MYLE DUONG plans to graduate in May of 2017 with a degree in Global Business and a minor in International Business. This is her fourth year working in the library. She works as a building monitor in Access Services and previously worked with the Student Technology Fee and Public Relations Committees.

In response to being asked why she loves working here, she said, “I love the atmosphere of this library and the people I work with; they are one of the reasons I love coming to work every day. It feels like home to me.”

Myle is a great example of student success here at the Rod Library and UNI. Myle hopes to get a job at a university to recruit higher education or business administration.

ANGIE COX was hired as Instruction and Liaison Librarian for Rod Library in the fall of 2015. Her role here at Rod Library and UNI is to teach library instruction and serve as a liaison between UNI faculty/classes and services of Rod Library.

Angie has been employed at Rod Library for 13 years. She began as a student assistant and worked her way to become a full-time employee in January of 2009. Angie recently completed her Masters in Library Science degree from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee and currently is in her second year as a faculty librarian. Angie is passionate about helping people succeed and the role libraries play in academic success, which is reflected in her research interest of recruitment, retention and academic achievement.

When asked what she loves most about her role at Rod Library and UNI, she said, “I love connecting with students and faculty on a one-on-one level where I can get to know them, and help them get through areas when they are stuck.” Getting to see students have “aha” moments in their learning is especially among Angie’s favorite moments.

Angie’s hard work and dedication to Rod Library and UNI is another great example of dedicated staff and faculty members committed to making UNI a success.

MESSAGE FROM THE DEAN

What an amazing year! We opened the new Makerspace and ScholarSpace funded by external grants. Our instruction sessions and research consultations were at an all-time high. Rod Library joined the Open Textbook Network, supporting the development of free online textbooks to reduce student debt. We moved to Alma, a new system which will allow us to work more collaboratively with Iowa and Iowa State and improve library workflows and patron information discovery. And we were the winner of the 2016 Gale Cengage Learning Financial Development Award for our successful crowdfunding campaign which resulted in the purchase of a Microsoft Surface Hub.

How do you top that? Well, as always, we listen to our users and work to continue to meet the challenges and embrace the opportunities presented to us. We hope that this will be the year we get the go ahead to begin planning a renovation of the Rod Library building. We’ve made many improvements to the building over the last five years, but the mechanical systems are in desperate need of replacement. We’ll be hiring new faculty – a new Business Librarian and Special Collections Coordinator and University Archivist. We’ll continue to strengthen our commitment to diversity and inclusion, working to diversify our staff and our collections, and guaranteeing the library is a welcoming place for everyone. We’ll begin the process to align our current strategic plan with that of the University’s and develop metrics to ensure that we are accomplishing the goals we have committed to. Finally, we are developing initiatives to better document how we contribute to the University’s goals through analysis of library use as it correlates to student recruitment, retention, and success.

Here’s to another great year!

Chris Cox, Dean | Rod Library
