Chicago Alumni Unit Holds Annual Meeting

Friday evening, December 14, the Chicago Alumni unit held their annual meeting. The announcement gave the Golden Dragon Restaurant as the place "in the heart of Chinatown". There was a seven-course dinner entirely Chinese—chop sticks optional equipment—which was a surprise and a continual delight. Following the dinner, there was a visit to the unique and impressive Temple, where a genuine Chinese evening school was in progress. Pause in the tour through Chinatown was made at both the ornate Court Room and the Chinese Chamber of Commerce Council Room. The message from the campus was divided between these two fine places. The alumni concluded the tour by visiting two Chinese stores.

Secretary A. C. Fuller Attends

The campus visitor had a most vivid impression of the depth of feeling manifested and the sincerity of interest shown by the Chicago Alumni Unit in the progress of the College and in the outlook for its affairs in the future. If each alumni unit and individual alumnus could carry expressions of good will and genuine concern for the welfare of the institution to those responsible for support and management, the effect would be most beneficial.

The Chicago Alumni Unit is prominent in the leadership which is now taking place among "T. C." alumni and augurs well for institutional welfare, and the cause of teacher-training particularly.

The annual meeting found the following people elected to leadership for the ensuing year: Marjorie Gist Sward, K'g. '16, president, 10349 South Hoyne Avenue; Mary McAdams, J. C. '19, vice president, 4725 Drexel Boulevard; M. V. Shore, B. A. '20, secretary and treasurer, 6457 Campbell Avenue.

The following were among those present: Etta Fluke, B. A. '22, librarian, Fenger High School; Hazel Hamilton, B. A. '28, 2026 North Clark; Joe S. Wright, B. A. '09, 330 Webster Avenue; Mrs. Joe S. Wright (Mabel Byrle McNally), B. A. '10, 330 Webster Avenue; M. V. Shore; Mrs. M. V. Shore (Margaret Crisman), B. A. '21, 6457 South Campbell; Mrs. Marjorie Gist Sward; Paul R. Farlow, B. A. '17, 8351 Maryland Avenue; Mary McAdams; Mrs. Edgar E. Walker (Cilena G. Mercer), M. Di. '00, 6723 Stewart Avenue; Hazel Stover, J. C. '25, 700 Fullerton; Esther Bell Whitaker MacNeill, Pri. '23, 6134 South Spaulding Ave.; David Lee Shillinglaw, 5733 Blackstone; Gladys Crisman, B. A. '10, 6457 South Campbell; Mrs. Charles B. Horrocks (Alma A. Manson), B. Di. '20, 4341 Highland Avenue, Downers Grove, Illinois.

Over 50 individual messages of greeting were carried back to various members of the faculty.

Alumni to Meet in Kansas City

A meeting of Iowa State Teachers College graduates and former students is being planned for Saturday evening, January 26, at Kansas City, Missouri. This will be a joint meeting with alumni and former students of all educational institutions in Iowa. A. C. Fuller, director of the Bureau of Alumni Affairs, will be there for Iowa State Teachers College; F. G. Higbee for the University of Iowa; Harold Pride for Iowa State College; H. W. Matlock for Grinnell College; and John L. Horsley for Simpson College. Doubtless, representatives from other institutions will be able to attend.

Dr. Charles F. Lowry, 1010 Medical Arts Building, Kansas City, University of Iowa alumnus, is in charge of local arrangements. All "T. C." alumni in Kansas City are invited and urged to cooperate in the plans. Dr. Lowry and his local committee will soon be issuing further information as to meeting place and other plans. Any Teachers College friend who is interested will be welcome. To assist the local committee, alumni who plan to be present should write to Dr. Lowry.
Secretary Reports Big Homecoming Celebration

A CHECK-UP on attendance at the annual Homecoming celebration shows that 555 alumni registered. Out of 57 graduating classes, one or more from 38 different classes were on hand for Homecoming. Mrs. Matilda Palmer Scheeler, N. C. '78, from Marshalltown, represented the earliest class. Mrs. Eliza Rawstern Wright upheld the Class of 1879, while Mrs. Besse Simpson Bedford, B. Di. '07, Alhambra, California, had the record for coming the longest distance. She drew the prize, a toy automobile.

Alumni came from all parts of Iowa and from nine other states. Eighty-five counties from Iowa had one or more present. Other than Black Hawk, the county with the largest representation was Butler, with 22 registered.

Forty-one representatives of the Women's Physical Education Department were on hand for the annual Homecoming hockey game and tea. The senior class hockey team won.

Bartlett Hall was literally swarming with returning women graduates. All available guest space was exhausted and much sharing of rooms was employed.

More than 30 graduates in dramatic lines came for the Homecoming play Friday evening.

The Homecoming luncheon had to move into the large main dining room of the cafeteria, where 328 were served. After a period of community singing, informal talks were made by Eugene B. Lynch, B. A. '21, who served as toastmaster, and by President O. R. Latham, who outlined briefly the plans for the Bureau of Alumni Affairs and Public School Relationships. The feature of the entertainment was a dramatic skit under the direction of Miss Hazel Strayer, assisted by six alumni who specialized in play production. In appropriate costume and with song they depicted times and sentiments of 1880, 1890, and 1900. Those taking part were: Helen Swedberg, B. A. '31, Iowa Falls; Raymond Pedersen, El. '34, Mt. Auburn; Virginia Philpot, B. A. '34, Rowan; Burton Byers, B. A. '34, Greeley; Gwen Kern, B. A. '31, Elkader; and Lillian Dresser, B. A. '29, Cedar Falls.

The Commons proved a most delightful place to register, to provide and serve the Homecoming luncheon, as a logical gathering place for the after-game coffee, and as headquarters for the Homecoming dancing party.

In spite of an increasing number of conflicting activities, a goodly number of alumni were present for the annual business meeting of the general Alumni Association. New officers elected are: President, Edward A. Ralston, '23, West Union; Vice-President, Robert L. Ebel, '32, Cedar Rapids; Secretary, A. C. Fuller, '99, Bureau of Alumni Affairs and Public School Relationships; Treasurer, Dr. W. D. Wiler, '98, Cedar Falls; Directors, Eugene B. Lynch, '21, Sigourney, Helen Swedberg, '31, Iowa Falls, Glenn T. Cowan, '20, Iowa Falls, Maurice A. Kramer, '33, Sioux Rapids, J. Dale Welsch, '22, Elkader, Rena Jean Nelson, '26, Osage.

Growing interest in the organizing of local units of alumni was much in evidence at the reunion. The welfare of the educational interests of Iowa and the growth and development of the Iowa State Teachers College have many points in common. Every alumni unit of the Iowa State Teachers College becomes a member of a standing army for the common good. Let's have more units. Extend your acquaintances among the fellow alumni in your vicinity. Multiply and expand your efforts for better educational facilities and higher standards of teacher preparation.—A. C. Fuller.

Reunion At Denver NEA

Colorado alumni under the leadership of those living in or near Denver are planning great things for Teachers College alumni and former students during the N. E. A. convention. An appropriate interval in the program will be selected and some near-by beauty spot will increase the delights. Dates of the N. E. A. are Sunday, June 30, to Saturday, July 6. Watch for further announcement of plans in the April issue of the Alumnus. On to Denver!

Debaters Visit Mexico

Teachers College debaters traveled to Monterey, Mexico, late in December on the first major trip of the debate season. Don Barker, Milton; James Curtis, Maquoketa; and David Grant, Oelwein, were the three veterans who made the journey, debating on their return trip against Southwestern Teachers College of San Marcos, Texas; Baylor University, Waco, Texas; University of Tulsa; Wichita University; Emporia Teachers College of Kansas; Park College, Parkville, Missouri; and the University of Missouri. They also attended the National Convention of the Teachers of Speech at New Orleans, Louisiana, on December 27, 28, and 29.
"Democracy Is Deathless," Declares Dr. Abbott

DEmOCRACY is on the rack in America today, Dr. Roy L. Abbott, professor of biology at Teachers College, warned members of the fall term graduating class in his commencement address on Tuesday, November 27. But he went on to point out that Democracy is inevitable. It "will be born again and again into the world, for Democracy is the free spirit that exalts the individual above the senseless state. It may be trampled and smothered...but it will come again."

Fifteen students joined the ranks of alumni in the exercises this fall, receiving degrees and diplomas on Tuesday, after attending the reception by President and Mrs. O. R. Latham on Sunday, and taking part in the graduation dinner on Monday.

The exercises opened at 7:30 P.M. in the College Auditorium with George W. Samson Jr., instructor in organ, playing the processional. Dr. Harold A. Bosley, director of religious activities, delivered the invocation, followed by two songs by Helen McMillan, Hudson, "As We Part," by Ingelfritz, and "Twilight Dreams," by Sibella. Dr. Abbott's address, "A Plea for Democracy," followed.

Rachel Rosenberger, Cedar Falls, played Kreisler's "La Gitana" on the violin, after which Dr. Latham conferred the diplomas and degrees.

Six Receive B. A. Degree

The graduates and the degrees and diplomas received are as follows: Bachelor of Arts—Paul A. Johnson, Montezuma; Grace Leversee, Cedar Falls; Francis Marian Pedersen, Waterloo; Jean McKenzie, Virginia City, Minnesota; Maud Rupp, Urbana; Mildred Schuster, Dyersville.

Nursery School and Kindergarten Teacher Diploma, Agnes Claudene Hopely, Omaha, Nebraska. Rural Teacher Diploma, Lois Maxine Early, Dumont.

Fall Term Graduates Hear Stirring Plea for Liberty

The high points of Dr. Abbott's speech follow:

"It is perhaps presumptuous, but I thank God that I have the privilege of speaking to you, young ladies and gentlemen, at this most momentous period of the world's history. I thank God, too, that I am speaking in still Democratic America to Democratic Americans, that I can say to you what I want to say without fear, without danger that tonight I may be dragged from my bed and murdered for having raised my voice against a ruthless and senseless wrong.

"Before the World War, if someone had asked me what I considered the most stable form of government, I would have answered unhesitatingly, why, Democracy, of course. In twenty short years, however, my certainty has changed to uncertainty, but I still want Democracy, and that is to be my theme tonight."

Industry Establishes Democracy

The speaker went on to point out Democracy had its real birth in the teachings of Christ, but that into these idealistic beginnings profane realities soon injected themselves. Gun powder, the printing press, free schools, the machinery of credit, and the further extension of machine power all played a part in the rise of Democracy. The Industrial Revolution, especially, developed a new rich class which broke the hold of aristocracy, demanded political power equal to their economic power, and established Democracy as the glory of America and the envy of the world.

Dr. Abbott pointed out that the man in the street is wrong in his belief that the depression causes Democracy's ills. He then summarized the arguments against Democracy as advanced by communists, fascists, and aristocrats. The communists declare that the parties essential to a democratic government are expensive, that they can be paid for only by the rich, and that they ultimately put the rich in power.

"The fascist," said the speaker, "declares that the extreme personal liberty of a Democracy curses the land with continuous strikes, lockouts, and labor disturbances which have fearful economic costs. The fascists would place the state in supreme command. They assume that the great masses of men can never rise above self-interest and a consequent inability to govern themselves. Fascism works because the state knows what is good for it.

"The oldest and perhaps the most powerful critic of Democracy is the aristocrat," the speaker declared. "The aristocrat says that no Democracy is really a Democracy after all. A nation is not composed of a majority and a minority but is really a group of minorities. Sooner or later one of these minorities comes into power. In the United States, they say, we have an aristocracy composed of capitalists."

Dr. Abbott then proceeded to refute the arguments of these opponents of Democracy. He pointed out that the soap-box orator's "Sunday supplement and rotogravure" dream of fascism, which pictures a land of fascist-built highways, drained swamps, and slumless cities, is not the whole picture of a fascism which muzzles the press, gives castor oil to its critics, and commands blind and paralyzing obedience.

"Are we so poor in statesmanship that we want orderliness at such a price? No! It is order indeed, but it is at the price of men's souls," declared the speaker.

"Young ladies and gentlemen, tonight at your graduation, I should be false in my duty if I did not tell you that I believe your freedom to be endangered. We are being regimented, that is, made to cooperate coercively. The thirst for expansion and power of bureaucracy is not the only danger. The fiercest impact of regimentation and dictatorship is upon representative government, . . . Even partial regimentation is the beginning of fascism and dictatorship and the decline of Democracy. Any other opinion is a delusion and a snare."

The speaker deplored the use of the best brains of the country by industry and applied science, and the practice of putting mediocrity into government. "Sometimes when I view the corruption of our municipalities, the piracy of some of our industrialists, the spectacle of ten million jobless men, . . . I too, am tempted to doubt Democracy, but when I contemplate what has been substituted for it by other nations, . . . I say, none of this for me.

"Democracy is not only desirable but inevitable," Dr. Abbott explained. "It will be born again and again into the world, for Democracy is the free spirit that exalts the individual above the senseless state. It may be trampled and smothered by Communism and Fascism and other 'isms' and follies yet unborn, but it will come again into the ways and governments of men, for it is deathless!"

Speech Clinics Form New Service

During the past term, the Iowa State Teachers College has been rendering a service to neighboring public school systems through the speech clinics which Dr. F. W. Lamberton, professor of public speaking and debate coach, has been conducting. Eight clinics were sponsored during the fall at the schools in Jesup, Hudson, New Hampton, Colfax, Dunkerton, Orange Township, and La Porte, and in Grant School in Waterloo.

Book of Student Verse Sells Fast

Although Sigma Tau Delta, national honorary English fraternity for writers, thought they had enough copies of their “Book of Verse by Students of the Iowa State Teachers College” to last for several years, it looks now as though the supply will be exhausted before the end of the school year in June.

Material for the February issue of the Purple Pen, the other publication of the fraternity, will be selected early in January. It is hoped to continue the new enlarged size, which was started with the November issue. The fall number contained 36 instead of the usual 32 pages, and had two illustrations instead of the customary frontispiece. The February issue will have either a sketch or short story in Spanish, written by Ralph Moritz, Waterloo. Both have been submitted, but Roger Bennett, Waterloo, editor, feels that there is only room for one foreign selection in the magazine, which will be on sale shortly after February 1.

Alumni wishing to obtain either publication may write direct to Miss Selina Terry.

Reunion Diners Greet Madame Secretary Perkins

The annual Reunion and Dinner of Iowa State Teachers College alumni was held at Des Moines in connection with the Iowa State Teachers Association on Friday, November 2. It measured up to the anticipations of all and easily upheld the standards of excellence both in point of program and in interest and enthusiasm.

Professor and Mrs. S. A. Lynch, from the College, with Mr. and Mrs. Dwight James and Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Tesdell, all of Des Moines, were prominent among those who first greeted all comers at the Hotel Fort Des Moines. The social hour was alive with enthusiastic reunions of individuals and groups.

As a prelude to the after-dinner program, platform guests were introduced. Mrs. Howard Clark, '91, of Des Moines; Miss Maude Gilchrist, '80, of Des Moines, daughter of former President J. C. Gilchrist; Miss Anna Lynam, '13, eightieth president of the Iowa State Teachers Association and tenth person identified with Teachers College to hold the office of president since 1900; Dr. E. C. Denny, the new head of the Department of Education; Dr. J. B. Paul, Director of the Bureau of Research; and Mrs. Cora Simpson, of Decorah, member of the State Board of Education, were all presented.

The toast program included three numbers from the Faculty Male Quartet, composed of W. E. Hays, '12, L. A. Richman, H. G. Palmer, '24, I. W. Wolfe, '25, with Mrs. Wolfe, '31, at the piano. Robert L. Ebel, '32, Cedar Rapids, gave alumni sentiments in the toast "In the Field". Dr. M. J. Nelson, Dean of the Faculty, brought campus and faculty greetings in the toast "On the March".

As a climax for the program, those in attendance were afforded the privilege of extending social courtesies of the Iowa State Teachers Association to Madame Secretary Perkins, of Washington, D. C. She was presented by Agnes Samuelson, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and talked informally for about twelve minutes. Secretary Perkins impressed all with her charm and with her comprehensive grasp of the great social problems confronting education.

Ralph C. Turbett, B. S. '33, is acting as draftsman for the Iowa Electric Light and Power Company at Toledo, Iowa.

Hats Off to California Unit

Hats off to California for the alumni unit established farthest from the campus! "California, here we come" with all proper honors for you. News of the organization of the California unit was brought in to the regular annual business meeting held on Homecoming day by Mrs. Besse Simpson Bedford, Class of 1907, located at Alhambra, California. As we understand it, the California unit of the Iowa State Teachers College alumni is about the most important event in the annual picnic of Iowans in southern California for at least 180 of the 800 alumni of Teachers College residing in California. Dr. George H. Mount, member of the Class of 1903, one time professor of education in the Department of Education at Iowa State Teachers College and now professor of psychology and chairman of the Department in the University of Southern California, is the president of the California alumni unit. The Alumnus is proud of this newest addition to the growing number of thriving alumni units. We ask the corresponding secretary of the California unit and others in California to whom these greetings come to send in news items for these columns.

Frank C. Woods, M. Di '95, and Mrs. Woods were campus visitors December 4, 1934. They were returning from an extended auto tour through the South. Mr. Woods found special delight in visiting the classroom of Miss Anna McGovern, now part of the main office for the Extension Division; the old chapel room, now known as Gilchrist Chapel; and "Room A," home of the Philomathean Literary Society in Central Building.

As a fellow student, Mr. Woods helped care for Charles A. Frederick after his injury in an explosion of chemicals in the old basement laboratory. Many were the tales told by Mr. Woods and Charles A. Fullerton as they reviewed student days and their service together in the Manson, Iowa, public schools.

Mr. Woods has been located at Stephen, Minnesota, for several years, where he continues to look after his farming interests.

Watson Text Sets Record

Something of a record in the use of a mathematics text is being set by the one for college freshmen of which E. E. Watson, professor of mathematics at Teachers College, is co-author. This is the fifth year since the publication of "Freshman Mathematics;" yet the text was used in 62 colleges and universities last year, and is being used this year in almost as many. The Macmillan Company have already asked for a revision to be placed before the schools in 1936.

Among the colleges and universities using the Watson text this year are Johns Hopkins University, New York University, University of Southern California, University of Idaho, Boston University, University of Chattanooga, Oklahoma City University, Pennsylvania State Teachers College, Indiana State Teachers College, Swarthmore College, Rhode Island College of Education, and Parsons College.
Design and Beauty Stressed in Manual Arts

By H. G. Palmer, Instructor in Manual Arts

A GREAT deal of attention and emphasis is given to the matter of design and appreciation in the manual arts curriculum at the Iowa State Teachers College. Since the major part of the work deals with the planning and constructing of articles of usefulness which are expressed in various materials, it becomes a duty of teachers of this work to be ever on the alert for the best that can be had in both construction and beauty.

Nearly as much time is consumed during the term in the selection, planning, and organizing of a project as in the actual constructing process. The thought here is that thru this type of procedure the student can be taught not only the tool and machinery technique relative to the project, but will gain a great deal in regard to the art requirements which must be given attention if the undertaking is to be worthy of consideration.

There is an attempt being made to develop in the student a suitable degree of the craftsman spirit, as well as to give him the necessary information that will enable him to teach the work in the high schools.

The students are required to develop plans and courses of study for various sized schools, are asked to plan projects for special classes, special seasonal-interest projects or problems, problems which have various types of motivation factors, problems correlated with various high school courses, problems involving group activity which afford opportunities for various kinds of citizenship training and productive leisure-time activities.

The instruction that is offered in regard to a certain project involves three distinct and important considerations. First, is the matter of function. We must consider what use is going to be made of the article, for the use to which the article is to be put limits and determines the specifications according to which it will be made. Second, is the matter of beauty. What shall be the style, period motifs, and other refinements, such as outline and surface enrichment? Too often this section receives little or no attention, the teacher or the student thinking that as long as the purpose is served, they achieve the goal.

Third, is the matter of finish appropriate to and in keeping with the nature of the structure, involving such questions as color and harmony, high finish or dull finish, whether the beauty is to be gained from the figure in the grain of the wood or from the application of color and materials. Emphasis is also placed on the matter of selection of durable and lasting materials to build up the proper finish.

Another phase of the work in this Department deals with a very important section—that of graphic representation. The value of such training in a universal language is very important in the success of the teacher, contractor, builder, draftsman, and to the layman.
The fact that students are becoming more and more conscious of design and its growing importance in the everyday life of the nation is revealed by the fact that they are commenting on all phases of life which have to do with matters of art and its application to homes, home furnishing, transportation, and illustrations of historical settings shown in connection with the depiction of some of our better motion picture plays. Students are collecting material for scrapbooks which have to do with the matter of art and period furniture.

Unlike many of the high school subjects, manual arts instruction affords the boy an opportunity to conceive the need for a certain article, develop the plan, and to construct that which he has created. It is this type of training that has long been used to handle special problem cases.

The examples of work done in the advanced woodwork classes found illustrated on these pages were designed and organized for construction in the industrial arts design class, one of the courses in the manual arts curriculum at the Iowa State Teachers College.

1. A project executed by Joe E. Cuffel, M'l A, '24, during the summer term of 1928. This project is a sideboard done in solid walnut. The particular period is that of Hepplewhite. Lightness, grace, and distinction comprise the chief characteristics of this style. This project is similar to the productions made in America from 1775 to 1800, with the exception of treatment of inlay on the front edge of the top. Truly, this is a project that Mr. Cuffel can be proud of. Mr. Cuffel is supervisor of industrial arts at Cherokee, Iowa.

2. This writing desk was designed and constructed by Elwood Norton, 1932 graduate, a manual arts major of Teachers College who is now teaching industrial arts at Lawton, Iowa. Mr. Norton carried out
Four Whose Lives Were Close to Campus Affairs, Taken By Death During Fall Term

FOUR persons prominently connected with the Iowa State Teachers College have been taken by death in the past four months, most recent among them the widow of Dr. Homer H. Seeley, former president of Teachers College. Laura Faulkler, former member of the English Department; Mrs. Harry Eells, widow of the late Professor Harry L. Eells; and James E. Robinson, retired superintendent of buildings and grounds, have died since the first of September.

Mrs. Seeley Died Nov. 13

Mrs. Clara Seeley died of complications incidental to advanced age on November 13, 1934. Clara Twaddle was born at Rosehill, Iowa, in 1855. She was graduated from Oskaloosa High School during the time Dr. Seeley was superintendent of schools there. They were married in Oskaloosa in 1878, coming to Cedar Falls in 1886, when Dr. Seeley became principal of the Normal School, the name of which was soon changed to the Iowa State Teachers College. Dr. Seeley retired in 1928, and he and Mrs. Seeley lived in their home on the campus until his death in 1932. Mrs. Seeley continued to occupy the house until the time of her death.

Laura E. Faulkler died at her home in Cedar Falls on October 31. She formerly was a member of the faculty in the English Department, and had retired only three years ago after serving the institution for more than thirty years.

Miss Faulkler taught for 13 years in the elementary schools of Illinois, Nebraska, and Missouri. In 1896 she came to the campus of Teachers College as instructor in physical training and reading, a position she held for four years, when her title was changed to instructor in reading and elocution. Five years later her ranking was again changed to assistant professor of English and public speaking. This title remained unchanged for 24 years. She was employed in the English Department part time from 1929 until the time of her retirement in 1931.

James E. Robinson, 76, who retired September 1, after serving more than 30 years as superintendent of buildings and grounds at the College, died September 6, at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, Maryland. Mr. Robinson and his daughter, Lilly, were visiting another daughter, Mary, a student at Cornell University, Ithaca, New York, when he was stricken with a severe heart attack. A few days later he was removed to Baltimore, where his son, Dr. R. Lindsey Robinson, lives. He was taken to the hospital as soon as he reached Baltimore. There it was found that he had contracted pneumonia, a contributing factor in his death.

Mr. Robinson was born in Cleveland, Ohio, on September 30, 1857, and at the age of four came to Cedar Falls with his parents. His father, Peter, was a contractor. In 1882 he erected Gilchrist Hall, one of the oldest buildings on the campus. His son, James, as contractor, built three buildings on the campus during the last decade of the nineteenth century—the first president's home, and the Administration and Auditorium Buildings. In 1901 he became superintendent of buildings and grounds at the College and during his tenure in that capacity constructed 17 more buildings. The physical growth of the College is illustrated by the fact that when Mr. Robinson assumed his duties, the campus comprised 40 acres and included 10 buildings. Today, the campus spreads over 137 acres and has more than 30 buildings.

Mrs. Eells died at her home in Cedar Falls on November 6. She had been in ill health for several months, and had been removed to the Sartori Hospital in Cedar Falls several days previous to her death. She was the widow of Harry L. Eells, professor of rural education and former head of the Rural Education Department, who died two years ago.

Mrs. Eells was the patroness of Kappa Phi, Methodist sorority at Teachers College; patroness of Pi Theta Pi, social sorority, and a member of the Faculty Dames Club.

Art Lovers Enjoy Campus Exhibits

Art lovers on the campus and in the vicinity of Cedar Falls were enthusiastic in praise of the first two of a series of four art exhibits being sponsored by the Department of Art and Manual Arts at the College.

The displays, circulated by the American Federation of Arts, Washington, D. C., have been of special interest to students in the art classes. The first exhibit presented such items as silverware, costume textiles, and book jackets, all based on motifs evolved from plant forms.

The display shown preceding the Christmas holidays presented items from the international exhibition of high school art sponsored by the Scholastic magazine.
Quietly, and without the fanfare that usually accompanies a change of policy, Iowa State Teachers College became allied with the North Central Conference, composed of Morningside College, North Dakota University, North Dakota Agricultural College, South Dakota University, and South Dakota Agricultural College. Omaha Municipal University was also made a member of the league.

Both new entrants may enter immediately into athletic competition, but only at the cost of adding eight more games to their present schedules. Teachers College may play Omaha, but the Purple Panthers will make no further attempt to engage in championship contests. Nominally a member at the present time, the College will not become a full-fledged athletic participant until 1936.

Present contracts for football games next fall appear to prohibit the addition of the four games necessary for titular consideration. At present, written contracts with four schools and verbal agreements with at least four others seem to be all that are desired, although the Athletic Board will probably add a ninth game to the 1935 grid schedule.

Held either just before or just after the Iowa Conference meet, the North Central outdoor track championships are expected to give the Tutors their first taste of competition as a conference member. The Panthers will be no strangers to this meet, for they have been invited before.

The decision to become a member of the conference came as the fruition of a long campaign by the North Central group to induce Teachers to cast its lot with Morningside. Director of Athletics L. L. Mendenhall, and H. Earl Rath, chairman of the Board of Athletics, were invited to attend the conference meeting at Chicago in December and accepted the invitation at that time. The formal announcement was made by the conference secretary several days later.

Both President O. R. Latham and Mr. Mendenhall expressed pleasure over the move, although regretting the curtailment of Iowa Conference competition. Teachers College plans to retain its membership in the Iowa Conference and will continue to compete with its more natural rivals in the loop.

Teachers College athletes have made an enviable record in the Iowa Conference with a dual competition mark of nearly .700 in all sports and a record of finishing 1-2-3 every year in the track meet, failing to win it but three times in 12 years.

The new conference schedule for 1936 gives the Panthers the following conference competition:

- Oct. 10—North Dakota University at Grand Forks
- Oct. 17—North Dakota State at Cedar Falls
- Nov. 14—Morningside at Cedar Falls
- Nov. 21—Omaha at Omaha

Prospects None Too Bright for Mat Squad; Four Graduate

Forced to meet the University of Wisconsin wrestling team with but two weeks of practice, Coach David McCuskey faced a difficult job whipping his Iowa State Teachers College grapplers into shape to protect a perfect record against the Badgers. The Tutors came out on top, however, and trounced the Wisconsin men 55 to 6.

Although only four lettermen were available for the team, but two places are expected to be filled by sophomores. The return of Jimmy Steiner gives Coach McCuskey a veteran of two years' experience in the 118-pound division, while Marc Ihm, another member of the squad for two years, is expected to handle the 155-pound duties.

In addition, McCuskey must replace Natvig and Rolston, who accounted for 11 victories in 12 starts. Ralph Novak, 165, also was graduated.

Steiner and Dix are the leading candidates in the lightweight class, with Steiner favored. Bruce Warner, injured last year, but a two-year veteran, is expected to handle the duties in the 126-pound division in which Johnny Champlin held forth last year. The latter has moved up a notch to the 135-pound post.

Merlyn Kirkpatrick is slated for 145-pound duties, and Marc Ihm, a squad member the past two years, heads the 155-pound class. Cortright, a sophomore, Bill Chambers, and Blue, another first-year man, will handle the three heavier divisions.
Reconstruction of Entire Team Faces Court Coach

HANDICAPPED by the lack of veteran material for his basketball team, Coach Arthur Dickinson has had to work with an eye to late season strength or even toward building for the 1935-36 season.

Last year’s veteran aggregation departed almost to the man, leaving only Maurice Carr as a nucleus for this year’s team. Carr was not in school for the fall term and as a result was not in condition for the first few games. Paul “Hoot” Lambert, picked with Carr on the all-conference team, and Dave Irvine played so much of the time last year that suitable substitutes were not developed. Clair Kraft had only Vern Stribley as an understudy, and Kenneth Kimberlin and Ray Smalling were the only forwards to get much experience.

Around these four veterans Coach Dickinson has had to rebuild his team. Much help is expected from Francis Brouwer, a letter-winning forward from two seasons ago. Brouwer, while not a regular when he won his “I”, is a good ball handler.

Sophomores, then, are bearing much of the burden of the reconstruction program. Here again Coach Dickinson is handicapped, for the freshman team of last year did not develop many exceptional ball handlers and lacked the size necessary to build up the defensive strength of the Panther court team.

With these facts in mind, Dickinson has discarded his high speed type of offensive onslaught and slowed the tempo to the point where it is not so wearing on his men. Relying on a more set offense, he hopes to overcome the apparent deficiencies of his inexperienced squad.

The guard positions are causing the Tutor mentor the greatest worry. Kenneth Kimberlin and Francis Brouwer have the jobs right now. Elliot Hutton, a squad member last year, Keith McCabe, or Donald Stout may get the call.

Stribley apparently has the edge at the center post because of his experience, if for no other reason.

Carr, undoubtedly, is the best player on the squad and will continue to be throughout the year. A good shot from any position, he is also a more than average defensive man.

His running mate will undoubtedly be Darrell Black, sophomore, one of the best ball handlers and most accurate shots on the squad. George Pederson, another first-year man on the squad, is one of the best natural players to come up in several years, but seems unable to relax, and, as a result, ties himself up in the desire to do the right thing. When Pederson cures himself of his self-consciousness, he will come along so fast that either Carr or Black will assume the role of a substitute.

Other possibilities for the point-getting jobs include Smalling, Norman Manship, brother of “Swede” on last season’s five, Arvil Hinshaw, and Peter Canakes.

Twenty-two freshman numeral winners were announced following the annual banquet for first-year gridders, band members, and the cheer leaders in the Commons west dining room in December.

Gridders Set Field Record—Roll Up 101 Points

ALTHOUGH the Purple Panthers did no more than break even in eight games this season, the year was more than "just average."

Serving his second year as head coach at Teachers College, Johnny Baker turned out a team that made one of the finest records of any Tutor eleven in recent years. Baker's team won three, lost three, and tied two games, yet set up the best defensive and offensive marks of any Purple Panther team since 1928. Holding opponents to 41 points, the Panthers scored 101 in eight games.

In addition, the Panthers ran rampant against Michigan State Normal to set a scoring record for their new field.

Individually the squad boasted of several brilliant performers, five of whom gained the attention of the nominating boards of all-conference pickers. John Harp, Cedar Falls, 180-pound tackle, rated first team on the All-Iowa conference selections of the Associated Press and second on the United Press. Orville Nicholas, Hemet, California, an elusive, hard-running quarterback, was placed on the second team by both groups. In addition, Warren Jordan, Riverside, California, end; William Schulz, guard; and Keith McCabe, halfback, both of Naperville, Illinois, were given honorable mention.

Schulz received the annual award for the player of greatest value to his team. The presentation of any honor must embarrass as well as please the recipient, but the modesty of Schulz' acceptance made for a most dramatic moment.

Said Schulz: "I deeply appreciate the honor, but gosh, how I do hope I've earned it."

Prospects do not always rise and fall with the increase or decrease of the number of lettermen, but Coach Baker will have plenty of veteran material on hand next fall, since he loses but four of 23 major "I" men.

Lester Peterson, Alta, quarterback; Wallace Stewart, Banning, California, guard; William Chambers, Anderson, end; and Raymond Smalling, Janesville, fullback, are the men who have worn the Purple and Gold for the last time. Floyd Rokenbrodt, Wallingford, tackle, is the only other loss by graduation.

The team started out like a championship contender, bogged down, and then closed the home season with one of the best games ever played in the Panthers' Den. Holding the opposition scoreless the first two games, Teachers found the situation reversed in the next two contests, tied the fifth, lost to Grinnell in an upset, then trounced Morningside, only to have a stubborn Luther eleven hold them to a scoreless tie.

Design and Beauty in Manual Arts

the general pattern of the William and Mary period. The processes in construction on this piece of furniture included all the techniques and methods used in the modern furniture factory. The most beautiful wood that Mr. Norton used in the drawer fronts of this desk was rescued from his landlord's kindling box, the landlord giving it to Mr. Norton because it was too knotty to use for kindling. Mr. Norton is now using this project to show his students what can be done if one really sets himself to a task.

3. A project designed and constructed by P. W. Farrell, 1928, manual arts major now teaching industrial arts at Colfax, Iowa. A four-poster, spool bed, truly a work of art. The pride and joy one receives as part of the reward of such workmanship is revealed by the fact that Mr. Farrell refused to sell this particular bed for $250.

4. A spinet desk, designed and constructed by Herbert Nicholas, 1932 graduate. His project includes the usual tool and machinery operations, with the addition of cutting and matching veneers to decorate the slant top and drawer front.

Manual Training, or Manual Arts, has long been associated with matters of a more or less mechanical nature, and the projects that have been required have included little or no true artistic qualities. It is gratifying to notice that out of many high school shops more and more artistic pieces are rendered. This means that the men and women of tomorrow are going to have a better understanding and appreciation of art as related to industrial products.

Maude Gilchrist, B. S. '80, of 2518 Forest Drive, Des Moines, Iowa, writes that she has returned to Iowa after a six months' absence. During the past summer she visited scenes of student and teaching days in both Massachusetts and Michigan, with sojourns on the Atlantic Coast and on the shore of Lake Michigan. At Wellesley College she attended the golden reunion of the Class of 1884, and she states, "... I rejoiced with some of my former students there, who now wear most modestly the title of 'Ph. D.' or proudly that of 'G. M.'—grandmother."

Miss Gilchrist writes, "In Ann Arbor I was fortunate to renew old acquaintances and to enjoy the hospitality of the fine Women's League Building. At Michigan State College, where I spent twelve years as Dean of Women, and where my sister, Norma, Mrs. B. B.
