict – the map should have three-dimensional characteristics (in other words, there should be props that you add to
6. All three people are working together, but will be scored separately.
7. Each group should present their findings to the class.
8. Extension: The lesson “War and the Animal: One man’s experience during the beginning of the Biafran War” coincides with this lesson but can be done separately. (This lesson is listed on the GAI website.)
