Notes For The Stalled

UNI Common Read

Stop by the new display by the Book Bistro highlighting the UNI Common Read for 2018-2019, Lou Sullivan: Daring to be a Man Among Men. Lou Sullivan was a trailblazing transgender man, who revolutionized our understanding of sexuality, gender, and sex. The display features many different materials that the library offers on the study of transgender identity and the personal stories of those who identify as transgender, including movies, books, and academic articles. Also featured are resources from around campus that may be helpful to transgender people, such as housing, medical information, and support groups.

Family Weekend

On Saturday Nov 3 from 10 a.m.-Noon for Family Weekend activities. Stop by for a tour of the Library with the Rod Library Ambassadors. Join us in the Makerspace for coloring and Lego building. Special Collections will have a Petting Zoo for an up close, hands-on exploration of rare books and archive material. Visit the UNI Museum's exhibit "Cultural Impressions: Identities Molded in Clay" with objects from both the UNI Museum and the UNI Gallery of Art. Stop in to view the UNI Military and Veteran Services Photo Exhibit on the Main floor. We hope to see you here!

Gallery Talk

On November 7 at 4:30 p.m., "Inspired by Nature, Influenced by Trade" will be opening at the UNI Museum on the 1st floor of Rod Library with a gallery talk by student curator Emily Shroeder. This exhibit is an extension of UNI Museum's Cultural Impressions: Identities Molded in Clay exhibit, and it explores Sioux and Meskwaki identity in material culture.

Taste of Culture

The International Students and Scholars Office is hosting a Taste of Culture Fair from 4 to 6 p.m., Monday, Nov. 12, in the Learning Commons at Rod Library, to celebrate International Education Week. Learn about different countries, try food samples, see live performances and win door prizes. This event is free and open to the public.

Veteran and Military Photo Exhibit

A photo exhibit honoring UNI's service members and veterans will be on display during November inside Rod Library. The photographs depict students, staff, faculty, and family who have served in the United States Armed Forces. Everyone is invited to take time and view the exhibit. A comment box is available for everyone to leave a message.
