Contributors

Phyllis Baker is Professor of Sociology and Director of Women's and Gender Studies. Her areas of interest include gender, qualitative methods, sports, and women in science, math, and technology teaching.

Harry Brod is Professor of Philosophy and Humanities. His research interests include Gender Studies, Jewish Studies, social and political philosophy, humanities, history of philosophy, applied ethics, feminism, and Hegel.

April Chatham-Carpenter is Associate Professor of Communication Studies and Graduate Program Director for Communication Studies. Her current research projects investigate intrapersonal and interpersonal communication issues in the areas of women and self-esteem as well as the recovery process from an eating disorder, such as anorexia.

Maureen Clayton is Associate Professor of Biology, the Director of Environmental Programs, and the Director of the ATEEC Fellows Institute. Her current research interests include the sublethal effects of contaminants in aquatic ecosystems.

Scharron Clayton is Associate Professor of Ethnic and Cultural Studies. Her research interests include African-American culture, human relations, and ethnic studies.

Victoria DeFrancisco is a Professor of Communication Studies. Her research interests include gender, intercultural communication, feminist theory and pedagogy, and interpersonal interaction.

Matt Foy was a Master’s student in Communication Studies.

Jeffrey Funderburk is Professor for Tuba and Euphonium. He has authored numerous articles for music magazines and was an Assistant Editor of "The Tuba Source Book", published by Indiana University Press.

Samuel L. Gladden is Associate Professor of English and the Coordinator of Graduate Studies in English. Dr. Gladden teaches a variety of courses in nineteenth-century British literature and literary theory.

Gloria Gibson is Professor of Communication Studies and Executive Vice President and Provost. Professor Gibson’s interests include ethnomusicology, folklore, and Afro-American and African Studies.

Joel Haack is Professor of Mathematics and Dean of the College of Natural Sciences. He has been active in the history of mathematics community and pursues connections between mathematics and the arts and humanities.
Helen Harton is Professor of Psychology, the Graduate Funding Coordinator, the Social Area Coordinator, and the Vice-Chair of IRB. Her research is primarily in the area of attitude change and social influence.

Laura Jackson is Professor of Biology. Her two main areas of research in conservation biology include restoration ecology and sustainable agriculture.

Kurt Meredith is Associate Professor and Interim Assistant Provost for International Programs. He received his Ph.D. in Psychology from the University of Iowa, his Ed.S., M.A. from James Madison University and his B.A. from the University of Southern Maine.

Maria del Pilar Montoya was a Master’s student in Communication Studies.

Pierre-Damien Mvuyekure is Professor of English. His areas of specialty are 19th-century American literature, African American literature and literary theory, African literature, multicultural literature, postcolonial theory and literatures, African diaspora literatures.

Gabriela Olivares-Cuhat is Assistant Professor of Spanish. Her research interests include at risk students, individual variables and language acquisition, second language acquisition and learning strategies.

Catherine Palczewski is Professor of Communication Studies and Core Faculty Member of the Women’s and Gender Studies Program. Her research specialties include rhetorical theory and criticism, feminist theory and criticism, political communication, social movements, and argumentation theory.

Kent Sandstrom is Professor and Head of the Department of Sociology, Anthropology and Criminology. His areas of specialty include social psychology, sociology of emotions, medical sociology, political sociology, and qualitative methods.

Donna Schumacher-Douglas is Associate Professor of Curriculum and Instruction and Coordinator of the 2+2 Elementary Education Programs. She received her Ph.D. from Florida State University.

Paul J. Siddens III is Associate Professor in the Department of Communication Studies and Faculty Designer and Technical Director for the UNI Interpreters Theatre. He is professionally trained and experienced in technical theatre and as an arts administrator, producer, director, writer, adapter, and actor.

Ira Simet is Associate Professor of Biochemistry. His research interests include amylose synthesis from sucrose by oral bacteria and multiple forms of DNA polymerase alpha in embryonic chicken brain.

Marybeth C. Stalp is Associate Professor of Sociology. Her research interests include gender, culture, leisure, and qualitative methods. She generally focuses on the intersection of gender and culture in contemporary society.

Duong Trong Hue was a Master’s student in Communication Studies.
Kyle G. Wilson was a Graduate Student in the Department of English Language and Literature.

Tanna White was a Master’s student in Communication Studies.

Donna Wood is David W. Wilson Chair of Business Ethics and Professor of Management, Philosophy & Religion. Her research interests include Business ethics, global business citizenship, corporate social responsibility and performance, stakeholder theory.

Kaori Yamada was a Master’s student in Communication Studies.

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivatives 4.0 International License.