"There is no typical day for the President of UNI," said Dr. John Kamerick. "However, there are certain activities which recur regularly, like the monthly Board of Regents meeting, the scheduled committee meetings, and the Wednesday afternoon student appointments. Any of a great variety of activities can fill a 'normal' day."

According to Dr. Kamerick, the 1981-82 school year has been a good one for UNI, but it's been a year of uncertainties too. "Our North Central Association accreditation report turned out well, our faculty reached a new high in terminally qualified faculty members, and we continued to make progress toward becoming a good multi-purpose university," said Kamerick. "On the negative side, it must be said that we have operated with a reduced budget because of reduced state income, and we have encountered increasing uncertainty about the availability of student aid in future years."

President Kamerick reminds this year's students that "the value of higher education to the individual should never be measured by economic criteria".

UNI's administrative offices are located in Gilchrist Hall.

Dr. Edward Voldseth, Special Assistant to the President for State Relations and Special Events

Dr. Edward Voldseth spends most of his time off campus working as a lobbyist for UNI during state legislative sessions. On even numbered years such as last fall, Voldseth spends his time on the road meeting and visiting with candidates for the legislature across the state to keep them better informed of higher education needs.

Dr. Thomas Hansmeier, Vice President for Educational and Student Services

What Dr. Thomas Hansmeier's duties don't include would be easier to describe than the many tasks he must oversee as Vice President for Educational and Student Services. Dr. Hansmeier is in charge of nine different administrative units, including the Resident Hall System, Maucker Union, and Counseling Placement and Career Services. Hansmeier's ideas for next year include establishing more forms of recognition for academic achievement, such as having a "Super Dean's List" for 3.8 grade points and above, giving certificates for students who get a four point grade report, and awarding a traveling trophy for the dorm house with the best grade point average.

Dr. Robert Stansbury, Vice President for Administrative Services

'The man behind the scenes' is how to describe Dr. Robert D. Stansbury, Vice President for Administrative Services. Dr. Stansbury's responsibilities include Intercollegiate Athletics, budgeting for UNI, Business Office Operations, Grants and Contracts, Security and Plant Services, and Personnel Operations.

Next year Stansbury will be working on getting computers to the major offices on campus so they can have direct access to the main computers to eliminate delays in decision making and paperwork.

Stansbury is interested "in continuing to make Administrative Services as efficient as possible".
About thirty percent of last year's UNI graduates came from the School of Business. At present 52 faculty members, which is less than ten percent of all UNI faculty, must teach four to five thousand students. Even while serving this vast number of students who are trying to obtain business courses, the School of Business is constantly recruiting.

The school is preparing for review by the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business in hopes of accreditation. Organized within the UNI School of Business are the departments of accounting, business education and administrative management, management, and marketing.
Marcia Netz receives an Elijah Watt Self Award for being among the top 15 scorers in the nation on the CPA exam.

Accounting student Scott Davis is interviewed at the Business Recruiters' Fair.

Accounting Graduates Successful in CPA Exam

The performance of past graduates has awarded the UNI Accounting Department with an excellent reputation. Fifty-six percent of May 1981 graduates succeeded in passing the Certified Public Accountants Examination the first time, as compared to the eight to ten percent success rate in the nation as a whole. Dr. Gaylon Halverson, Department Head, speculates the 1982 accounting class holds the potential to perform just as exceptionally as the 1981 class.

Prospects for accounting majors remain high. Accountants are employed in private businesses, government accounting, public accounting, or teaching. Job opportunities also exist in the field of management.
More Than One Career Option For Graduates

The Department of Business Education and Administrative Management gives students the opportunity to prepare for more than one career. Graduates may qualify for work in business and industry, as well as in the field of teaching.

Two majors are available in the department. Students choose from emphases in accounting, general business, secretarial/office education, and distributive education in the business education major, and the administrative management program is growing considerably.

UNI Students Prepare For Management

Management is a relatively flexible major. Unlike other areas of study in business, its purpose lies not in the training for a specific skill, but in having the skill to use later on in management itself.

Dr. Peter Goulet, Acting Department Head, estimates that one-third of all management students choose a finance emphasis; one-fifth, a production emphasis; and those remaining a personnel human resource emphasis.

Possibilities for employment cover a variety of jobs. Among them marketing plays a leading role.
Variety Of Positions Open For Graduates

A marketing major prepares graduates to enter entry-level positions in companies that have a marketing function, such as sales, promotion, research, consumer behavior, industrial marketing, purchasing, product/brand management, physical distribution, public relations, wholesaling, and retailing. UNI’s Department of Marketing prepares students in four areas of emphasis: commodity marketing; marketing management; retailing management; and sales and promotion.

In addition to teaching responsibilities, the Department of Marketing faculty conduct research and consulting activities for various businesses in the Midwest as well as publishing in various marketing-related journals.
The College of Education offers professional education for students preparing to teach in elementary and secondary schools. Graduate work at the masters and specialist degree levels is available in several areas.

Having just undergone a program review by the State Department of Public Instruction in 1981, the college is beginning to prepare for a 1983 visit by the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education. Hopefully a proposal for a Doctorate in Education will be approved in April.

Contained within the college are the departments of curriculum and instruction, educational psychology and foundations, library science, health physical education and recreation, school administration and personnel services, special education, and teaching.

Department Prepares Students To Teach

The Department of Curriculum and Instruction prepares teachers for early childhood education, elementary education, middle school/junior high school education, reading and language arts, remedial reading, and safety education. Both undergraduate and graduate programs are offered in educational media and teaching of the gifted. The department’s Reading Clinic prepares undergraduate students to teach remedial reading and at the same time, provides assistance to children in the community who have experienced difficulty in learning how to read. The UNI Day Care Center, sponsored by the department, is a licensed facility for 50 preschool-age children, many of whom are the children of UNI students. In addition to providing a valuable service for parents, the center is also a field experience site where students majoring in early childhood education can observe and participate.
Experience
For Teachers

Most students in teacher education need a variety of experience for teaching in public schools. One important feature of the UNI Educational Psychology Teaching Program is that it offers participants the opportunity for field experience outside the university. Practicums and internships are assigned to area education agencies, whereby students practice their school psychology training. Instruction on a one-to-one basis with youngsters and minority children is available. Masters degree courses are now provided at outreach centers in Carroll, Charles City, Mason City, Council Bluffs, and the Quad Cities.

Work continues with community agencies to develop seminars, workshops, and degree programs. This includes such local human service agencies as those affiliated with United Way of Black Hawk County and Peoples Community Health Clinic. Public school teacher inservice workshops are held with Area Education Agencies.

A non-school setting general education psychology prepares graduates for staff positions with community, city, or government agencies.

Not All UNI Graduates Teach

Recent statistics indicate that approximately half of UNI graduates from the Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation choose a career other than teaching. Non-teaching programs exist in the areas of health and recreation. Community health education majors may work in industries, businesses, health agencies, clinics or hospitals to aid in the prevention of health problems. In the field of recreation, studies may combine with numerous electives to offer emphasis in administration, outdoor recreation, or program supervision.

Active organizations related to the department include the Recreation Club, Orchesis, Marlins, and various intramural sports.

Library Science Adds The Use Of Computers

The Department of Library Science has added the use of computers to its preparation program for library media specialists. Computers expand the library media centers in the areas of administration, data base retrieval, and instruction to serve students and faculty.

To qualify as a library media specialist in public schools a graduate must be a certified teacher. Undergraduates may pursue a minor in library them to work as a school librarian in either elementary or secondary schools.
Department Trains Leaders

Providing educational leadership services, School Administration and Personnel Services faculty continue to expand their role in training leaders for K-12 schools, higher education institutions, and agencies through exemplary teaching and service. Masters degrees, specialists degrees, and endorsements are offered in both administration and counseling areas.

Meeting challenges of today's leadership training demands remain their goal. Increasingly faculty are practicing their expertise by serving in leadership positions in state, regional and national professional organizations.

1981 Chosen As International Year Of Disabled Persons

The United Nations General Assembly has named 1981 as the International Year of Disabled Persons. Work throughout many nations has been directed at improving the lives of physically and mentally disabled individuals. Dr. Marion Thompsen, Department Head of Special Education, comments that in spite of being a year for the handicapped, difficulties in providing services for them exist as a result of economic crunches.

Enrollment of students who use wheelchairs or need other assistance increased to 145 during the fall semester of 1981. Registration for physically handicapped students stood at only 42 in the fall of 1980.

A number of services for the handicapped are provided through department programs and the Student Council of Exceptional Children.

Demand For Teachers Expected To Rise

Within this decade the demand for teachers is expected to rise. The increased birthrate in Iowa and those who fled the profession due to the unavailability of jobs, account for these openings. Dr. Ross Nielsen, Head of Teaching, reports that at present less than five percent of high school graduates choose to enter into the field of teaching.

The department continues to receive funding for a broad array of experimental and developmental research projects. Financing is provided by various governmental and private agencies or programs.
Currently the college is involved in cooperative programs with the School of Business and it is investigating the possibility of further cooperation. There is now in existence the Business Communication minor jointly offered by Communication and Theatre Arts, and English Language and Literature. In planning stages are a five-year program leading to a Masters of Business Administration with a four-year undergraduate major in the Humanities or Arts. Consideration is also being given to an Arts Management major and a Music Merchandising major.

The College of Humanities and Fine Arts includes the academic departments of Art, Communicative Disorders, English Language and Literature, Modern Languages, the School of Music, and Communication and Theatre Arts. Also included is Broadcasting Services which contains two non-commercial FM radio stations. These are KHKE, a fine-arts station, and KUNI, a general audience station of wider coverage.

Celebration In Store For 1983

In the Department of Art priority is set in preparation for next year’s celebration. The 1982-1983 academic year will mark the department’s 75th anniversary. Numerous special activities are planned.

The UNI Gallery of Art hosts a variety of art exhibits from all over the nation. The Docents, a volunteer group, regularly offers tours of the gallery.

UNI’s art department is accredited by the National Association of Schools of Art and Design, which is the accreditation agency for colleges and universities in the nation.

New Title For Department

The more descriptive title Department of Communication and Theater Arts now replaces that of Department of Speech. Presently discussion is underway in considering their division into separate departments. There is good support for the proposal.

There exists a wide variety of careers in the disciplines. Theater, public address, public relations, law and politics, teaching, and radio and television broadcasting name only a few.

Two majors are available in leading to a Bachelor's of Arts degree, along with several minors. Emphasis is placed on theater, public relations, or radio and television.

Undergraduate Training Strengthened

Work continues in the Communicative Disorders Department on a new curriculum package. Strengthening of the training program may enable undergraduates to receive a pre-professional degree. Even so, a masters degree is needed to work as an audiologist or speech pathologist. This qualifies graduates for work in hospitals, public schools, clinics, and special education agencies.

English Serves As Background

A good English program prepares students for a variety of careers. It serves as an excellent background for professional opportunities in teaching, business, industry, advertising, public relations, or further study as a graduate.

The department sponsors a number of activities throughout the year, one of which is the annual Christmas "Read-In". Students and faculty meet to present their poetry, prose, fiction, essay and dramatic works. A Student as Critic Conference is held each spring. Critiques are presented by high school and college students and teachers from across the state on literature of their choice.

One requirement of all UNI students is the passing of the department’s Writing Competency Exam. The essay test is offered twice each semester.
Diplomas For Translators

Knowledge of a foreign language proves beneficial in many careers. A Translation Certification Program is now being emphasized by the Department of Modern Languages. Certified competence in the form of a diploma is available.

Work has been done in the past few years to build up the graduate program. One of the largest graduate operations is study in institutes abroad. Around 150 students participated in programs abroad in the summer of 1981.

Courses in French, German, Spanish, and Russian are currently offered.
School Of Music Boasts
Top-Rated Musical Groups

The School of Music boasts many top-rated musical organizations. Among them are the award-winning Jazz Band I, which has won several prestigious jazz festivals and which most recently appeared as the top university jazz band at the National Association of Jazz Educators in Chicago; and the UNI Wind Ensemble, which recently has been guest band at the College Band Directors National Association Convention in Madison, Wisconsin. Other outstanding musical groups have earned excellent reputations. These include UNI Lyric Theatre, Concert Chorale, and Varsity Men’s Glee Club. There are over twenty musical ensembles in which interested university students may participate.
Department Teaches The Most Students In General Education

UNI’s Department of Philosophy and Religion continues to teach more students in General Education than any other department, with the largest numbers in Humanities I and II and Religions of the World. The introduction of a new four-course series on the development of Christianity has found some student interest.

A panel discussion on “Creation or Evolution?” began the year’s public activities for the department. These continued throughout the year with lectures and discussions of the Bible, science, and the role of women. Denise and John Carmody appeared as Theologians-in-Residence in April.

In aiming for a Bachelor of Arts degree, students may select from one of three undergraduate majors. These consist of the philosophy major, the religion major, and the combined philosophy and religion major. Pre-theological and pre-business majors are being developed.

The College of Natural Sciences and its Department of Biology oversee UNI's Biological Preserves System. The system, encompassing approximately 150 acres at both on and off campus locations, is divided to include the categories of preserves and public exhibits. Activities in the preserves are limited to instruction and research by UNI classes and staff, although public exhibit areas are open to the public.

Several different areas compose the preserves system. The Clay Prairie Preserve south of Allison, the Campus Prairie Preserve, and the Matala Preserve northwest of Cedar Falls are three of the seven presently developed.

Student activities in the college include a student honors dinner in the fall and a commencement convocation in the morning of graduation.

Department Strives To Make Impact

"It is our role to make an impact in teaching, research, and service," said Dr. Daryl Smith, Acting-Head of the Department of Biology. The department, which began in 1968, concerns itself in active contribution within the state of Iowa.

Programs in biology are rather flexible. Although majors in teaching and liberal arts are available, it is also possible to plan an individual biology major program.

Professions in biology include anthropologist, botanist, entomologist, oceanographist, pharmacist and numerous others.

Gene Williams experiments in chemistry lab.

More Chemistry Majors At UNI

An increase in the number of chemistry majors is evident at UNI this year. In the past some UNI graduates have gone into teaching or research in the chemical industry, although more than half have continued on to medical or graduate school for further education.

The Student Affiliate Chapter of the American Chemical Society encourages student participation in field trips, service projects, and special events within the department.

UNI’s chemistry program continues to meet regulations set by the American Chemical Society and is accredited by the organization.

Earth Science Attracts New Majors

Of prime concern to the Department of Earth Science this year is the attraction of new majors. A good nucleus is formed by sophomores and juniors in the department; even so, work continues to recruit talented freshmen into the program. This is carried out by activities in the UNI Science and Math Symposium, earth science seminars, and help sessions. Field trips remain popular among students. This spring participants will investigate the Big Band area of Texas and Mexico.

Excellent job opportunities exist in the field of earth science, particularly in geology and geophysics. Employment can also be found in teaching at both the secondary and college levels.

Department Works To Recruit Students

"Industrial arts teachers are desperately needed," remarks Dr. John Fecik, Head of Industrial Technology. Efforts are being made to recruit more industrial arts students to resolve this nationwide dilemma. Contact with teachers in the field continues to be made for ideas to improve the UNI program.

Work to revitalize the doctoral program is underway and operations are being intensified to attract graduate students into the program. Foreign students have shown great interest in this program, but greater participation by students from the United States is necessary.

A degree in industrial technology may prepare graduates for a career in industry, manufacturing, construction, product design and development or supervisory and managerial positions.

Department Assumes New Title

In December of 1981 the title of Department of Mathematics was replaced by Department of Mathematics and Computer Science. This change results from the addition of a new computer science major and a computer information systems major. Rising demand for these majors is anticipated.

Although mathematics teachers are in short supply, a mathematics major is appropriate for more than just that profession. Since mathematics projects money into the future and deals with probabilities, it is essential an actuarial work. In learning logical thinking graduates may pursue a career in business or law. Often mathematics graduates serve as the liaison between technical engineers and management.
Student Compete In Physics Olympics

The UNI Department of Physics, in cooperation with Area Education Agency 7, sponsored this year’s Physics Olympics. Students from junior and senior high schools competed in various physics and science related events as a toothpick bridge building contest and a physics problem-solving contest. Winners advanced to regional competition and then to the state Physics Olympics in the UNI-Dome.

Three majors are offered in the department. They are classified as teaching, major A, and major B. Major A provides a broad background in physics emphasis for students going into industry or graduate school.

The College of Social and Behavioral Sciences teaches the largest number of credit hours of any college at UNI. Departments within the college play a major role in the university's general education program.

Several new academic programs are now available within and through the college. Most significant is a new degree program in public administration. Courses for the public administration curriculum will be offered starting next fall.

In cooperation with the Washington Center for Learning Alternatives, the college is coordinating a new internship program. A non-profit agency, the center helps affiliated institutions place interns in governmental and private agencies in the Washington D.C. area. UNI’s first participant, a home economics student, began work with the Federal Trade Commission in the spring of 1982. The college is also coordinating a new hospital and health administration program which is carried out cooperatively with the University of Iowa.

Demand For Economics High

Economics classes remain in demand. Interest stretches far beyond the business and economics majors. Many students in other fields desire a better understanding of the ever-changing economy.

An economics degree provides students with the opportunity for a career in education, government service and business and industry. The Department of Economics at UNI offers two majors for a Bachelor of Arts degree. One is a liberal arts program and the other is designed for teaching with secondary level certification.

Omicron Delta Epsilon, an honorary organization in the department, and the Economics Club help to provide activities in the area of economics to UNI students.

Students Alerted To Job Opportunities

UNI's Geography Department is exerting a special effort to alert students to job opportunities in geography. This includes internships and cooperative opportunities while still students. Career possibilities range from cartography, weather reporting, teaching, city and regional planning, marketing and industrial analysis, economic development, and environmental quality control, to work for government agencies.

The seven faculty members of the department offer studies in urban, environmental, political, economic, population, cultural, and historical geography. They also work to produce a new issue of Geographical Perspectives each year. The publication dates back to 1963.

Student Interest In History On The Rise

Students at UNI are showing marked interest in the field of history. "There has been an increase in the number of majors and minors," states Dr. Donald Whitnah, Head of the Department of History. Studies are centered on trying to understand the past while applying it to the present and the future.

A variety of jobs are available to the graduates who pursue careers in history. Employment may be found in governmental agencies, teaching, museums, libraries and archives of a city, research, and other related jobs in business and industry. Within the past decade over half of UNI history graduates have been employed in positions other than teaching.

The department runs the Model United Nations, an annual event at UNI for high school students.

Lectures, book sales, and other activities within the department are sponsored by the Historical Association and Phi Alpha Theta.
Prospective Teachers Live In Home Management House

Living in the Home Management House is a part of every home economics teaching major's schedule. Each nine weeks four to five seniors take up residence in the house. The students alternate roles as cook, assistant cook, manager, and housekeeper to help prepare them for a career in teaching home economics.

Six undergraduate majors and two undergraduate minors are offered through the UNI Department of Home Economics. Programs in teaching, business, design and human environment are emphasized along with a general home economics major or minor for students who wish a more flexible liberal arts program.

The department encourages participation in related home economics organizations. Membership is open to students in the Fashion Merchandising Club, American Society of Interior Design, American Home Economics Association, and Phi Upsilon Omicron.
Teaching Program Remains Popular

Although UNI's Department of Political Science offers a Masters degree, the undergraduate teaching program remains popular. A bachelor's degree in political science also qualifies graduates for governmental service positions at the local, state or federal levels. Some students choose to study political science in preparation for a career in law, public administration, or urban planning.

Many special programs are offered through the department. Each spring a trip is sponsored to Washington D.C. There students partake in educational, cultural and social experiences. The Iowa Legislative Workshop in Des Moines gives participants the opportunity to learn from legislators and experts how the Iowa legislature really works. Opportunities exist through an intern program to gain practical experience in work with political parties, politicians, governmental agencies, and other organizations.
Psychology Is Unique

"Psychology is unique," reports Dr. Albert Gilen, Head of the Department of Psychology. "It straddles the natural sciences, social sciences, and humanities. Psychology deals with a large variety of problems, thus there is confusion as to the nature of the discipline."

"UNI's Psychology Department strives to offer students strong training in the mainstream of American psychology within the context of a liberal arts education, as well as expose them to the methodology of psychology," states Dr. Gilgen. Career opportunities include work in medicine, teaching, business, counseling, and research. The department is staffed with both research and applied psychologists.
Social Work Now A Separate Department

Social Work has separated from the previous Department of Sociology, Anthropology, and Social Work. Under the head of Dr. Donald Maypole, the Department of Social Work strives to prepare students for beginning professional practice in social and health agencies and for graduate training.

To complete undergraduate studies, field work training is undertaken in local agencies. Seniors are placed with Schoitz General Hospital, the Black Hawk County Department of Social Services, Operation Threshold, county courts, and other local social and health agencies. During their placement, students receive supervision and assistance in working with their clients.

The UNI Department of Social Work is accredited by the Council on Social Work Education.
UNI Students Excavate At Yell City

A rich experience was shared by several UNI students who participated in the excavation at Yell City, an abandoned mill town on the banks of the Cedar River, in June of 1981. Serving, in part, as an archaeological fieldwork course, the dig encouraged the students to search for more information about the early settlement. Dr. John R. Cole headed the project, and a new site will be selected for next year.

A major and a minor in anthropology are available. Emphasis is placed on physical or biological anthropology, archaeology, or cultural anthropology.

In the field of sociology, graduates may choose to work as a teacher, family counselor, youth worker, case worker in welfare agencies, or employment counselor. Studies in sociology can also be used in preparation for a career in law, public relations, public opinion surveying, or probation agencies.
Graduates Continue Their Education At UNI

A variety of graduates from diverse perspectives choose to continue their education at UNI. Emphasis within the Graduate College rests on faculty research, graduate student studies and research, and service to the community.

Faculty exhibit a leading role in research projects ranging from biology, history, and psychology, to art and theater design. Among students, active research distinguishes graduates from undergraduates. Funding is contributed by the university, private or governmental agencies.

Expansion of the Doctorate degree in Industrial Arts in underway. Plans are to bring an Education Doctorate in April. UNI Graduate College also overlooks Academic Computing Services.
Study By Correspondence

Individual study through correspondence courses allows students to earn credit from UNI's Division of Extension and Continuing Education. This program is open to any student who meets admission requirements, including scholastically qualified high school seniors. Studies completed from selected courses in Colleges of Natural Science, Social and Behavioral Sciences, Humanities and the Fine Arts, and Education satisfy general education requirements.

A variety of courses and workshops provide credit and non-credit continuing education opportunities throughout the state. Each semester UNI professors, working through the division, travel to selected locations making the services of the university available to more Iowa citizens.

Included within the division is the Army ROTC (Reserve Officers Training Corps). Students under this program acquire leadership and management skills through university courses and enter into military service upon graduation. Currently 33 students are enrolled in Army ROTC at UNI.

Dynamic Scenery For UNI's Candide

UNI's musical version of Candide featured the use of an environmental setting. Ladders, ropes, bridges, and runways created a spectacularly festive and dynamic scenery for Voltaire's glob-trotting characters. A satire on optimism, the play revolves on the idea that everything that happens is for the best in the best of all possible worlds.

Above: Candide scours the world looking for the place that is truly the "Best Of All Possible Worlds".

Upper Right: Mark Henderson and Diane Sloan look forward to life and love in the UNI Lyric Theatre/Univ. production of Candide.

Arkansaw Bear Deals With Death

Theatre UNI presents an annual performance for young people. These are chosen especially to provoke the challenging thought to help enrich the minds of the young. This year's production of The Arkansaw Bear dealt with the subject of death.

In the play, the Arkansaw Bear comes to realize that life, like a circus, does not last forever. One learns that the best way to say goodbye is to keep on giving your best.

Shakespeare Set In The 1920’s

Much Ado About Nothing marked the end of the 1981 fall season. This Shakespearean drama reflected the role rumors play in determining human destiny.

Set in the 1920’s, the characters were not the only ones clothed in the dress of the era. A prize-winning contest for the audience encouraged many to sport 1920’s styles.

Growing Up In The '60's And '70's

Loose Ends, declared outstanding new play of 1979 by the American Theatre Critics Association, reflects growing up in the '60's and '70's. Action centers on the changing lives of young Americans and the problems they confront. Such controversial issues as abortion, homosexuality, divorce, and open marriage are brought into light.

Renowned Performers Visit UNI

Russell Auditorium was the setting for the 1981-1982 University of Northern Iowa Chamber Music Series. Visiting performers included the Juilliard String Quartet, flutist Carol Wincenc, classical guitarist Manuel Barrueco and the Audubon Quartet, all world-renowned attractions. Each year the UNI School of Music brings prominent musicians to Cedar Falls to perform.

Artists Series Hosts Special Events

This year's University of Northern Iowa Artists Series showcased five special events. These included the Vienna Choir Boys, the Goldovsky Grand Opera Theater's production of Don Giovanni by Mozart, the Swiss Mime Masque Theater "Mumenschanz", and solo performances by two young virtuosi: pianist Sergei Edelmann of Russia and violinist Cho-Liang Lin from Taiwan. The UNI Artist Series gives area patrons a chance to see the performances of artists from around the world.

Students Return To Campus

The official fall semester enrollment report stated that there were 10,954 students enrolled. Over 3,000 of those enrolled were new students. These enrollment figures are the second highest in the school's history. The campus buzzed with activity as students moved in.

REO Breaks A Dry Spell

The concert "dry spell" was finally over September second as REO Speedwagon walked onto the stage in the UNI-Dome in front of 22,000 screaming fans.

The concert-goers were constantly on their feet as REO played one hit after another, including songs from their latest album "Hi Infidelity" to old favorites such as "Riding The Storm Out".

As each new song began the crowd went wild as they recognized a familiar tune. Along with the top 40 favorites from "Hi Infidelity" REO also included numbers from an earlier album "Decade of Rock".

The long wait for a concert was worth it, REO Speedwagon had given it their all and the fans loved it.

Maucker Union: A Center Of Student Activity

The Maucker Union is always a center of activity for UNI students. Named after James W. Maucker, a former president of UNI, the Maucker Union is used for dancing, listening to bands, studying, eating, watching TV and feature movies, group meetings, cashing checks and just plain socializing among other things. The Union Policy Board sponsors events such as "Fun­tion" and the Christmas Tree Lighting Ceremony throughout the year. The Program Office offers such programs as Mini Courses and the Coffeehouse series.

"Heroes" Set As 1981 Theme

The theme for this year's Homecoming was "Heroes", and the UNI students celebrated in style.

Among the festivities, Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia sponsored "The Greatest American Variety Show" on Friday night, which ended with a snake dance to Latham Field for a bonfire and pep rally for the football players.

In keeping with tradition, there was mass campaniling at midnight to the music of carillonneur Bob Byrnes.

On Saturday, the Homecoming "Heroes" Parade, led by Grand Marshal Irene Eaton, "Ma Commons", fired up thousands of fans for the big game between UNI and Northern Michigan at the UNI-Dome. After the game students danced in University Hall.

Not only was it a busy weekend for the students, but also for the UNI Alumni, as Reunion Weekend was celebrated. Alumni from the classes of 1931, 1941, and 1956 were honored in a reunion gala dinner on Friday evening. The UNI Alumni Association put on an awards luncheon on Saturday, and the Alumni danced, cheered, and even went mass campaniling with the students.

Though the football team was defeated by Northern Michigan, the squad will always be "Heroes" to the UNI students and the Alumni, and "Homecoming '81" will be remembered as a celebration of the Panther Spirit.

UNI Celebrates "Octubafest"

UNI's chapter of the Tubist's Universal Brotherhood (T.U.B.A.) and Fritz Kaenzig, assistant professor of tuba euphonium, joined together to organize an "Octubafest" at UNI. The festival, a spin-off from the German Oktoberfest, ran Thursday, October 22 through Saturday, October 24.

Thursday and Friday featured student euphonium recitals and a performance by Brian Bowman, euphonium coordinator for T.U.B.A. The Union Policy Board and the UNI chapter of T.U.B.A. cooperatively sponsored "Beer, Bratwurst and Movies" on Saturday evening in University Hall of Maucker Union. Along with music by the UNI Tuba/Euphonium Ensemble and the film Blazing Saddles, students catered to beer, bratwurst and sauerkraut.

Masquerade
Madness

Goblins, ghosts, devils and many other indescribable creatures were out in force for this year's Halloween horrors. The masquerade festivities included the traditional drinking of the witch's brew. Those students not in costumes were the aliens who stood out in the crowd for the October 31st charades.

The Rolling Stones Rock The Dome

The rumors were true. The Rolling Stones were coming to UNI, though some fans didn’t believe it until the tickets were in their hands. Twenty-four thousand fans came to see the “Greatest Rock and Roll Act in the World” rock the UNI-Dome, and rock it they did with old favorites such as “Brown Sugar” and “Under My Thumb” mixed with selections from their latest album “Tattoo You”. Fans left a concert they will not soon forget with “Satisfaction”.

December Graduation Reinstated

Four hundred seventy-five students received their degrees at the first winter commencement ceremony to be held since January of 1970.

Alan E. Wright, of Belle Plaine, delivered the student address and thanked the university for reinstating fall graduation.

UNI President John J. Kamerick, who conferred degrees during the ceremonies, told the 1981 graduates an "important outcome of your education should be a strong resolution to continue to develop in knowledge and wisdom . . . "

1981 Christmas Festivities

Christmas activities in 1981 started on December 2 with the Union Policy Board's Tree Lighting Ceremony. President John J. Kamerick officiated in lighting the large evergreen outside of Maucker Union. Santa and his elves, members of the Panhellenic Council, handed out candy canes, while the University Chorus provided entertainment in singing Christmas carols.

The UNI Varsity Men's Glee Club presented its fourth annual Christmas Variety Show on December 4 and 5. Acts by the Men's Glee Club, as well as other UNI students, were performed before a fifteen foot Christmas tree bedecked with holiday trimmings.

This year's Muscular Dystrophy Dance Marathon theme was "Hold On Tight To Your Dreams, Superdance '82", and that's exactly what the 280 marathoners did, raising $22,513 for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. The fund-raising event lasted for 30 hours and included not only dancing, but hair cuts, eating an ice cream sundae made in a canoe, and a "Pie-in-the-eye" auction. The dance marathon was a big success not only for the dancers, but also for MDA.

Graduation
Honors Seniors

Five thousand parents, families and friends attended the 1982 Spring Commencement held in the UNI-Dome. This year's ceremony was the first time the graduates were given individual recognition by the reading of their names. Student speaker John D. McNamee of Cedar Falls told UNI students that graduation wasn't an end but a beginning to further progress. Featured speaker UNI President John J. Kamerick replaced scheduled speaker Harold Hughes who was undergoing surgery. Kamerick remarked on how McNamee was formerly with the firm who helped build the dome, the only person he knew of who “built a dome so he could give a speech in it”. He also remarked on the many predictions of doom and disaster for the planet Earth, but told UNI students, “Life will probably be a little better than you’ve been led to believe.”

One thousand twenty-nine students were candidates for B.A. degrees and seventy-five received their graduate degrees.

Springtime Comes To UNI

Nature comes out of hiding and so do UNI students when springtime arrives. The bright sunshine and warm weather make it hard to study indoors so UNI students bring the books outside to soak up knowledge and a little sun. Springtime at UNI holds an excitement all its own.

ORGANIZATIONS
Purple Arrow is an organization that confers honor where it is merited. The group promotes high standards of scholarship and community living by keeping as a guiding force the motto: Knowledge, Integrity, Loyalty.

In order to become a member of Purple Arrow, students must have a 3.25 grade point average for the first semester of their freshman or sophomore year for 16 or more semester hours. They need to maintain a 3.00 cumulative grade point, miss less than two meetings per year, and work one hour at the booksale to retain membership.

Some of the projects of the 1981-82 members include taking some underprivileged children from Waterloo trick-or-treating, sending Christmas cards and Valentines to residents of the Cedar Falls Health Care Center, collecting canned goods at Christmas to be distributed by Goodwill, helping Tomahawk with their campus-wide booksale in the fall and spring, sponsoring a club banquet for new pledges, sponsoring a pizza party for old and new members, and the awarding of two scholarships to actives who showed outstanding scholarship and involvement with the club and other organizations.

Tomahawk

Tomahawk is a National Honorary and Service Fraternity for students that aren’t affiliated with a social fraternity. To qualify as a candidate for membership, students must be in their sophomore year and have earned a 2.75 cumulative grade-point average. Tomahawk sponsored the used book sale held at the beginning of each semester in addition to other projects. A few projects undertaken this year include a Halloween Party for residents of the Lutheran Home and a rollerskating and pizza party for underprivileged children. Money was donated to the library and to the Iowa School for the Blind. Tomahawk also sponsored a Chinese child, Lin Chin-Yuan is 13 years old now. With his Christmas gift, he was able to buy shoes and a coat. There were also social activities for the members. This year there were pizza parties after each book sale, a wine and cheese Christmas party and a spring banquet to honor the activation of new pledges and to thank active members. Through its activities Tomahawk members hope to keep alive the spirit of dedication, service, and honor on the UNI campus.

Torch and Tassel is an honor society for students with 76-105 hours who have maintained a 3.3 grade point average. Those invited to join must be active in other activities and show outstanding ability in scholarship, leadership, and service. Their major service project this year was taking exceptional persons to the River Hills Gym for volleyball and games and then eating chili afterwards. Their money-making project was a raffle. This year they began the process of trying to get Torch and Tassel involved nationally.
Phi Alpha Theta and the UNI Historical Association are the two campus organizations which serve the interests of history students. The organizations sponsored an annual lecture series, guest speakers, panel discussions, trips to historic sites, picnics, and a book sale.

The Student Social Work Association is a relatively new organization with interest regenerated in 1980. As a member, one had the opportunity to become aware and involved in current issues that affect the social work profession, get acquainted with other social work students, explore social work careers, and have a greater impact on the development of the UNI Social Work department. In addition, one had the opportunity to participate in a variety of activities including community service projects, human service related workshops and conventions, field trips, student-faculty socials, and fund raisers.

Phi Beta Lambda (P.B.L.) is the largest national collegiate organization for all students with an interest in any phase of business. P.B.L. is structured on the local, state, and national level. Alpha chapter at the University of Northern Iowa is the oldest of the over 8,700 chapters in the world.

Some activities the UNI chapter participated in this year are community service projects, fund raisers, social events, and conferences in the state and nation.

Campbell Hall Senate is composed of 14 house presidents, two UNISA senators, two RHA representatives, a food service representative and four executives. They represented the residents in the hall government and sponsored many functions. Some of the activities in which the 1981-82 senate have been involved include: holiday events, welcome back and Christmas variety shows, a Christmas service project, movies, collecting pop tops for time on a kidney machine, and Y Beta Nunna night. They also ran a store in the main lounge and organized Sunday Suppers.
All students living in the nine residence halls were members of the UNI Residence Hall Association (RHA). RHA served as the student government body for those students living in the halls and dealt mainly with issues and events that directly affect the students. RHA wanted the students to use the residence halls as a constructive educational extension of the university. A few of the activities this year included a Hat Dance, sending two people to Loras College for an Alcohol Workshop, and sponsoring a hypnotist (after which the donations went to a charity). Making changes in the constitution in all the halls was also a major project.

The University of Northern Iowa Parents' Association has the following objectives: to serve UNI parents, to provide information and serve as Goodwill Ambassadors for the University's parents and students, to help plan and promote Parents' Weekend and to provide scholarships. The Board of Directors consists of 12 family units and meets twice a year on campus.

Each Peer Advisor worked with about 20 freshmen during the beginning of the fall semester and throughout the school year. This included a two-day workshop before classes started and weekly meetings after school began. The freshmen were helped mostly in the academic area. However, the program also aided the student in adjusting to college life. The Peer Advisors weren’t restricted to freshmen; they were available to any student who encountered problems during the year. One found the Peer Advisors always wearing a friendly smile, and having a willing spirit. If they couldn’t help someone, they found someone who could.
Immediately following graduation, each student becomes an Alumna/Alumnus of the University of Northern Iowa. Our Alumni Association was formed in June of 1897. The UNI Alumni Association is a separately incorporated association under the state laws of Iowa. It is an independent association of alumni devoted to the University. Membership fees are the principal source of revenues supporting programs and activities. The scope of these programs is directly dependent upon the number of alumni who choose their continuing affiliation with their University through the UNI Alumni Association. Joining the Alumni Association is an excellent way to keep in touch with Alma Mater and simultaneously participate in UNI’s future.

UNI's student newspaper, the Northern Iowan, was published Tuesdays and Fridays during the school year by a staff of about 30 people. The paper was distributed free at various points around campus. Volume 78 set advertising and lineage records, and the average number of pages per issue was also ahead of previous years.

The 1981-82 staff was committed to putting out a quality newspaper and spent many hours in the process. The major issue covered during the year was alleged mis-management and subsequent evaluation of UNI's Educational Opportunity Program.
The Old Gold, the UNI student yearbook, converted to fall delivery for the 1982 edition. Spring activities through graduation were included for the first time. Yearbooks were mailed directly from the factory to graduating seniors. Undergraduates picked up their yearbooks when they returned for fall 1982 classes. Seven photographers took all the candid shots for the Old Gold. Nine production staff workers wrote and typed copy and designed lay-outs. Staff members doubled as salespersons and office staff.

The Alpha Phi house is located at 1215 West 23rd Street. Some projects this year include raising money through their annual lollipop sale, car washes, and other fundraisers and then contributing these funds to the UNI Cardiac Rehabilitation Program. The Women's track team qualified the sprint medley relay team to participate in the Drake Relays. The members were: Karla Federspiel, Kathy Kenney, Chris Ropi, and Michelle Bohlken. New records set this season were: javelin-Joan Sexton, discus-Sue Anderson, shot put-Maren Seehusen, 400M dash-Micky Illingsworth, 800M run-J'ne Day, 10,000M run-Terri Leisinger, and the mile relay made up of Bohlken, Illingsworth, Karla Landers, and LeeAnn Jensen. The team also participated in the Mid-West Track Classic.

The men's track team, coached by Lynn King, earned a second place finish in the Mid-Continent Conference. Three indoor and three outdoor records were set during the season. Indoor records were: 5000M run-Doug Nelson, 3 mile-Doug Nelson, and 60M high hurdles-Craig Nordlie. Outdoor records were: long jump-Robert Williams, pole vault-Tim Jamerson, and hammer-Tom Reints.

The women's tennis team finished fifth of eight teams at the Minnesota Invitational to complete the season. "The competition was rough," commented coach Betty Swanson. She did see some improvement this season. The team ended its season with a 2-3 mark.

The men's tennis team compiled a 23-9 record and won the Mid-Continent Conference. Coach Pete Mazula boasted that the team accomplished both goals they had set at the beginning of the year. The first, to win the MCC title and the second to win 75% of their games. He felt that the team peaked at a good time in the season, the week-end the conference meet was held.

The women's golf team competed primarily against division I schools. Although their placings in tournaments were low, Coach Jeanette Marsh felt that the team did quite well. The team won Regionals and went on to Nationals as a team rather than individuals. This team was the best UNI has had and Coach Marsh is expecting a better showing next season.

The men's golf team finished second in the Big 4 meet and then won two of the next three tournaments. Senior Larry Gladson earned a medal by scoring an even par of 140 as UNI won the William Penn Invitational. Junior Lynn Toenges, meet medalist, placed UNI to an impressive 18 stroke victory at the UNI-Wartburg Invitational over 14 teams. UNI finished second in the MCC tournament. The team was coached by Ken Green.

The UNI women's softball team completed its season placing fourth of sixteen teams in the AIAW Division II tournament. Although the team was eliminated earlier than they'd have liked to, Coach Meredith Bakley felt that they had a very successful season. As the season progressed, the defense improved remarkably, but offensively the team didn't always come through.

The men's baseball team completed its finest season ever compiling a school record-26 wins and breaking five team hitting marks. Team records broken were: runs scored (253), base hits (282), runs-batted-in (223), team batting average (.306), and doubles (57). Coach J.D. Anderson felt that the off-season strength program definitely showed some results. Coach Anderson predicts that with the same kind of intensity and confidence from the team members, the 1982 season should also be successful.

The Northern Iowa Panthers completed their season sharing the Mid-Continent Conference title with Eastern and Western Illinois, and holding a 5-6 overall record. This was their fourth season in the MCC and their first in division I-AA. The Panthers set 25 new school records and tied four others. Senior quarterback Steve Sandon and senior split end Ken Harvey led the squad in records broken. Sandon set 12 game, season, and career records for passes attempted, completed, intercepted, yards gained passing, total offense attempts, yards gained total offense, and touchdown passes thrown. He tied the school record for touchdown passes thrown in a single game. Sandon set 12 game, season, and career records for passes attempted, completed, intercepted, yards gained passing, total offense attempts, yards gained total offense, and touchdown passes thrown. He tied the school record for touchdown passes thrown in a single game. Harvey set five school marks in: passes caught, touchdowns scored, and points scored. Senior tailback Kelly Ellis, place-kicker Steve Schonert, and junior flanker Craig Nordlie also set new marks. Ellis set records in career rushing attempts and yards gained rushing in his career. Schonert set marks in extra points scored and field goals. Nordlie tied the record for the longest kickoff return, 100 yards during the UNI-Drake game. Team records set this year include passes attempted in a game and season, passes completed this season, touchdowns scored by pass, and first downs by pass.

Captains for the Panthers were: Seniors Jerry Griffith, Ellis, Harvey, Sandon, and juniors Joe Anderson and John Root. Harvey was given the “Paw” Award for the highest offensive point total. Anderson received the “Hammer” Award for the highest defensive point total. Most improved player awards went to senior offensive guard Scott Hamilton and senior defensive end Renaldo Cade. Griffith, a defensive end, received the “Oil Can” Award for team leadership. Griffith was also named to the COSIDA Academic All American Honorable Mention team.

Many of this year’s team members received conference awards. Sandon was named “Player of the Year” by the MCC. Griffith was named to the Academic All Conference team. Named to the first all conference team were: Junior Roger Schultz, Harvey, Sandon, Schonert, and Root. Named to the second all conference team were: sophomore Kirk Hobbs, Hamilton, Griffith, and Anderson.

The UNI women's volleyball team completed its most successful season in school history with an impressive 40-8-3 mark. Highlights of the season include winning the Central Missouri State Invitational, the UNI Invitational, and the IAIAW Division II Championship. The team then went on to place third in the AIAW Region 6 tournament. This finish was not high enough to qualify them for Nationals. Although they were not selected, they were considered for an at-large bid into the National tournament. The team loses only two letterwinners, returning a strong team which could threaten the school record of 40 wins. Head Coach Irandge Ahrabi-Fard was delighted with the improvement the girls had made and in their desire to play the best that they could. The captains for this team were: junior Julie Powers and senior Kate Witte.

FIELD HOCKEY

The UNI women’s field hockey team completed its season by finishing fifth of five teams in the AIAW Region 6 division II Championship held in the UNI-Dome. The overall record for the year was 4-15. The team was young and inexperienced having only 6 of 14 returning players from the previous year. Leading scorers for the team were junior Laurie Magee and sophomore Lynn Herder with 10 and 7 goals respectively. Coach Wanda Green felt that the squad improved throughout the season and played well at Regionals.

Stacy Miller was a very dedicated runner. She loved to run and had strong faith in God. The love she felt from God poured into every part of her life and spilled over to touch everyone she came in contact with. Stacy could have bragged about her accomplishments in athletics but instead she kept her success in close perspective willing to turn over her success to the one whom she believed gave her that success.

The women's cross country team was very strong this year. They may have had a chance at going to Nationals as a team. On October 17 the van carrying the team to the Mid-West Open hosted by Drake University in Des Moines was involved in a car accident. Sophomore Stacy Miller was killed in this accident and two of the top five runners, Kim Kaiser and Karla Federspail were injured seriously enough to keep them from completing the season. With only five team members, instead of the usual seven, the team ended the season defeating 41 of the 58 teams they ran against, and placed fifth of ten teams at Regionals. Two team members, senior Kris Skov and freshman Sandy Elsberry qualified for Nationals. Skov placed 35th and Elsberry placed 86th at Nationals. “We had the best team we’ve ever had,” said Coach Sharon Huddleston. “Everyone was shooting for Nationals. If we would have had a full team at Regionals there is no doubt we would have taken a full team to Nationals.”

The UNI men's cross country team ended its 1981 season with an 11th place finish at the NCAA District V Cross Country Championships. Although the team finished last in its conference, Coach Lynn King stated that "the district was one of the toughest in the nation." Senior Doug Nelson placed 18th in the National Meet clocking a 31:42.

The team earned first place at the Bearcat Invitational and placed 2nd at the Big Four Meet. The end of the season the team placed 5th of 10 teams at the TFA-USA Nationals.
Three UNI wrestlers earned All-American honors this season. They were Ken Gallagher (142), Joe Gormally (177), and Kirk Myers (190). Gallagher became an All-American for the fourth time in his career. The panthers finished tenth in the NCAA Wrestling Championships. The team earned a 15-2 dual mark including wins over Nebraska (27-10), Lehigh (23-18), and Missouri (27-11). Coach Chuck Patten was named NCAA Coach of the Year. Coach Patten has coached the Panthers for seventeen consecutive years.

Missouri State in the consolation round giving them a third place finish in the Regional Tournament. Team members filling the role of team captain were: Tami Schebler, Deb Drenth, Betty Davis, Lisa Geske, and Carol Hogen. All members of the team return. They placed fourth of ten teams at the Wisconsin-River Falls Invitational. Some of the team members are expected to qualify for Nationals which will be held May 20-22.
The UNI men’s track team has had a successful season. The team won the Western Illinois Quad, and placed second of ten teams at the Northwest Missouri Invitational. UNI tied for second in the Iowa Intercollegiate Big 4 meet held at ISU. Going into the Conference meet, Coach Lynn King’s strategy was to aim for the top spots in each event and as many other positions as possible. UNI went on to win the Conference title.

Intramurals are popular at UNI. Over 5000 students participated in at least twenty different leagues and tournaments. The busy intramural calendar includes flag football, softball, volleyball, basketball, track events, badminton, table tennis, swimming, tennis, racquetball, wrestling, bowling, golf and weight-lifting. Don Eurusha, Director of Intramurals, stated that team sports are most popular with students. Campus Recreation, a division of the Health, Physical Education and Recreation Department, organizes intramural sports.

Chablis wins over the combined forced of Aphroditte and Sundance in the first round of football play-offs. Flag football was well-received by UNI co-eds this year.

Basketball was the most popular intramural event in 1982. Over 200 three on three teams competed. The teams were divided into three leagues by skill level. A free-throw contest and a one-on-one league were also offered.

Physically and population-wise, Bartlett deserved the distinguished reputation of being not only the oldest, but the most unique residence hall. Bartlett housed most of the out-of-state and foreign students, a large majority of grads and most of the older under-graduates.

Creating pride in the hall and houses to let others know about Bartlett's "specialness" reflected the main goal for the staff.

Bartlett, the only hall open year around, reported no problems with crowding.

General Hospital catches the attention of Bartlett residents in the main lounge.
Bender sported a new store this year which was like a dream come true after having been "in the workings" for two years. The two main items sold were pop and frozen pizzas. Designed for student benefit, a small three to four cent profit margin covered the cost and operating expenses only.

Activities in Bender included Elite Days (a type of wacky olympics) and the second annual Christmas Music Week. The houses also painted murals in their lounges.

The residents of Bender showed enthusiasm and caring according to Manny Amaro, hall coordinator. He added that the students seemed more responsible this year. "It's excellent; I hope it's a trend," he concluded.

Bender boasted a low turnover rate with about 70% return.

Creating a new image for Campbell Hall topped Campbell's list of goals for the year. "U Betta Nunna", a joint effort by the Hall Senate and RA staff, was the result of much time and effort and the object of good publicity, including tours and a presentation about Campbell to help get rid of the "nunnery" label. A successful dance and a follow-up in the form of a skit at the fall Variety Show concluded the campaign. According to the new hall coordinator, Sonya Neely, "the neat thing about the dance was that it was well-received without having alcohol as a motivator."

Mark McGuire, Dancer's new hall coordinator, believes UNI has much to be proud of concerning their residence hall living.

McGuire described 12-story Dancer as an active, cohesive residence hall with many of the usual problems associated with high rise campus dwellings.

Their schedule of events revealed activities such as food service programs like a jazz sit-down dinner and once-a-month birthday parties. Dancer Days (a week of Olympic activities) and a Haunted House highlighted the year.

Since co-ed Dancer held only 30 triples, it carried the distinction of the first residence hall to be de-tripled on campus.

"Hagemann is pepping up and coming alive," a neighboring hall coordinator commented. Much of the credit for this change went to the new hall coordinator, Nancy Voelz.

The female residence hall calendar looked very busy with some major activity almost every month. Activities included freshman skits, Homecoming lounge decorating contest, formal with Rider and "Little Siblings Weekend" in the spring.

Goals cited for the year included making the study rooms more attractive and functional places to work to allow residents an alternative to going to the library.

Lawther personalities ranged from “wild and crazy to quiet and determined” according to Janice Kurtovich, the new hall coordinator.

Their calendar included many well-attended programs. Concerned not only with the social aspect of life but the educational part as well, the programs involved topics such as: independence, budgeting money, foods, resumes, hypnosis, relaxing, a film on loving, a Culture House presentation, and a contraceptive program.

A Do-Do bird hunt (to get acquainted with the area), Anna B. Day which consists of competitive games among the houses, a Halloween Spook House and a (root) Beer and Beef Dinner (a smorgasboard with Commons, Campbell and the Towers) portrayed some of Lawther’s variety of activities.

Noehren Hall

Leslie Sheridan, hall coordinator of two years, said that Noehren was really not like a co-ed hall because of the separation of the men’s and women’s wings. She also commented that the hall residents this year seemed more responsible than last year’s. Working toward a fun living environment characterized Noehren’s main goal.

Physical changes in store for the year included making the rec room into a utilized place and remodeling the Bridge Lounge into a “homey” study area.

Irvin Emig, hall coordinator of three years, described Rider Hall as “surprisingly quiet and not real active” for an all male residence hall. He attributed this to “resident’s maturity”. Rider also tends to have a low turnover rate; once men move in, they tend to stay all four years. Even though the hall’s population consisted of about one third to one half freshmen, no problems with crowding developed and de-tripling was completed by the second week of the academic year.

Rider welcomed spring with a formal dance with Hagemann Hall.

Shull made some changes with their new hall coordinator, Norbert Dunkel. Along with repainting and adding some carpet, Dunkeo concentrated on staff rapport since "good staff relations help reinforce good student relations" with the staff.

Shull is characterized as an "at home" residence hall. SHE (Shull Hall Escorts) helped give them that reputation. This service benefited Shull as well as all ladies on campus. The well publicized escort service made the media scene by being covered on TV, radio, in the Des Moines Register besides campus publicity. The new service received seven to eight calls per night.

Married students and single parents are eligible to live in University Family Housing. All apartments must be occupied by the registered student and his or her immediate family. Family Housing is available to any family in which one member is enrolled for a minimum of ten undergraduate hours or six graduate hours. Over 400 units are available for rates lower than off-campus. This will be the last year for the South Courts.

In June of 1981 UNISA requested that the parietal rule be lifted for freshman as well as renewed for sophomores. This would mean that everyone in the dormitories could choose to live off-campus. A committee surveyed students, staff and faculty and discovered that a majority were in favor of having the rule lifted. Students cited noise, lack of privacy and expense as reasons for moving out of the dormitories. The Board of Regents has approved the suspension of the parietal rule for both freshman and sophomores on a trial basis until 1983.

Another year has swiftly passed by, although at times it seemed as if the end would never appear. It is my hope, and that of the entire OLD GOLD staff that you may enjoy this book now and in years to come in reminiscing of the 1981-82 academic year at UNI. I would like to use this space to thank those who made possible the 1982 OLD GOLD.

A tremendous amount of credit is due to a talented and devoted staff, the driving force of which was our OLD GOLD Coordinator, Karen Mills. Her enthusiasm and motivation helped inspire in us all, especially in those too frequent times of frustration, the desire to put forth so many countless hours and energies into the production of this book. She's the one who saw to the completion of the book in late May, when the rest of us escaped for the summer, and if I may add a special note, the pizza parties were delicious. A big “thank-you” is in line for photographers Chris Norman, Laurie Cruikshank, Birdie Kramer, Jeff Kaplan, Jeanne Butters, Sue Kohl, and Liz Costas for their great pictures and top-notch ID's. Your photos make the book. Much appreciation is in order for Mike Link and Michelle Clarken. Mike for meeting our seemingly incessant demands for prints and Michelle for so often freeing me from my favorite task of copywriting. Thanks also to Ronda Tokle for living section copy. I thank editors Christy Stewart, Mindy Vana, and Doreen Meinders for their fine contributions; Linda Riniker, and all others for their help with the index and typing.

Nonetheless, putting together a yearbook involves more than just the staff. We would like to thank Bill Witt and Public Information Services, Sports Information, Bill Oakes, Chuck Holley, Jim Humphrey, Dennis Bole, Robert Byrnes, Ross Nielsen, Glenn Hansen, John Volker, organizations, advertisers, and all others not previously mentioned for their cooperation and support.

Being a member of the OLD GOLD staff has been a rewarding experience, and one I plan to repeat. As for the future, the more effort put forth into the OLD GOLD, the bigger and better it will become.
