Religion as a Gendered Tool of Spanish Colonialism in Equatorial Guinea [poster]

University of Northern Iowa. Women's and Gender Studies Program

Recommended Citation
https://scholarworks.uni.edu/wgs_documents/59

This Poster is brought to you for free and open access by the Women's and Gender Studies Program at UNI ScholarWorks. It has been accepted for inclusion in Women's and Gender Studies Program Documents by an authorized administrator of UNI ScholarWorks. For more information, please contact scholarworks@uni.edu.
Religion as a Gendered Tool of Spanish Colonialism in Equatorial Guinea

Presented by Heather Jerónimo
November 6
12:00 PM
Rod Library
Room 287

Heather Jerónimo is an Assistant Professor of Spanish in the Department of Languages & Literatures. She specializes in 20th and 21st-century Spanish literature and film, with particular focus on topics of gender, sexuality, and non-normative familial relationships. Her presentation will examine the relationship between religion and gender during the Spanish colonization of Equatorial Guinea through an analysis of images in the magazine La Guinea Española produced by Spanish Jesuits living in Equatorial Guinea.