DISCUSSION SESSION

HEATHER JERÓNIMO is an Assistant Professor of Spanish in the Department of Languages & Literatures. She specializes in 20th and 21st-century Spanish literature and film, with particular focus on topics of gender, sexuality, and non-normative familial relationships.

María lives with her three children and 80-year-old father, Agustín. It's a struggle for her to make ends meet and to juggle all of her commitments. Agustín has periods of lucidity, but his mental deterioration is such that María explores the possibility of his either living with another relative or moving into some kind of care facility. When both of these options seem impossible, María makes a drastic decision.
