4-4-2017

Prejudice and Dr. Seuss Wants You [poster]

University of Northern Iowa. Center for Holocaust and Genocide Education.

Let us know how access to this document benefits you

Copyright ©2017 Center for Holocaust and Genocide Education, University of Northern Iowa

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.uni.edu/chge_documents

Part of the Social Psychology and Interaction Commons

Recommended Citation

This Poster is brought to you for free and open access by the Center for Holocaust and Genocide Education at UNI ScholarWorks. It has been accepted for inclusion in Center for Holocaust and Genocide Education Documents by an authorized administrator of UNI ScholarWorks. For more information, please contact scholarworks@uni.edu.
“Facing Prejudice” encourages viewers to examine, in a constructive, non-threatening manner, the complexities of prejudice and stereotypes that reside in all of us. It is a unique exhibition: a journey of questions, personal insights and factual statements designed to challenge and empower visitors to fight for understanding and tolerance in their everyday lives. This exhibit was a collaborative effort between The University of Cincinnati and The Center for Holocaust & Humanity Education.

“Dr. Seuss Wants You” is an original exhibit of insightful works that show an unexpected and unknown aspect of Dr. Seuss. Typical Seuss characters encourage us to discover the often-ignored issues that confronted Americans while the rest of the world was at war: isolationism, racism, antisemitism, and willingness to appease. Exhibitions created by The Center for Holocaust & Humanity Education.

“THE POLITICAL DR. SEUSS”
MAY 20 | 1:00 - 3:00 PM
“The Political Dr. Seuss” demonstrates how activism and social justice run through the work of Dr. Seuss, from his political cartoons to many of his major books.