GLOBAL HEALTH CORPS

The Global Health Corps was founded in the Division of Health Promotion and Education at the University of Northern Iowa in 1996. The mission of the Global Health Corps is to train university students in conducting culturally-appropriate public health programs with underserved and diverse communities in the United States and abroad, thereby improving the well-being of at-risk populations through disease prevention and health promotion.

DIVISION OF HEALTH PROMOTION AND EDUCATION

Within the School of Health, Physical Education, and Leisure Services at the University of Northern Iowa, the Division of Health Promotion and Education includes a diverse faculty working in various disciplines of public health, epidemiology, and health education. The overriding mission of the Division is to educate health educators, health professionals, and scientists to improve the health and well-being of individuals and populations.

UNIVERSITY OF NORTHERN IOWA

The University of Northern Iowa is one of three state-supported universities in the Iowa Regents system. A campus-wide commitment to putting students first lies at the heart of the University of Northern Iowa's reputation for providing exceptional education for its students. Building on its historic excellence in teacher education, the university has developed outstanding programs in business, natural sciences, humanities and fine arts, and social and behavioral sciences. The university places strong emphasis on experiential learning, and has many opportunities for international study. UNI prides itself on providing a student-centered educational experience, and is ranked as one of the best colleges and universities in the midwestern United States.
