  - b. Recommendation on wording change to Student Academic Ethics Policy (section V part D – Academic Sanctions for Level Four Violations, <http://www.uni.edu/policies/301>)
    - i. The current policy (last approved August 6, 2012) provides examples of level four violations for plagiarism in a master’s thesis or doctoral dissertation, but not in the culminating project for a non-thesis student.
    - ii. The current policy also does not specify the extent of the plagiarism that characterizes a level four violation, other than “quoting directly or paraphrasing without proper acknowledgement of the source and/or presenting the ideas of another as your own in a senior thesis, master’s thesis or doctoral dissertation, in scholarly articles submitted to refereed publications or conferences as a student”
  - c. Summer session load limits for graduate students
    - i. Traditionally, the catalog has listed the “normal maximum” graduate student load as 9 hours. Other language indicated that these hours were normally applied over the 8 week term (June-July); May term is not explicitly mentioned. With the new SIS, load limits need to be set for each term. Currently, the summer session limits are:

| term length         | grad students   | undergrads      |
|---------------------|-----------------|-----------------|
| 12 weeks            | 12 credit hours | 12 credit hours |
| 8 weeks             | 9 credit hours  | 8 credit hours  |
| 6 weeks             | 6 credit hours  | 6 credit hours  |
| 4 weeks             | 6* credit hours | 6* credit hours |
| 2 week post session | 2 credit hours  |                 |

*recently increased from 4 credits to 6 credits

Are we okay with the recent increase to 6 credit hours in a 4 week session?
Are any other changes needed?

5. Adjournment
