Scholarship monies for women athletes were made available for the first time in 1978 in accordance with Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women regulations. Student-athletes interested in receiving an athletic scholarship in track should contact Sandra Williamson, associate athletic director for women, or Head Coach Carol Gruber. UNI's women's track and field team competes in Division II of the AIAW structure, which provides for 50 percent of the maximum athletic aid allowable by the AIAW.
First-year Head Coach Carol Gruber welcomes back 13 athletes off last year's squad, with five of the 13 having advanced to the finals in last season's regional championships held in Emporia, KS. Headlining the returnees are Tracy Wentzien, Deb Schmeling, Paula Vanderbeek and LeAnn Erickson. Wentzien was a member of the 880 medley relay team which placed fifth at the regionals, along with teammates Schmeling and Sumner. Vanderbeek placed eighth of 24 entrants in the 3000-meters and Wentzien also placed sixth in the 200-meters. Erickson qualified for the regionals last year in the javelin.

Gruber feels the Panthers' strongest area will be in the distances, where freshman Terri Leisinger will be running the one- and two-mile events, along with junior Shirley Walker. Leisinger broke this year's regional qualifying time by 45 seconds in the two-mile in her first time trial in early practice.

The weakest events for the Panthers will be in the throws where there is a lack of depth. Janelle McBride most likely will be entered in the shot put, with Erickson tossing the javelin.

Gruber says that with some strong high school experience under their belts and excellent conditioning early in the year, she expects the Panthers to be setting and breaking over and over again personal records and that several of the distance runners should qualify for regionals. She is sure that the high jumpers, 60-yd. hurdlers, ½-milers, the 220-yd. dashers and two-mile runners will break the standing UNI-Dome records. These athletes will have an opportunity to do just that when UNI hosts an indoor invitational in the UNI-Dome March 10.

"We got a lot of young, untrained talent," Gruber says, "but most have had some high school experience. It will be a building year for us. But I think we're up to it."

CAROL GRUBER

Carol Gruber joined the UNI faculty in the fall of 1978, replacing Sharon Huddleston as head volleyball and track and field coach, who left to work on her doctorate. She is a native of Long Beach, CA, and she received her bachelor's degree from California State University in 1975. Prior to joining UNI's staff, she was doing graduate work at the University of Southern California-Los Angeles. Gruber's coaching background includes assistant track and field coach at Whittier College in California and head volleyball coach for the California State University Girls' Sports Camp. She took UNI's volleyball team to the regional playoffs this past winter.
