And Again

The School Bells
Are Ringing . . .

CALLING to college for the first time the young men and women who will make up the class of 1939.

THE future of four years from now holds for them a challenge undeniable — a clear call to so enlarge their horizon of humanity that they will become sturdy, courageous leaders for a hesitant social order.

ONLY the highest excellence of initial can character and mental stamina provide the basis for such large human personalities.

YOU in the field — send such young men and women to your alma mater.

For Young People of Courage, Vision
Come Home and Cheer for the Purple, Oct. 19

COME home and shake hands with head coach, Tom Johnson, three-sport man at the University of Illinois and former coach and recently business man at Marinette, Wisconsin, and allow us to introduce William “Bill” Bevan, All-American guard last fall at the University of Minnesota, who will act as assistant to Johnson in the line. Johnson was named September 14 to succeed Coach Dave McCuskey, B. A. '30, as head football coach following his resignation because of ill health.

McCuskey had been appointed head coach over a field of notable applicants for the position just before the close of the summer term. McCuskey succeeded Coach John Baker, who resigned during the summer to accept a position at Municipal University of Omaha.

An article on the newly named coach appointed to serve during McCuskey’s absence, appears in the sports section of the Alumnus.

The Panther football team and the new coaches will not be the only attraction for Homecoming, however. Alumni will find the campus of their Alma Mater grown beautiful in the past year with velvety green grass where cindered parkings and ugly sod and rubbish heaps once held sway, and resplendent with shrubs and trees near walks, drives, and buildings.

In addition to this campus beautification, returning alumni will discover the framework of the new Men’s Dormitory rapidly growing to completion. They will find the interiors of the Women’s Dormitory beautiful in new color schemes and the old cafeteria remodeled as a new game and recreation room. They will discover that the famous Gilchrist Chapel, described elsewhere in this issue, has been made over into a modern Little Theater with new proscenium arch, new seats, and even a new floor. Out on the campus, south and west of the Campanile, they will see ten of the finest new tennis courts to be found anywhere in the mid-west, constructed according to most modern specifications and covered with the last word in court surfacing—a substance called “laykold.”

Returning graduates coming by car and swinging off the highway onto the brick drive leading to the Men’s Gymnasium will be amazed at the beautiful stretch of even landscape between this drive and the Dormitory. The old rock piles, heaps of brush, and uneven pasture-land have given away to a smooth graded surface prepared in the most skillful manner for seeding. And surpassing all other changes which they will see is the central campus plot bounded on the south by the Training School and on the east by Gilchrist Hall. This area, once a dusty parking, is now made beautiful with sodding, shrubs, and trees. Even the tall grass area at the corner of Twenty-seventh Street and west of the Training School playground has been close-clipped with mowers and rolled to provide a pleasant green-way under the trees.

There will, of course, be many other things... that alumni will want to see in order to keep abreast with the growth and progress of their Alma Mater. There are changes in personnel and alterations in campus offices. The campus may even seem so different that alumni of older days may feel a bit lost. No graduate should stay at home for fear of this, however, for there will be guides on hand ever ready to show alumni about.

Headquarters for Homecoming this year will be as usual in the Commons Building, and the first act of alumni upon returning to the campus should be to go to this beautiful building and register. At the registration headquarters they will find students representing the hospitality committee of the Student Council, who will serve as guides to introduce them to the various facilities of this common meeting place and to show them about the campus.

Alumni arriving on Friday night, October 18, will want first of all to attend the official Homecoming play staged by the college drama classes. This will be presented in the College Auditorium at the hour of 9:00 P. M. The time has been changed from the usual curtain at 8:15 to the later hour in order to allow returning graduates plenty of time to attend the pep meeting after the dinner hour.

Registration will begin Saturday morning at 8:00 o'clock, and will be followed at 10:30 o'clock by the alumni business meeting in the Commons. E. A. Ralston, superintendent of schools at Washington, Iowa, president of the Alumni Association, will preside at the business meeting and at the annual Homecoming luncheon to be served beginning at 11:30 A. M. in the main dining room of the Commons. This luncheon will be completed at 1:30 o'clock in order to allow the alumni plenty of time to arrive at the stadium for the football game with Western State Teachers College, which begins promptly at 2:00 P. M.

At the football game, alumni will have an opportunity to see the work of the new football coaching staff, and, if early season evidence is a safe indication, alumni should see a team fighting every inch of the way in true Panther style. Of course, they will see a team which has had to completely change its style of play from the Jones system used for the past two years, but the team will offer no alibis, and alumni may depend on seeing a fighting Panther Pack.

Alumni are encouraged to arrive at the stadium fifteen or twenty minutes before the opening of the game in order to secure the best of seats and be on hand to enjoy the colorful pre-game events. A special section of the grandstand will be set aside for T. C. lettermen and other guests.

Dinners and social affairs, sponsored by various campus organizations, will be held following the game, and there will be an open house period at the Commons where alumni may meet friends and acquaintances of college days. A special moving picture show will be provided in the College Auditorium at 6:30 and again at 8:15 P. M.

Not a single alumnus should miss the traditional Homecoming dance, which will be held as usual in the Commons Building.
Three

Every alumnus, whether or not he or she can dance, should be on hand, for ample opportunity will be provided for those who wish to watch the dancers, play cards, or just chat. The opportunity to watch the dancers from the beautiful mezzanine lobby of the Commons is one equally as enjoyable as the dancing itself. This affair is not just a dance; it is a party and dance.

Homecoming this year will be a three-day affair and on Sunday morning, October 20, alumni will be invited to gather at 10:30 o'clock for the special Homecoming church services.

Alumni members of the general Homecoming committee include A. C. Fuller, M. Di. '99, and Leslie I. Reed, M. Di. '00. Other members of the committee include Dean of Women Sadie B. Campbell, L. L. Mendenhall, and Dr. H. A. Bosley.

Homecoming Play Announced

The title of the official Homecoming play to be presented by college drama classes was announced shortly before the Alumnus went to press.

The play this year will be "Post Road," a mystery comedy concerning a kidnapping, by Wilbur Daniel Steele and Norma Mitchell. It is a play in two acts and four scenes. It was copyrighted in 1935 by Potter and Haight. A premier of the play was opened December 4, 1934, in the Masque Theater in New York City.

Thus, the Drama Division of the English Department will be maintaining its annual tradition of presenting the very latest plays for Teachers College audiences.

Know These Fellows? Erbe, Bender, Boardman

Cheers

The college chapter of Theta Alpha Phi, dramatic fraternity, and Placraft Club will hold the annual Homecoming tea for alumni dramatists in the Drama Shop immediately following the football game. This has become an annual affair and each year attracts considerably larger numbers of graduates who have taken part in dramatic work at Teachers College.

The drama work this year will be under the direction of Dr. Vio Mae Powell, head of the Department of Speech and Drama at the Southern Branch of the University of Idaho. Dr. Powell has been granted a year's leave of absence to become assistant professor of English, taking the place of Miss Hazel B. Strayer, who is on leave of absence from the Teachers College for a year.

Drama Alumnae Score In Ann Arbor Summer Plays

Lillian Holmes, B. A. '35, playing a "bit" part in "Merrily We Roll Along", stole the scene in which she appeared, according to newspaper reviews of the show, when it was presented by the Michigan Repertory Players at Ann Arbor early in July.

Miss Holmes was continuing her work in the drama at the University of Michigan the past summer.

The Michigan Daily's reviewer mentions only four members of the cast of sixty, one of the four being Miss Holmes. The paper says: "Lillian Holmes, in a bit part, is particularly effective and scores well with the audience."

Another Ann Arbor paper, which commends only two of the principles, says: "To Lillian Holmes goes credit for the outstanding acting in a 'bit' part of the play."

Helen McMillan, B. A. '35, who was also attending Michigan during the summer, had the second lead in "The Chocolate Soldier."
POWER

Cover Picture This Issue Symbolizes Efficiency

Power in the new heating plant, power in the educational plant, and resultant power and efficiency for the schools of Iowa constitute the symbolism which the Editor hoped to suggest by the cover picture presented in this issue of the Alumnus. This picture, taken by J. B. Paul Jr., student in the Teachers College High School and son of Dr. J. B. Paul, director of the Bureau of Research, appeared in the second annual exhibit of the Camera Club under the title "Furnaces". It was awarded first place in the miscellaneous division of the contest.

The heating and power plant, which has been built as a unit with the shops and garage building, is now in its third year of operation. It is regarded as one of the most modern and efficient heating and power units which money can buy, and as a result, is able with the highest degree of efficiency, to turn coal bought by the tax-payers of Iowa into the greatest amount of heat for the comfort of students and the greatest amount of power for operation of campus machinery. This structure stands as a symbol of the type of efficiency which administrators of the College hope to achieve in all branches of institutional effort.

Mrs. William D. Shuttleworth (Blanche B. Sokol), B. Di. '93, is living at Sibley, Iowa, where her husband is associated with the lumber business. They have two sons, Frank K. and V. Craven.

Frank Shuttleworth received the Ph. D. Degree in 1925 at the University of Iowa, and is now at Yale University doing educational research. V. Craven Shuttleworth was awarded the Law Degree in 1924 at the University of Iowa, and is now an attorney-at-law with Grimm and Elliott, located in the Merchants National Bank Building at Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Round-Robin Letter Brings Alpha Betas, Sixteen Strong, to Clear Lake

Alpha Beta Gamma Sorority had a house party reunion at Storm Lake, Iowa, from July 7 to 14, with 16 members representing the years from 1913 to 1919 in attendance. Some of these individuals had not met for 20 years.

Mrs. Richards Plans Affair

The moving spirit or promoter of the affair was Gretchen Medearis, Pri. '18, now Mrs. J. H. Richards of Storm Lake. She started the round-robin letter enlisting the attendance and was able to make the local arrangements for the group in a summer cottage pleasantly located on the east end of the lake. The following were in attendance:

Mrs. Howard French (Grace Perry), student '15-'16, Titonka, Iowa
Mrs. C. L. Gleason (Miriam Brock), student '18-'19, Ames, Iowa

Echoes of the Past Haunt Gilchrist Hall Attic

Blows from Remodellers' Hammers Resound Olden Days

VOICES from the past, Booker T. Washington in person, making eloquent plea for negro education; Spartacus, impersonated, addressing the gladiators; and profound graduation orations without number, have echoed for the last time in historic old Gilchrist Chapel, standing, until a few weeks ago, just as it was when first opened in 1882—43 years ago.

With the remodeling of the old chapel will come a new set of lights, the fourth since electric lights were installed. Of course, the room had been painted; electricity replaced the old kerosene lamps, but otherwise the platform, the seats, the walls—all were the same through the 43 years.

Now the old bench seats are gone—demolished by the wreckers' sledge, and in their places will be 600 cushioned opera chairs. The entire floor has been torn out and replaced. In the process, it was discovered that the central supporting joist was dry-rotted so badly that the center floor had sagged down nine inches, forcing the ceiling of the Faculty Room on the second floor down a like distance. When the remodeling is completed, the chapel will be used as a little theater.

Mixed with fond memories of college pranks for many will be the recollection of excitement attendant upon the near catastrophe when one of the great kerosene chandeliers crashed lighted to the floor just at the close of an evening program. The last applause had died down and the students were just leaving, when the accident, which probably had much to do with bringing electricity to the campus in 1895, occurred. The lighted kerosene lamps fell to the floor, and the flames shot to the ceiling. Gilchrist Hall at that time had already been connected to the city water system and the quick action of faculty members probably prevented a serious fire. Had the lamp fallen only a few minutes earlier, it would have crashed and spattered its blazing oil over the students who had just filed out.

One of the most famous of the many meetings to be held in the chapel was the alumni program in 1901, the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Iowa State Normal School. The program featured an oration, "Wealth," by Dr. W. R. Patterson, B. S. '89, now Comptroller of the General Council of the Presbyterian Church. Miss Maude Humphrey, now Mrs. Aaron Palmer, M. D. '94, teacher at West High School, Waterloo, gave the history of the institution through its first twenty-five years. Another speaker, Miss Edna M. Poor, now Mrs. C. J. Shutt, M. D. '99, Independence, Iowa, read the poem "Her Natal Day."

To many, the name Gilchrist Chapel will recall the hours of preparation and the acute stage-fright endured for their chapel orations, required of every degree graduate. Longer preparations and greater stage-frights may be remembered by those who participated in the open sessions of the various literary societies. Intense rivalry among the societies developed as each strove to present the best program for the 700 or 800 people who would crowd into the chapel.

Orios Turn to Statesmanship

In 1900, the Orio Society presented a mock session of the House of Representatives and two years earlier the Shakespearean Society performed cuttings from various dramas on their program, "The Women of Shakespeare." Other programs recalled include a Republican National Convention, mock congress, re-enactment of the Congressional Congress, and the Ben Hur program of the Alpha Society. At one time college authorities counted participation in a literary society as constructive English, and all who did not belong to a society had to take the prescribed academic work.

Famous men have talked in the old chapel. Booker T. Washington, famous Negro educator, spoke in chapel one morning after giving a talk the evening previous in the down town Methodist Church. Benjamin Andrews, of the University of Nebraska, once gave a talk on Robert E. Lee, and one Teachers College professor, an old Union soldier, revered and fumed that authorities should allow such a name even to be mentioned in a northern college. Russell H. Conwell, Philadelphia minister who made a reputation with his famous oration, "Acres of Diamonds," also spoke in the chapel, and many times the then Governor Shaw attended exercises in the chapel, following the military review.

And then there were the "generals," a "kind of weekly penance," the late Professor D. Sands Wright used to call them. Three Friday afternoons a month all students were required to gather in the chapel to hear one of the "Rhetorical Sections" go through a boring program of amateurish essays, declamations, and "topics," original explanatory talks. "The declamations lacked variety, but made up in length for all deficienciers," Mr. Wright wrote in his history of the College's first fifty years. Among the oft recurring selections were "The Young Gray Head," "How He Saved St. Michaels," "The Curfew Must Not Ring Tonight," "Spartacus to the Gladiators," and "Darius Green and His Flying Machine." On the fourth Friday, the winner's of the three previous weeks were presented again, and once at one of these fourth meetings, "The Young Gray Head," an iambic pentameter poem of 266 lines, was heard three times.

Masons vs. Philomatheans

The activity and remodeling now going on in the chapel and in Gilchrist Hall as a whole have revived among many a recollection of events connected with the laying of the cornerstone in 1882. The laying of the stone was granted to the Philomatheans, oldest literary society on the campus, but the Masonic lodge claimed the privilege of officiating at public building ceremonies, and some way, it was granted to them. The Philos had their program planned and their guests invited. When the change was made every effort was made to discourage attendance of students, citizens, and organizations.

The day came. But the people didn't. The grand parade was led by the Masons, followed by the five members of the faculty, and only eight students. One carriage conveyed the school trustees and another a farmer family. That was the whole audience. Ironically enough, the stone and its Masonic inscription are lost from sight now, concealed behind the corridor connecting Gilchrist and the Administration Buildings.

What Can You Recall?

LET'S have a resume of interesting side-lights on the history of old Gilchrist Chapel for the next Alumnus. The Editor invites graduates of early as well as later days to write, telling of interesting events associated with this first Teachers' College Chapel—or was it the first?

Certain it is that Gilchrist Hall was the second building to be erected for instructional purposes of the then Iowa State Normal School. President Seerley at one time lived with his family in rooms on the second floor of Gilchrist. Well, let's hear all about it.—Editor.

Superintendent Owen,'00 Is Honored for Long Service

Community Paper Praises High Type of Service; Compliments Thirty-eight Years of Harmony

WHEN the schools of Farmington, Iowa, opened in September, A. T. S. Owen, M. Di. '00, started his thirty-eighth year as superintendent of schools in that city. Mr. Owen was honored at the close of his thirty-seventh year last spring at the Alumni Reunion Luncheon at the College, one of the events of Commencement Week.

In 1898, when Mr. Owen went to Farmington, there were 56 pupils in the high school, and he and one assistant did all the teaching. This year there are five teachers in the school. During Mr. Owen's term of office 656 students have been graduated from the school, averaging 24 per year in the past 20 years.

Elected at Farmington in 1898

Mr. Owen received the B. A. Degree from Knox College in 1894, going directly from there to Erie, Kansas, where he was superintendent. After two years there, he became vice president of the Afton Normal and Business College, Afton, Iowa, where he remained until 1898, when he was elected to the Farmington position from a field of 100 applicants.

"For a superintendent of schools," says the Evening Democrat, Fort Madison, Iowa, "and a community to have worked together harmoniously for so many years is a distinct compliment to both. The ideals of the community are expressed through the high type of living and service exemplified by Mr. Owen."

Dr. and Mrs. J. O. Perrine and son, James, were campus visitors for the weekend of July 5 and 6, and were house guests of Mrs. Louise C. McKitrick, of the Extension Division, who held open house for them on both evenings.

Dr. Perrine was a member of the Physical Science Department faculty from 1909 to 1920, and has for many years been with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, with headquarters in New York City. At the present time he is connected with the Publicity Department of this company. Last summer he took a five-week's tour of the west, where he gave lectures on television.
Alumnae May Join Local Branches of A.A.U.W.

Iowa State Teachers College reached one more goal in June, when a telegram came to President O. R. Latham announcing that the College had been placed on the accredited list of the American Association of University Women.

During March, Dr. Katherine Adams, of the National Committee of Standards of the Association, paid a two-day visit to the College, checking up on points with which the Association particularly concerns itself. Her report was carried to the committee, which in turn recommended to the national meeting of the Association convened in Los Angeles that Iowa State Teachers College be placed on the accredited list. As a result of this action, Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science Degree graduates of our institution are now eligible for national membership in any local branch of the Association.

During the past ten years many letters have been received by the President of Teachers College asking why our alumnae were not eligible to national membership in the Association of University Women. The fault has been neither with the College nor with the A. A. U. W. The Association was organized many years ago by a group of women graduates of liberal arts colleges and was intended only for graduates of such colleges. Two things happened: the Association grew and college women the country over began to realize more and more the desirability of uniting with the group; secondly, normal schools were evolving into teachers colleges in which a large part of the work was of the liberal arts type.

T. C. Among Few Admitted

In 1929 a number of teachers colleges began requesting the Association to place them on its accredited list, as their women graduates who wished membership in the Association were bringing much pressure to bear. At that time the A. A. U. W. decided that teachers colleges which were rated A by the American Association of Teachers Colleges might make application to the University Women for recognition. If they met the still more rigid standards of the A. A. U. W., this would be granted. It was some years before this list was given out by the A. A. T. C., and it numbered approximately one hundred. Only a few of the large numbers who have applied to the American Association of University Women have gained the coveted prize. Iowa State Teachers College is among the fortunate few.

The American Association of University Women is an organization of 45,000 college women interested in better educational opportunities for all, but especially for women. It is interested in promoting international-mindedness among its members and unites with some thirty-six foreign countries in an International Association of University Women.

Since the Teachers College administration has made strenuous efforts to gain this greatly desired recognition, it is hoped that many alumnae will at once ally themselves with local branches of A. A. U. W. throughout the country.—Alison E. Aitchison.

Mrs. Lillian Hurlburt Gist, 80, wife of the late W. W. Gist, mother of eight children and a brilliant scholar who has been given the title of “America’s oldest co-ed,” received a diploma from President James A. Blaisdell, of Claremont College, at the June commencement exercises in Claremont, California. She received the Degree of Master of Arts with a major in Latin. Mr. Gist was once a professor at Iowa State Teachers College.

Friends of Professor W. A. Young, history instructor in the Social Science Department of Iowa State Teachers College from 1921 to 1926 and since history instructor in Friends University in Wichita, Kansas, will be interested to know that he has now been made Dean of the College.
DRAMA
Raymond Pederson, Cedar Falls, carried the leading role in "Love and Geography," summer term project of the Drama Division of the English Department, presented on July 25 and 26. The players used the Edwin Bjorkman translation of this Bjornstrom Bjornson comedy.

"Love and Geography" is a farce centering around the life of a college instructor, Professor Tygesen, who has absorbed himself so completely in his geography research that he forgets to take time to love his wife and daughter.

Professor Turman, colleague of Tygesen, is a bachelor who believes that scientists and professors should not marry, and attempts to wreck the complacent happiness which Tygesen's home life brings him. Turman's role was played by Le Von Linder, Kensett. Other players included Margaret Davenport, Cresco; Marjorie Schnable, Des Moines; Gwendolyn Roth, Cedar Falls; Olga Leutenegger, Carroll, and Julian Colby, Waterloo.

The cast journeyed to Mt. Vernon, Iowa, on August 1, 2, and 3, where they repeated "Love and Geography" as one of the numbers on the Cornell College Carnival of Comedy. Other plays presented during the three-day festival were all by Cornell players and included Goldoni's "Mistress of the Inn"; Moliere's "Doctor in Spite of Himself"; and Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew".

The following week, Cornell players in the cast of "Taming of the Shrew" came to Cedar Falls and played their comedy to a Teachers College audience. The performance was offered with Shakespearean simplicity on the cement walk before the triple-arched doorways of the Auditorium Building.

MUSIC
"Inchin' Along," a musical play, was presented by the Cotton Blossom Singers from the school for negroes at the Iowa State Teachers College Symphony Orchestra in their concert Tuesday evening, August 6, in the College Auditorium. Rachel Rosenberger, Cedar Falls violinist, was soloist at the concert, which was given as the special feature number of the regular weekly music hour, held during the summer term.

The Tuesday following, August 13, Ruth Mueller, Waterloo violist, appeared as soloist at the String Orchestra concert. The String Orchestra is composed of members of the Orchestra Club and is conducted by Frank W. Hill, instructor in violin, viola, ensemble, and instrumentation. Miss Mueller was accompanied by Jane Eby, Waterloo.

SPEAKERS
Two special speakers were brought to the campus during the summer, Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr and J. A. Hall. Dr. Niebuhr, professor of applied Christianity at Union Theological Seminary, New York City, lectured on Wednesday, June 19, under the auspices of the Interdenominational Church. He is a frequent contributor to The Christian Century, Religion in Life, Harper's, and The Atlantic Monthly, and is the author of (Continued on page 12)
Which Shall We Teach, Ideal Truth or Realism?

Dr. Clapp Asks Graduates To Decide Burning Question

WHETHER idealistic truth should be eliminated from the curriculum and from the general procedure of the school is a problem which must be decided by young people now going out to take up the burden of teaching, Dr. Frank Leslie Clapp, of the School of Education at the University of Wisconsin, told summer term graduates of the Iowa State Teachers College in his commencement address, “What Are Ideals?”

One hundred and ninety-nine seniors were graduated at the exercises on the South Campus the evening of Thursday, August 22. The College Band, under the direction of Myron Russell, instructor in woodwind instruments, opened the program with a half-hour concert, beginning at 7 P. M. The processional started at 7:30 o’clock, after which Dr. Harold Bosley, director of religious activities at the College, read the invocation.

A brass choir, made up of the entire brass section of the band, played Bohme’s “Scherzo—Allegro Vivace, Opus 30.” Later, a woodwind choir, made up of all the woodwind instruments in the band, played Crosse’s “Andantino—Allegretto,” which was followed by Dr. Clapp’s address.

Diplomas, certificates, and degrees were presented by Dr. O. R. Latham, President of the College, as the candidates were presented by Dr. M. J. Nelson, Dean of the Faculty. Dr. Bosley pronounced the benediction.

Dr. Clapp, the speaker, has been with the University of Wisconsin since 1919, and had been previously with the University of Colorado. He is the author of various bulletins and of the series, “Clapp’s Drill Books in Arithmetic,” published in 1925. He is joint author of two other books, “Better Teaching” and “Introduction to Education.” This latter book is used in classes at Teachers College. He is also an active worker in the field of standardized tests and self-marking tests, and has published several of them. He serves as educational adviser for a leading book publishing firm.

Commencement activities opened as usual with the Sunday evening reception by President and Mrs. Latham and included the graduation dinner on Wednesday, August 21, in the Commons. The toast program was based on the theme “Riders of the Range.” Speakers were Mrs. Gladice Sears, Nashua, one of the graduates; Roy W. McClain, Davenport, another graduate; Ralph Childs, B. A. ’29, of Waterloo, and President Latham. Dr. R. W. Harbeson, professor of economics, served as toastmaster.

Norma Sutz, Davenport, accompanied by Esther Bley, Music Department accompanist, played a violin solo, and Walter Hahn, Lamont, with Dr. Hugh S. Buffum, professor of education, presented a musical novelty—two cowboys of the range with their guitars.

Excerpts from Dr. Clapp’s address on Thursday evening follow:

From time immemorial, philosophers have been interested in the question as to what is the ultimate nature of truth. Some of our philosophers have conceived of truth as a description of things and conditions as they are found in the world of reality. They maintain that beyond the world of reality there is no truth, but only fancy, impractical and without value. Another school of philosophers maintains that truth in its essential elements exists independent of the world of reality... An illustration of this idealistic

Realism vs. Idealistic Truth

WHAT is your reaction to the plea for a decision on the part of young teachers? Shall we teach idealistic truth in the classrooms, as Dr. Clapp seems to believe we should, or should we laugh out of court all inspiring though unrealistic bits of historical or biographical literature as presented in textbooks and readers?

Is it a matter of how these George Washington cherry tree stories are presented to the children or of whether or not we should present them at all?

THE ALUMNUS will be glad to print several brief statements of opinion in the matter from Teachers College graduates. Send in your letters on or before November 15.
truth may be found in the field of mathematics... The mathematician has developed a world of truth that ignores the imperfections and the crudities of the world of objective reality.

"I recall a young man, a teacher, whose faith in ideals had been shaken. It had been shaken because in the world of objective reality he encountered men and women whose exemplification of truth and sincerity and honest dealing did not measure up to the ideals of such conduct that he had been led to expect. For this reason, he was about ready to change his fundamental philosophy of life from idealism to realism. He was ready to have his thinking and his conclusions determined, not by truth as determined in a world of perfection, as does the mathematician, but in a world of sordid reality; a world of contradictions, of confusion; of imperfections and crudities.

"The ideals of human conduct and of human relationships in general belong in the same class of truth as do the concepts of the mathematician and of the Christian. They belong to the great world of idealistic truth. They have been conceived without the hampering and restraining hand of a social world of imperfections and crudities... But, we should not doubt their reality, their truth, any more than we doubt the truth of lines and points in mathematics, the truth of any element in the idealistic world.

"However, we must understand just what these ideals are; we must know their nature and their function. We must learn their application to a world of objective reality. We must interpret our concepts so as to apply them to the objective world in the light of conditions as they are found there just as does the mathematician.

"We must remember that it is in this world that man has reached his greatest height in the development of truth that is applicable to the objective world; it is in this world that man thinks without the interference that comes from an objective world of conflict and confusions; it is in this world that many men maintain is to be found the only real truth.

"There are many perplexing questions that arise in connection with a faith in ideals and in their application to the world of reality. These questions are typified in the idealistic characters found in certain literature. For example, should Longfellow have created a character that exemplified such perfect devotion as did his Evangeline?

"A little careful thinking will reveal that such questions are not after all fundamental questions of truth nor even of the advisability of creating and maintaining ideals. Rather, they are questions of ways and means. Literature in part is an exemplification of ideals; it is an attempt to dramatize and to personify the ideals and culture of a people; the stories of Beowulf, of George Washington, of Santa Claus, and of Abraham Lincoln that have no foundation in fact are merely attempts to dramatize and to personify in the minds of youth the idealistic truths that represent the culture and the beliefs

Hall maidens, as well as others, every afternoon and evening that was warm enough for him to be out of doors.

"Dad", formerly a Cerro Gordo county farmer, was 77 on August 1. His daughter, Hazel Aldrich, now Mrs. Edward P. Finnegan, Beverly Hills, California, graduated from Teachers College in 1914 with the M. Di. Degree, in 1916 with the B. A. Degree and the Certificate in Critic Training. Later she received the M. A. Degree from Columbia University.

Between customers at the pop corn wagon, "Dad" sits out under the big elm waiting for an opponent in a checker match. Sometimes it's a student, but more often a professor—frequently Homer Haddox, of the Language Department.

Yes, the pop corn wagon is still there. Alumni. Come home Homecoming, and see for yourselves.

_Alumni Break Bread With Faculty at N. E. A. Reunion in Denver_

Ably led by Fred R. Lyon, B. A. '17, Edith M. Brittain, P. E. '14, and Frances Hersey, student at Teachers College from 1914 to 1916, and daughter of Professor S. F. Hersey, local committee of Denver alumni, a highly successful dinner and reunion was carried out for the N. E. A. alumni on July 2.

A delightful setting was obtained in the charming dining room in Elitch's Amusement Gardens. A large and enthusiastic delegation came early and filled the time completely with personal greetings. Ten states were represented, the most distant being New Jersey on the east and California on the west. The three-course dinner was most satisfying, though it scarcely halted the flow of conversation.

Mr. Lyon served as master of ceremonies and called for words of brief greetings from all faculty members in service now or at former times who were present. Responses were made by the following: A. C. Fuller, Alpha C. Mayfield, Alison Aitchison, H. S. Buffum, Lillian Lambert, Lula M. Jenkins, Mrs. Fred D. Cram (as an "in-law"), Clark Brown, Henry J. Peterson, and C. A. Fullerton. The Iowa Corn Song was sung by request and the Loyalty Song by a volunteer group.

Teachers College spirit and many expressions of personal obligations to faculty members made a memorable occasion. All who were privileged to be present voted the reunion an outstanding success.—A. C. Fuller.

Come a few hours earlier and be a part of this enthusiastic reunion which is recognized as a significant feature of the annual state convention. Note that the hours, 4:30 to 7:50 o’clock, will fit into any evening plans.

_Nine of Class of '10 Served in World War, Records Show_

Interest in affairs military aroused by the picture of the Normal Cadets carried in the July issue of the Alumnus brings to light the fact that nine members of the 1910 Class, which held its twenty-five year reunion here last June, saw military service during the World War.

Twelve Newcomers On College Teaching Staff

Strayer, Wild, Harbeson Among Professors on Leave During Current Academic Year

T WELVE newcomers to the Iowa State Teachers College staff were on hand to greet students when they returned at the opening of the fall quarter September 9.

Seven members of the teaching staff who were granted leaves of absence are: H. Darkes Albright and Hazel B. Strayer, of the Drama Division of the English Department; Marybelle McClelland and Elsie J. Duncan, of the Library staff; Mrs. Iris Branagan, of the Art Department; Monica Wild, head of the Women’s Physical Education Department, and Dr. R. W. Harbeson, of the Social Science Department.

Velma Colbrook and Gracia Robinson, of the Teaching Department; O. Lincoln Igou, Music Department; Dr. Veronica O’Brien, health director of Bartlett Hall, and Luella Overn, of the Home Economics Department, are the instructors who resigned to accept other positions.

Dr. Vio Mae Powell, head of the Department of Speech and Drama at the southern branch of the University of Idaho, was granted a year’s leave of absence to become visiting assistant professor of English, taking Miss Strayer’s place as director of play production. Replacing Dr. O’Brien is Dr. Anita V. Green, formerly on the staff of the State Tuberculosis Hospital at Lima, Ohio. The Teaching Department has four new members: Dr. Marguirette Struble, who was connected previously with the Department, but resigned eight years ago for further study; Gladys E. Hanson, supervisor in primary grades at West Waterloo, a Teachers College graduate; Mildred Rice, art supervisor, and Genevieve Rystrom, music supervisor at Hudson.

Doris E. White has assumed the administrative duties of Miss Wild, and Kathleen Brophy has been added to the staff as instructor in physical education. Carl Anton Wirth has taken Mr. Igou’s place as instructor in brass instruments. He has studied for nine years under Arcade Yegudkin, and holds two degrees from the Eastman School of Music. Anne L. Jones and Helen Newmeyer have been added to the Library staff. Evelyn Mullins, present assistant circulation librarian, assumed the duties of Miss McClelland and has Miss Jones for her assistant. Miss Newmeyer is juvenile librarian in the absence of Miss Duncan.

Lucile McCall has replaced Miss Overn, and James Carlton Dockey has taken over Dr. Harbeson’s duties. Dr. Harbeson is serving this year as visiting professor at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, New Jersey.

Another addition to the College staff has been Iris Hobbs, of Ames, who is assistant director of foods in charge of the fountain room at the Commons. Miss Hobbs has a degree in institutional management and has served as assistant to the dietician in the boarding department at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio.

two of the best selling volumes of recent contemporary thought, “Moral Men and Immoral Society,” and “Reflections on the End of an Era.”

Mr. Hall, an eastern realty man, explained the Better Housing Program of the Federal Housing Administration to students and faculty at a special assembly on July 31. Mr. Hall has been connected with the department of public relations since the inauguration of the FHA and has visited more than two hundred communities and addressed large audiences both in person and over the radio.

CLINIC AND LECTURES Selection of salads from cafeteria lineups, with the care necessary in selecting the desserts that belong with them, is one of several topics that will be explained to co-eds in a series of laboratory demonstration lectures planned for the fall term by the social standards committee of the Women’s League. Lectures will be held every Thursday afternoon. Among the topics slated for presentation are room decoration, sandwich making, care of clothes, line and color in clothes, costume accessories, hair dressing, makeup, and silverware, linen, and china.

Advice on making over clothes as well as on making the most of those they now have through the choice of proper shoes, hats, gloves, and accessories is given to Teachers College women students by Bernice Allen, assistant professor of home economics, in the weekly dress clinic sponsored by the social standards committee of the League.
Teachers College "Profs" Are Real Fellows

PROOF that the professors at the Iowa State Teachers College are real fellows is provided by the pictures shown on this page of the Alumnus. There would seem to be no place for stiff-necked academic nonsense nor false classroom dignity among the faculty members at Teachers College if these pictures are any indication.

In a recent letter addressed to prospective students, David Grant, B. A. '35, then head of the Student Council, writing from the student's viewpoint declared, "I can assure you that at Teachers College you will find general facilities and equipment unsurpassed, and instructors who are really good fellows and possessed of human understanding as well as technical ability."

Although Teachers College has one of the best trained faculties among colleges of its kind and although the professors are attaining higher degrees with each succeeding year, the men and women who make up the staff have not forgotten to play. Witness of this fact is the traditional Thursday afternoon four o'clock volleyball contest. This Thursday afternoon recreation is as much a part of the schedule of many of the professors as are their regular classroom lectures.

The extent to which both masculine and feminine members of the teaching staff have become golf addicts can be seen on any pleasant fall afternoon. The college course fairly whistles with the steady flight of the well known small spheroids. "Steady" is perhaps too favorable an adjective.

Handball, tennis, attendance and participation in the annual student-faculty Play Day, and an annual picnic are among some of the relaxations of the faculty men.
Student "Sketch Book" Issued

The "Sketch Book" is out! Sigma Tau Delta, national honorary English fraternity, has published a book of Teachers College students' prose, a companion volume to "The Student Book of Verse".

Sixty-three prose selections, including short stories, sketches, and essays, representing fifty-eight authors, appear in the new volume. It was edited by Roger Bennett, B. A. '35, with Miss Selina M. Terry, professor of English, serving as adviser. Although much of the work in the volume is by present alumni, the writings are products of their student days. Selections cover a period from about 1929 to 1935.

Several local color stories appear in the volume. Mr. Morrissey's story, although the author had never been there, is laid in Ireland. "Geisha," by John Cass, a love story of Hawaii, is laid in a land that claimed the author for two years. Francis Talarico, B. S. '34, has contributed an Italian story, "The Two Letters." Bridget A. Wells, B. A. '34, who has returned to her native Burma, writes of "April Nights in Burma," and many others have written in dialects and of regions that they know well.

The "Sketch Book," of 150 pages, is bound in blue cloth, with yellow name plate on the backbone. The frontispiece, a linoleum cut by Dorothy May Wilson and poem by Jane Becknell, B. A. '32, centers around the birch tree in the island between the Auditorium Building and the Dean of Faculty's home. The "Sketch Book" will be mailed anywhere, Miss Terry says, for $1.05. "The Student Book of Verse" has been selling for 75 cents, but both books can now be bought for $1.50.

Shall We Teach Ideal Truth?

of a people. They are not true in the world of objective reality, but they represent great concepts resulting from the experiences of the race. The fundamental question is not one concerning the value of ideals or of the advisability of developing them, but one concerning the method of teaching ideals, of making them clear to the minds of youth.

"It is no defense of stories of the wretchedness that creeps into the life of every individual at times to say that they tell the truth concerning humanity; nor is it a condemnation of idealistic literature to say that it is not the truth as found in the world of objective reality. Literature exists for a purpose—the purpose of maintaining and uplifting the ideals of men and women—the purpose of making the world the place that it might be.

"Shall we change our conception of human conduct as it might be, simply because the examples of human conduct that we see are such poor representations of our concepts? Instead, let us interpret our concepts of human conduct in the idealistic world as all concepts of idealistic truth must be interpreted; and also let us interpret the exemplifications of such concepts in the world of objective reality as merely representations, very crude and imperfect, as all representations of idealistic truth must be interpreted. Let us keep our thinking clear as to the distinction between idealistic and realistic truth and as to the function of each. In all questions of procedure involving idealistic and realistic truth let us be sure to distinguish between truth and the means of impressing truth on the world in general.

"The issues that I have attempted to discuss are burning issues in American education today. There are among us those who would insist upon the elimination of idealistic truth from the curriculum and from the general procedure of the school. It is for the young people that are now going out to take up the burden of teaching to decide such questions in the future."
Panthers Open Season Under New Head Coach

TOM JOHNSON, Illinois graduate of 1922, formerly coach, and lately in business at Marinette, Wisconsin, was named on September 14 to succeed Dave McCuskey as head football coach at Teachers College following McCuskey’s resignation because of ill health. McCuskey, who underwent a nose operation during August and never fully recovered, asked for and obtained leave of absence in order to regain his health.

Johnson was a three-sport man at Illinois, competing in football, basketball, and baseball, captaining the 1922 nine. Since graduation he has coached at Marinette for six years and then at Male High School, Louisville, Kentucky. Johnson retired from coaching this year to enter business.

Bill Bevan, who was named line coach at the same time McCuskey’s appointment was announced, will serve in the same capacity for Johnson. Bevan, an All-American guard on Minnesota’s national championship football team last year, plans to return to Minnesota during the winter for more work, returning here after graduation.

The appointment of McCuskey as head coach came as the culmination of five years of outstanding work on the Faculty of Teachers College. McCuskey, a star back for four years previous to 1930 and a regular pitcher his last three years, served as backfield coach, head wrestling coach, and freshman baseball coach during the past four years. In that time he developed wrestling teams which won two-thirds of the contests against the strongest aggregations in the Western Conference and the Big Six.

Bevan, one of the brightest and most consistent of last year’s crop of college guards, came highly recommended by his Alma Mater, where he had been signed to serve as freshman coach before he received the Teachers College appointment.

McCuskey, who was appointed to succeed John Baker, underwent the operation in order to be in the best of physical condition for the football season. He suffered a relapse, however, several days before the season started, but refused to stay away from practice.

Sixteen lettermen and the two new coaches started out from scratch September 9 in the effort to build a new era in Iowa State Teach-

Fifty-Three Receive Awards for Baseball, Track Competition

Board of Control of Athletics Announces Names of Men Proficient in Sports

Fifty-three Panther athletes received awards for competition in baseball and track last season, with the freshman baseball and varsity track squads heading the list with 17 and 15 each. Varsity baseball awards went to 12 men, while freshman numerals were granted 10 track men by the athletic board.

THREE-SPORT MEN ALL

Champlin  McCabe  Stout

Three varsity athletes, pictured above, and two freshmen displayed sufficient prowess to be given letters or numerals in three sports last year. John Champlin, Iowa Falls; Keith McCabe, Naperville, Ill., and Don Stout, Cedar Falls, were the varsity representatives, while Frank Sirriani, Marshalltown, and George Miner, Cedar Falls, were the freshman stars.

Each of the Panthers was a football player, but found a variety of other sports to complete the list of awards. Champlin, a junior, added wrestling and baseball; McCabe and Stout, both sophomores, competed in basketball and track; Sirriani was on the basketball and baseball teams, while Miner competed in basketball and track.

Panthers Start With New Coach

ers College football history. Faced with official entrance into the North Central Intercollegiate Athletic Conference next fall, players and coaches alike appeared ready to tackle the assignment with vicious anticipation.

Coaches McCuskey and Bevan were working with a squad of forty men for about a week before McCuskey’s illness and appeared to be getting the team in fine shape for the Homecoming battle with Western Michigan Teachers.

Eight consecutive games with some of the strongest colleges in the Middle-West will contribute little to the rest and peace of mind of the two new coaches. The Teachers College team will meet both Western Michigan Teachers, Michigan State Normal, as well as South Dakota State and Morningside, North Central rivals, Coe, Cornell and Grinnell, strong state rivals, and Simpson, an Iowa Conference foe of long standing.
Most Valuable Players Named By Athletic Board

Meikle, Scott Honored in Track and Baseball; Scott Pitched No-hit Game at Ypsilanti

Earle Meikle, Oelwein, and Everett Scott, Waterloo, were named the most valuable men on the track and baseball teams by the Athletic Board at its annual summer meeting.

Meikle, a quartermiler, was the second high scorer on the team for the year, winning the Iowa Conference 440-yard dash for the third straight year and placing second to Orville Nichols in the North Central quartermile race. Meikle also was a member of Panther record breaking relay teams, running third on the 440-yard team which set a new Teachers College Relay record; third on the half mile relay team, which set new records at the Teachers College Relays, the Drake Relays, the Iowa Conference Meet, as well as setting up a new school record; and third on the mile relay team, which set a new standard for the Teachers College Relays and won the Drake Relay event.

Scott, a pitcher, clinched his bid for the most valuable award when he turned in a 6 to 0 win over Michigan Normal at Ypsilanti, setting the Wolverines down without a single hit. Scott won two while losing two last season, striking out 25, and walking 10 in 34⅔ innings, allowing 25 hits. He also ranked second in hitting with an average of .333.

Four Get Tennis Letters

Four letters were awarded to Iowa State Teachers College tennis men last season. Ross Cutler was the only senior on the list.

Stanley Reeves, North Central singles champion; William McNabb, North Central doubles champion together with Reeves, and William Hinson will all be on hand when Coach Homer Hadcox issues the first call next spring.

What a Diamond Squad This!

Seniors of 1892 Wallop Whole Normal Back in Good Old Days When . . .

The seniors defeated the rest of the old Normal 9 to 5 in a baseball game back in 1892 and the week following took the measure of the first and second-year classes combined, with a 9 to 7 score, according to a letter of reminiscences of college days sent to The Alumnus by C. C. Hammerly, M. Di. '92, a fruit rancher at Linnton, Oregon, a suburb of Portland.

The lineup in the game, as Mr. Hammerly gives it, was as follows:

First base, S. L. Thomas, B. A. '07, head of the science department in a Des Moines high school; second base, W. W. Wilson, M. Di. '92, Traer, Iowa, farmer and legislator; third base, E. A. Creary, (deceased) former official of Grundy County; catcher J. P. Huget, M. Di. '92, New York City minister; short stop, G. H. Olmstead, M. Di. '92, manager of an insurance branch at Grand Forks, North Dakota; outfielders, R. C. Adams, M. Di. '92, sociology professor at University of Hawaii; J. L. McLaughlin, M. Di. '92, secretary of the American Bible Society, Chicago; A. F. Burton, (deceased) captain in the Spanish-American War; and pitcher, Mr. Hammerly.

The Hammerlys now live on a fruit ranch near Portland. During two of his last three years of teaching, while he was superintendent of schools at Imbler, Mr. Hammerly coached the championship high school baseball team in the state of Oregon. In his last year of teaching, he coached a girls' basketball team that lost the first game of the season by a single point; then they won twelve straight.

At present, Mr. Hammerly has a book in the hands of the publisher containing scientific data on the subject of “Water-Witching.”

The Hammerlys have two sons, one a teacher in a trade school at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and interested in an outside printing establishment, and the other with the Federal Reserve Bank in Portland. The sons both have children of their own.

IT'S HOMECOMING!

The photographer was having such an exciting time snapping all the big events last year that he forgot to turn his roll of film.

A sign in the corner drug store window and the Alpha Delta Alpha prize winning HOMECOMING decorations are all mixed up in the above picture.

But you won't get mixed up. Committees are already busy planning a pleasant day for you.

COME TO CEDAR FALLS, OCTOBER 19

JOIN THE CROWD

AND WE'LL BE SEEING YOU
Three Decades of Dress

A bit heavy were the costumed graces of those other days. Returning alumni of those years are frequently a bit startled at the “Gym” clothes — But the girls are every whit as “good” and gracious today.

And just as fine young women today
