WINTER ON THE CAMPUS

A time for skating on Prexy's Pond, a time for the bright shine of varicolored bulbs on campus evergreens, the tree-lighting ceremony, the singing of Christmas carols, The Messiah, the Christmas supper—truly a busy, exciting time to be in college.

Students to Tour Mexico, S. America

An extensive trip into Mexico and South America is being planned by the ISTC social science department next summer, under the direction of Dr. Louis Bultena, associate professor of sociology.

Juniors, seniors, and graduate students accepted for the tour will receive six hours credit. Others may enroll by permission on an auditing basis.

Activities start June 15 with a three-day briefing session, to be held at the college, covering such subjects as geography, history, and cultural heritage. On the 19th, the students will fly to Mexico City for the first leg of the tour.

Here, tour members will visit the Federal Palace, the Museum of Archeology and Anthropology, the Castle of Chalpul-tepec, and the Metropolitan Cathedral.

Other stops on the Mexican agenda include Morelia, a colonial-type city; the quaint village of Patzcuaro, the cathedral and Governor's Palace in Guadalajara, the ancient Aztec village of Tepozteco, Taxco, the oldest mining town in North America, and Fortin de las Flores, a small resort center.

Upon completion of the Mexican phase of the tour, the group will fly to Panama City on July 2.

Other cities and places to be visited in South America include the theater and ballet in Bogota, Columbia; the Indian markets and the United States Embassy in Quito, Ecuador; Iquitos, a jungle town on the Amazon River, and the University of San Marcos in Lima, Peru, the oldest university in the western hemisphere. A side trip will be made from Lima to Cuzco and Macchu-Picchu, sites of the old Inca capital which was built in a remote valley of the Andes 11,700 feet above sea level.

After the completion of the tour on Aug. 1, the group will hold a week-long general summary session on the TC campus. Slides will be shown at Dr. Bultena's home on the last evening of the session. He will be assisted on the tour by his son, Gordon, a TC graduate who is currently a graduate assistant in sociology and anthropology at the University of Minnesota.

Those interested in joining the tour must file applications with the college registrar by April 1. The cost will be $900 plus $65 tuition for undergraduates and $900 plus $75 tuition for graduate students. The figures include all lodging on the TC campus and on the tour, insurance, meals at TC, and all but two side trips. Students must purchase their own passports ($5) and meals.

Action Needed on Budget Requests

Dear Alumni and Friends of ISTC:

Your college has a problem. It is not alone the problem of ISTC but a problem for the other two state institutions for higher education as well—the State University, and Iowa State College. The problem has several facets. But each one comes down chiefly to this: how may we convince the people of Iowa and their elected representatives that the needs of these institutions immediately and in the years just ahead are critical needs.

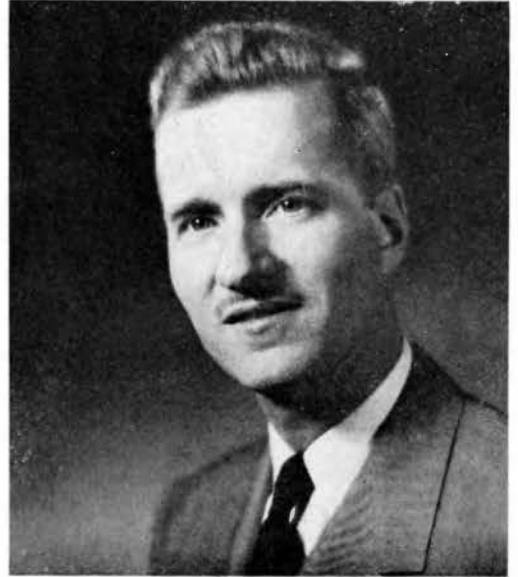

We need to improve salaries to compete with other institutions in the country for outstanding teaching and administrative talent. We need buildings to take care of presently increasing enrollments. Above all we need to get ready for the increased numbers of students who will want college training in the years just ahead. To do this last job we need an orderly year-by-year method of financing building construction.

Salaries

Let's first consider salaries. The last general assembly made a very significant contribution to better our relative position, salary-wise, with other institutions with whom we must compete. However, at the same time these generous appropriations were made and salaries at the college were increased, other states made similar salary increases. Thus, we now find ourselves in about the same relative position as two years ago. We think it imperative that we be enabled to make salary increases for teaching staff averaging about 15 per cent.

Construction

As you know, building construction has been at a standstill for the past two years at all three state institutions. Because of disagreement between the governor and the legislature regarding methods of financing, the appropriation made by the legislature was vetoed, and we have had no building funds whatsoever during this two year period.

Meanwhile, if we take a quick look at what Iowa has been doing for the last ten or twelve years in the matter of expenditures for buildings and compare this with states immediately surrounding us we find that Iowa has simply not gotten the job done. Iowa is at the bottom of the list in per capita investment in building construction for higher education. Even some of the smaller and less populous states immediately adjacent to Iowa have done much more per capita than has Iowa.

As you will see from the chart accompanying this article, from 1945 through 1955 in the eleven state area surrounding Iowa, the expenditure per capita for this state was only $6.77, whereas in Wisconsin it was $10.72, Michigan $14.46, Nebraska

$14.99. Even the less populous states of North Dakota and South Dakota provided a per capita investment of $18.39 and $18.18 respectively.

For the past 25 years the support for building construction at your college as well as the other two state schools has been most unsatisfactory. Because of hard times during the depression years there was little money for building construction. During the war years materials were not available. Following the war years, the record has been spotty, with the funds provided at each legislature being far below those requested.

In view of this, how, you might ask, have these colleges kept the doors of opportunity open. The answer is that the doors have been kept open in obsolete and in many instances in dangerous and hazardous buildings, buildings that have long since outlived their purpose. The doors have been kept open, also, in the form of tin-sided, war-surplus barracks and quonset huts. Twenty per cent of all buildings on all three campuses are now either obsolete or in these so-called temporary, flimsily constructed barracks.

The big question, however, is how will the doors of opportunity be kept open when nearly half again as many as the present number of students come knocking at college doors just six or seven years hence. This is a problem that calls for long-range planning. It is a problem that cannot be met "on the spur" at the last moment when the students actually wish to enroll. It takes three years to build a major building, and unless some orderly system for building construction is devised,

HOW OTHER STATES ARE MEETING THEIR BUILDING NEEDS FOR HIGHER EDUCATION

Appropriations for Capital Improvements in 11-state area 1945 through 1959

State	Total Appropriations	Expenditures per capita	Estimated Population	Methods of Financing

Michigan	112,644,684 (1945-58)	14.46	7,788,000	Direct appropriations
Wisconsin	41,329,169 (1945-57)	10.72	3,857,000	Earmarked portion of general fund and direct appropriations
IOWA	18,935,829	6.77	2,796,000	Direct appropriations

there will be neither doors nor buildings when the sudden upsurge of students occurs.

We have been making a serious effort to acquaint citizens and their representatives with the immediate as well as the long range problem of providing educational opportunity regardless of economic or social status. We have felt that we must clearly state this problem now, because in the all too near tomorrow we will be asked, "Why weren't we warned about this situation? Why didn't Iowa educators tell us that this thing would happen?"

We have tried not to overstate the case. We have tried to be conservative in our estimates of the oncoming numbers of students resulting from the tremendously increased birth rates following World War II. We have tried not to seem to cry "wolf" alarmingly. But the fact remains that thus far we seem not to have convinced the public that the need is urgent and that something must be done now to get ready for the needs of tomorrow.

Story Must Be Told

Therefore this appeal is addressed to you as alumni and friends of Teachers College to help us tell this story of need. Most immediately, we need appropriations for improved salaries and for building construction. (See list of specific items requested.) We need to purchase land to provide the space on which to erect the needed buildings, we need additional equipment in the heating plant, not only for the buildings of the future, but for those of the immediate present. At Teachers College we do not have adequate standby heating equipment to meet emergencies. As a result, the winter before last we had to close down the college for two days because a boiler gave out. We need increased funds for research to improve curricula and to find ways of teaching students more efficiently. Thus we need not only more funds in general but funds to discover ways of making more efficient use of the higher education dollars we do receive.

We urge you, therefore, to tell your friends, your legislative representatives, and the general public with whom you come in contact that the requests of these institutions are not lavish. They are not profligate. They are our best and most thoughtful, sober judgments. They are carefully considered evaluations of what is needful if Iowa's state institutions for higher education are to maintain their place among respected institutions in the country.

How You Can Help

Please tell your legislative friends that when we ask for funds for improved salaries, for research, for building construction, what we are really talking about is the need of Iowa boys and girls for first class teachers in the elementary and high schools. Every request that we make has this ultimate end in view . . . to provide the kind of teachers that will help Iowa boys and girls become the well-educated alert citizens America needs to face up to the challenge of world leadership. It's not just money and buildings we want. It's tools and talent to get a job done that is mighty important to the welfare of Iowa and the nation.

Pinch-Hitters Bat .1000

An associate professor of business education, Leonard Keefe, was worried about his classes before he went to the hospital this fall for treatment of a spinal disc.

He wondered how his fellow profs could juggle their class loads to handle a new supply of students. Cedar Falls and Waterloo businessmen ended Keefe's worries. Pinch-hitting with enthusiasm, the men gave lectures on various phases of business, such as retailing, marketing, etc.

What could have been a serious problem turned out to be otherwise.

IOWA STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE was well represented at the ISEA convention in Des Moines this fall, from both a professional and a social standpoint. Dr. Oscar E. Thompson, professor of education at TC, is president of the association. Alumni met for the annual TC coffee hour in the Hotel Savery on Friday, Nov. 7.

Thompson, TC Band, Faculty Participate In ISEA Meeting

Dr. Oscar E. Thompson, professor of education at ISTC and president of the Iowa State Education association, gave an address entitled, "Every Teacher Indebted to Every Other" at the first general session of the ISEA convention in Des Moines Nov. 6.

The TC chamber band under the direction of Dr. Karl Holvik presented a thirty minute concert to start the program. Selections included "Marcha 3 de Febrero" by Roncal, "Three Chorale Preludes" by Dr. William Latham of the ISTC music faculty, "Legend of the Bells" by Erickson, "Pageant" by Persichetti and "Forward for Peace" by Kepner.

Clement Atlee, former British prime minister, spoke on the subject, "World Government or World Chaos," Friday.

Alumni president Caryl Middleton, ISTC coordinator of student teaching, met with friends and graduates at the annual TC coffee hour in the Des Moines room of the Hotel Savery Friday. President Maucker and alumni director Milo Lawton were also on hand to greet the large gathering.

Several staff members participated in various meetings and panel discussions at the convention. Among them were Dr. Walter DeKock, associate professor of education, Shirley Winsberg, associate professor of women's physical education, Virginia Ramsey, instructor in women's physical education, Mardelle Mohn, associate professor of teaching, George Holmes, director of college relations, James Blanford, professor of business education, Katherine Humphrey, assistant professor of business education, and Elisabeth Sutherland, head of the department of home economics.

Hundreds Attend ISTC Conferences

Hundreds of teachers throughout the state attended two Iowa State Teachers College conferences this fall.

On Sept. 27, some 1600 persons heard world famous anthropologist Dr. Margaret Mead deliver two addresses in connection with the annual elementary education meeting.

At the opening session in the morning, Dr. Mead told the group in an address entitled, "Teaching in Anthropological Perspective," that members of the human race have not begun to realize their potentialities. "The most educated and intelligent person on earth has used only 1/10 of his brain capacity," she said. "The human race can go a long way if it doesn't blow itself up in the meantime."

In an afternoon speech, the Columbia professor stated that adults must view today's world from a new perspective if they are to teach their children how to live in the new space age.

Health, welfare, and law enforcement officials heard a Minnesota high school guidance counselor's viewpoints on parent-children relations at the Governor's Conference on Children and Youth Oct. 4.

The keynote speaker was Roland Larson, of St. Louis Park, a suburb of Minneapolis. "Children have to have some concept of where they can operate," the speaker said. "There should be some system of built-in controls that help them operate."

Gov. Loveless made a short address in the afternoon session stating that the people of Iowa were beginning to recognize the problems of youth.

More than 200 state officials, including U.S. Senator Martin, state senators and representatives, and members of the executive offices attended State Day on the campus Oct. 18.

Board Approves ISTC Foundation

The creation of the Iowa State Teachers College Foundation could well be the most significant step that alumni and faculty have undertaken jointly for the development of a greater Iowa State Teachers College.

Gifts, bequests, and financial aid from private sources have long been extremely important to the college. These have been channeled through the office of the President or through various agencies. This has sometimes resulted in confusion on the part of the donor as to where the money should go. Complications have also arisen because of the restrictions on investment of state funds. Consequently, the Iowa State Teachers College Foundation will serve, as nearly as possible, as a channel for all gifts to develop the effectiveness of the college.

The foundation will open new opportunities for gifts to the college in a much broader area. Support will be sought for these projects submitted by the faculty which seem most worthy. Donors may designate the project they wish to support and designated funds will be allocated by the Board of Directors of the Foundation as available.

Faculty members are presently submitting projects for consideration. They are being encouraged to dream a bit in presenting those things which would help create a top notch program but for which state funds are not available. This will undoubtedly open new opportunities for gifts of special interests.

We are proud to note that the Iowa State Teachers College Foundation came into being as a result of a request to President Maucker from the Board of Directors of our Alumni Association.

The Board requested that a joint committee of alumni and faculty be appointed (1) to investigate what alumni of other tax supported colleges and universities are doing in the area of fund raising; (2) make recommendations concerning a development fund at Iowa State Teachers College.

This committee discovered that some 60 tax-supported colleges and universities have instituted programs whereby gifts may be received for educational and scientific purposes. Many have made significant contributions to their Alma Mater.

After accepting the committee's report, President Maucker recommended to the State Board of Regents the formation of a non profit corporation authorized to accept, hold, administer, and disperse such funds as may be given for scientific and educational purposes, and that it be known as the Iowa State Teachers College Foundation. The Regents approved this recommendation at their November meeting.

Members of the corporation are: Wendell Bragonier, Ames, Donald F. Howard, Cedar Falls, Milo Lawton, Cedar Falls, J. W. Maucker, Cedar Falls, Caryl Middleton, Cedar Falls, Mrs. Lillian Nielsen, Cedar Falls, Terry Olin, Cedar Falls, and Daryl Pendergraft, Cedar Falls.

The business of the Foundation will be managed by a nine-member board of directors. Four members of the Board will be ex officio:

- (1) President of the Iowa State Teachers College.
- (2) President of the Alumni Association.
- (3) A member of the Iowa State Board of Regents designated by the President of the Board of Regents.
- (4) Director of Alumni Affairs.

College Gets 2nd Institute Grant

Iowa State Teachers College will sponsor another academic year institute for high school science and mathematics teachers in September 1959 thanks to a $327,626 grant by the National Science Foundation.

Formal approval of the program was made in a board of regents meeting in Iowa City Oct. 24. The Teachers College was awarded the second grant of money on the basis of a formal proposal submitted by President Maucker, Dr. R. A. Rogers, director of the current institute, Dr. H. C. Trimble, head of the department of mathematics, and Dr. C. G. McCollum, head of the department of science.

Next year's institute will be on an 11-month basis. Fifty teachers will be selected from all sections of the country.

Major objectives of the institute are to broaden the subject matter background of the teacher and to up-date him with latest developments in the science and mathematics fields. Base stipends for the teacher will amount to $3000 for the regular school term and $3600 for the regular term and the eight-week summer session.

Dr. Harold Palmer

Dr. Harold Palmer Dies; Long-Time Staff Member

Harold Palmer, '23, a member of the industrial arts department at TC, died Oct. 21 in Cedar Falls.

He was born in Cedar Falls March 31, 1897, and married Jean Lowrey of Grinnell Aug. 26, 1923. He taught in the Iowa public schools from 1917 to 1921.

He received his master's degree from the University of Iowa and the doctor's degree from Ohio State. He was a member of the American Industrial Arts association, the American Legion, Epsilon Phi Tau, Phi Delta Kappa, Phi Mu Alpha, Rotary, Masonic lodge, and the First Methodist church.

Palmer was head of the industrial arts department from 1944 to 1954 before relinquishing that post because of ill health. The present Arts and Industries building was erected during his regime. Palmer was also responsible for introducing driver education at TC.

He is survived by his wife, two sons, and four sisters. Private services were held.

Two members will be elected from the nominations of the Board of Directors of the Iowa State Teachers College Alumni Association. Two members will be elected from nominations by President Maucker. One member will be an ISTC student elected on the nomination of the Student League Board.

The first business of the Foundation will be to elect a Board of Directors.

Specific information concerning future plans of the Iowa State Teachers College Foundation will be sent to alumni soon after January 1, 1959.

Wrestling, Basketball Outlook Bright

Iowa State Teachers grapplers, the surprise of college wrestling last winter by posting an 8-2-1 record with a sophomore team, starts the 1959 season with high hopes of an even better year. Fans can get an early look at Panther matmen in the Iowa Teachers tournament here Dec. 6, although Coach Bill Koll's team doesn't wrestle a dual meet until the Cornell engagement here Jan. 14.

The Panthers lost only two lettermen by graduation, but replacing them will be no small task for Coach Koll. Dick Heaton and John Vovos were names synonymous with wrestling here for three years. Between them last winter, they won 21 dual matches and lost only one. The two aces accounted for 79 of Teachers' 213 points in dual competition.

Seven returning veterans include Jerry Lane (130 pounds), Larry Guldberg (123), Chuck Patton (147), Jerry Ray (157), Gerry Gienger (167), Arland Waters (177), and Jim Harmon (167). The return of Harmon, national champion in 1953, brightens the mat picture even more.

Lane, in winning eight matches last year, led the team in pins with five. Patton also had an 8-3 mark, while Guldberg and Gienger were 6-4 and Ray 5-5. Waters, used mainly at heavyweight, won 2 and lost 5.

Newcomers who should see action are Bill McNiel at 123 pounds, Dave Dodge at 137, Gene Harms at 157, Boyd Van-Voorhis at 177, and Jack Smith at heavyweight. All are sophomores except Harms, a J.C. transfer.

Seven returning lettermen and several promising sophomores brighten the picture in the Iowa Teachers basketball camp this season. Coach Jim Witham's club opens the season at home Dec. 1 against Northeast Missouri.

Only two veterans of last year are missing from the Panther squad, Clark Mc-Cleary and Gary Muhlenbruck. McCleary, a two year regular, will be the key man to replace. He was the Panthers' playmaker and leading rebounder last winter.

Top scorers of the previous campaign were Dennis Filliman (274 points), Ron La-Frentz (267), and Frank Stotts (238). All are back, along with Gene Nichols (162), Dean Jensen (98), Jack Mully (76), and Gary Mohl (67).

These vets, along with such sophomores as Jim Jackson, Cliff Svoboda, Bill Herkelman and Wayne Olson will make it mighty tough for Coach Witham to pick his starting five. Rounding out the squad are Alan Johnson, Jim Meskimen, and Harm Oldenkamp.

Height will be no problem for the Panthers this winter. Svoboda (6-8) and Jackson (6-4), tallest of the newcomers, will give valuable support on the boards to La-Frentz, Stotts and Filliman, who finished in that order behind McCleary in rebounding last season.

Here's the way things shape up with three weeks left before the season opens: The three front line positions are up for grabs between LaFrentz, Filliman, Stotts, Svoboda and Jackson. Top candidates for guards are Nichols, Jensen, Mully and Herkelman.

Two Added to Faculty

Recent additions to the college faculty include Dr. Merritt E. Melberg and Dr. Miriam L. Showalter, both temporary assistant professors of education and psychology.

Dr. Melberg received his bachelor's and master's degree from Iowa State College and his doctor's degree from Colorado State College. Dr. Showalter received her degrees from the University of Iowa.

A Steady, Guiding Hand Will Be Missed

Dean Nelson Announces Retirement

Dr. Martin J. Nelson, Dean of Instruction and Dean of the College, is retiring July 1 after 35 years of service at ISTC.

The Wisconsin-born educator, who joined the staff in 1924 after having served as a principal in two North Dakota public school systems, plans to move to the southwest next summer. He mentioned Phoenix, Arizona as a possible site for his new home.

Nelson said at the time of his decision in November that "After 35 years at the college and 25 years as academic dean, I feel it would be advisable for younger hands to take over the burdens of administration and give me an opportunity to enjoy some leisure time. I expect to do some writing and further work in the field of testing which has been of some interest to me."

The author or co-author of seven standardized testing booklets and four professional books, Dean Nelson was the first director of research at TC, the first dean of the faculty, the first dean of the college, and the first president of the faculty senate.

He is a member of the National Society for the Study of Education, the American Educational Research association, Phi Delta Kappa, the American Association of School Administrators, the National Society of College Teachers of Education, the American Psychological association, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Legion, Lions, and the Lutheran church.

Teachers College President Dr. J. W. Maucker issued this statement, "Martin Nelson has rendered a lifetime of outstanding service to this college and to education generally. Pioneering in the role of dean of the faculty, he guided the development of the staff and instructional program down through the years with a steady hand. The principal architect of our graduate program, he has served with particular distinction since 1950 in defining our relationship with the university and the state college.

His work as an examiner for the North Central association and as an author of educational tests and textbooks have earned him the respect of educators throughout the nation. We will miss Dean Nelson greatly. He certainly has been of tremendous help to me during the past eight years. On behalf of the faculty, the students, and his many friends in the community, I should like to wish Dean and Mrs. Nelson every happiness in the years to come."

Dean and Mrs. Nelson, the former Cora Jenson of Barron, Wis., have two children, Marjorie Joyce, a Teachers College graduate, and Morton, an Iowa State graduate.

Nelson has traveled extensively throughout the United States through the years. He was with the 342 Field Artillery in France and Germany in WW I.

'53 Grad Opens Rio P.R. Agency

Bill Williamson ('53) has recently opened a public relations agency in Rio de Janeiro with a well-known Brazilian journalist, Arides Visconti.

Since the first of the year, Williamson has been chief of the publications department of the American Chamber of Commerce for Brazil and editor-in-chief of "Brazilian Business," a monthly English-language magazine published in that country.

In addition to these positions, he is continuing as special correspondent for the Christian Science Monitor and part-time foreign correspondent for McGraw-Hill World News.

Williamson went to Brazil in June 1956 on an exchange fellowship awarded under the Convention for the Promotion of Inter-American Cultural Relations. During the 18 months of the fellowship, he visited approximately 150 newspapers in the country, conducting a research program in journalism. During this time he also served as a lecturer on American journalism for the

Homecoming Spirit Reaches High Peak

The Morningside Maroons put a temporary damper upon the spirits of a large homecoming crowd Oct. 18 when they whipped the Panthers 26-18 in a football game at O. R. Latham stadium.

The couples which jammed the Commons ballroom that evening for the annual homecoming dance didn't seem to be downcast however. Enthusiasm had been high all week—perhaps this stemmed from the fact that a flu epidemic had wiped out last fall's festivities.

Carol Justice, a Manchester junior, was chosen as homecoming queen. She was officially crowned by President Maucker during halftime ceremonies at the game. Carol's attendants were Judy Ogden of Odebolt, Sharon Wykle of Radcliffe, and Carolyn Traver of Clinton.

In addition to the game and dance, students were busy that week building floats for Saturday morning's downtown parade and dormitory decorations. An inter-fraternity singing contest was held Thursday and an impromptu pep rally the next morning. All classes were dismissed after 9:30 a.m. Friday. Another rally was held Friday evening.

College Entertained By Music Events

Benny Goodman, the famous "King of Swing," entertained a capacity house at the school auditorium Oct. 22 with some new arrangements and with some of his old standbys.

The Goodman orchestra kept the audience tapping its feet with "Sing, Sing, Sing," "Stompin' at the Savoy," "King Porter Stomp," and "Don't Be That Way," four selections which have sold millions of records. Goodman was so impressed with the Mark V's, a student quintet, that he signed them to tour with his band in Iowa, Nebraska, and Chicago. He recently invited Donna Musgrove, the feminine member, to sing in the east.

Earlier in the year, Philip Rash, a student, and Jane Birkhead and Harald Holst, members of the music department faculty, starred in two comic operas entitled "An Incomplete Education" and "Edgar and Emily." Phil, a 24-year old New Providence junior, has an eye on a show business career.

John Gielgud, a famous English actor, depicted a variety of moods taken from Shakespearean plays on Nov. 4.
