Notes For The Stalled

Frederick Douglass Human Rights Festival

The Frederick Douglass Power of Words Festival honors his legacy as an American social reformer, abolitionist, orator, writer and statesman. UNI invites you to consider connections between contemporary human rights struggles and Frederick Douglass's work on behalf of nineteenth-century African Americans, women's and immigrants' rights. Experience the campus collaboration to showcase human rights and social justice in different mediums. At Rod Library you find artwork, curated by UNI students, from the UNI Gallery of Art on the Learning Commons Exhibition Wall in addition to several exhibits showcasing text related to Frederick Douglass' life and American history of human rights and social justice. Rod Library is also hosting a Human Rights Wikipedia Edit-a-thon on Friday, September 21 from 12-5pm. For more information and a schedule of events visit <https://frederickdouglassfest.uni.edu>.

Museum Exhibit
Opens

Cultural Impressions Exhibit

Ceramics have fulfilled a variety of needs throughout human history. From simple cooking implements to creative expressions of identity, clay has played an important role in expressing who we are. With the opening of its latest exhibit,

Cultural Impressions: Identities Molded in Clay, the UNI Museum will explore the relationships between ceramics, culture, and individual identity. Cultural markers such as gender, class, and individual identity are all connected and help shape the importance of ceramics throughout the world. Cultural Impressions will look at a large range of ceramics and examine how cultures directly represent themselves through their pottery and how ceramics have been a forum for cultural expression and change. Aldo Leopold Lecture Series

The Aldo Leopold Distinguished Lecture Series will engage the University of Northern Iowa community, providing opportunities throughout the academic year to interact with a dynamic set of visiting speakers focusing on our relationship with the natural world. This year we welcome Dr. Jennifer Lowry, MD, Elizabeth Kolbert, Dr. Karen Oberhauser and Terry Tempest Williams on campus. For details about their discussions visit <https://guides.lib.uni.edu/leopold-lectures>.
