Meet the Faculty of Teachers College...

In an attempt to acquaint alumni with the men and women who are carrying on at Teachers College in the cause of good teaching, the Alumnus begins with this issue the presentation of a series of pictures showing administrators, faculty members, and service workers of the College. In this, the first of the series, are presented pictures of the deans, administrative officers, and others charged with the general direction of the College and its activities. The second series will present pictures of the department heads as well as the other faculty members of each department. The third series will present the service workers and interior scenes of the service headquarters including the Extension Division, Placement Bureau, Publicity Office, Health Service, Library, Bartlett Hall, and the General College Office.

Many an alumnum, hundreds, perhaps thousands of miles from Cedar Falls, would undoubtedly appreciate the opportunity to return to the campus to visit old friends and make acquaintance with the newer members of the instructional and administrative staffs. On this and the following pages, the busy graduate, for whom such a trip is impossible at the present time, may make acquaintance with the various members of the administrative staff.

The picture on the inside cover opposite this page shows President O. R. Latham as he steps out the main entrance to the Auditorium Building. At the bottom of this page is shown the President at his desk in the new conference room with his stenographer, Miss Dorothy Fecht at the left, taking dictation, and Miss Jessie Juhl, secretary to the President, at the right, answering a phone call. It is evident from the expression on Miss Secretary’s face that the call brings good news, something very much appreciated at Teachers College in these days.

The offices on the main floor of the Administration Building now include the President’s private office located in the tower room, the general office for the secretary and stenographer and filing equipment, etc., a reception room, and conference room in which are held the heads of the department meetings and the meetings of the Board of Education.

The Alumnus is indebted to the staff of the Old Gold, student annual of 1933, for the pictures and much of the information which appears on this and the following pages.
MAKE acquaintance with L. I. Reed, dean of men at Teachers College since 1924. Dean Reed was graduated from Teachers College in 1900, and received the M. A. Degree from the University of Iowa in 1906. He was made Adviser of Men at Teachers College in 1916, and was given his present title in 1924.

Dean Reed has had wide experience in the field of public school teaching and management. He taught in the Page County Rural schools of Iowa, was principal in Rockford, Iowa, high school, and superintendent successively in the Iowa schools of Northwood, Odebolt, Jefferson, and Missouri Valley. He was instructor in rural education at Teachers College for a short time before being made adviser of men students.

The duties of the Dean are administrative and executive. He works under the supervision of the President and the Faculty, and gives the students general information as to curriculums, courses of study, programs, rules, exceptions, and prerequisites governing proper classification. At the Dean of Men's Office, the student also receives help in preparing his study programs.

The Dean's Office is a clearing house for all activities of the men of the College. It approves and supervises the living conditions of the students in order that their comfort and health may be protected, and assists them in securing employment or other financial aid. It administers the regulations of the Faculty concerning student relations, behavior, and use of time. It is responsible for the social and moral life of the men of the College, advising, directing, and counselling them in all the activities and interests which make college life happy and profitable as a basis for future usefulness. In the Dean's Office, may be found files containing complete records of men students in the matter of entrance tests, general personal information, and grades and marks.
MISS Sadie B. Campbell, dean of women, is a graduate of the Colorado State Teachers College, and of the Teachers College of Columbia University, where she received the Master of Arts Degree. She has done graduate work in the University of Chicago, University of California, and has completed nearly all of the work at Columbia for the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy.

She has had extensive experience as a teacher, supervisor, and adviser of girls in elementary and high schools. She has taught in the lower and upper grades in the schools of Colorado and has acted as principal of high schools in that state. Before coming to Teachers College, she was adviser of girls in the public schools of Des Moines, Iowa.

Miss Campbell came to Teachers College as Dean of Women in 1929, and since that time has played an active part in the development and direction of the activities of women students.

The Office of the Dean of Women at Teachers College has been described as "a service office which must be a courteous, sincere, pleasant, friendly, cheerful, hospitable, helpful, and efficient work shop."

The furnishings and decorations of the office have been planned to attract the eye and to provide comfortable and restful surroundings. The work equipment of the Office includes community files, which are open to students as individuals or as groups, who may use the material for the promotion of opportunities for learning to live together. There are also files which are open to instructors and advisers who may need a particular background of information about a given student in order to provide intelligent help and advice.

The personnel of the new Dean's Office includes, in addition to Dean Campbell, Miss Ruth Johns, secretary to the Dean; Miss Mary Anderson, stenographer, and Mrs. Loretta Brewer, stenographer.

Secretary Boardman was at one time superintendent of schools at Ute, Iowa, and later consecutively at Shelby, Greene, and Allison. He became Financial Secretary at Teachers College in 1917. He is a graduate of Teachers College, having received the Degree of Master of Didactics in 1899. He was awarded the B. Ph. Degree at the State University of Iowa in 1901.

Besides administering the funds granted by state appropriations, Secretary Boardman has charge of all tuition and other fees collected by his office. Reported through and audited by his office, also, are the various other financial transactions of the College, including the purchasing of supplies, and the accounts of the dormitory, cafeteria, college store, multigraphing, printing, college publications, student loans, inventories, and trust funds which include more than one hundred faculty and student organizations.

At the present time, four assistants are employed in the office, which during the past year has been located in new rooms, and has been equipped with the most modern cash registers, bookkeeping machines, counter files, and other devices for the accurate recording of the financial transactions of the College.

R ENEW acquaintance with C. S. Cory, registrar and examiner at Teachers College. When there is any question as to how your records stand at your Alma Mater, just drop in at his office and he can give you the facts, correct to the last period. There is no college rule or regulation, or obscure statement in a college catalogue too difficult for Registrar Cory to unsnarl.

Receiving his early collegiate training in Iowa State Normal School, he completed his work and was awarded the Bachelor of Science Degree after two years of study at the State University of Iowa. He has had experience as a teacher in the rural schools of Iowa, and as superintendent of Iowa schools in Fredericksburg, Chickasaw County, Humboldt, and Waukon. In December, 1907, he was made professor of mathematics and served in this capacity until 1913, when he was made Registrar and Examiner.

Registrar Cory has charge of all student records, evaluates high school work for college entrance credit, evaluates correspondence received from other colleges, and prepares credit balance sheets showing the credit still needed for graduation by each student.

The Registrar is a member of the State Intercollegiate Standing Committee which prepares standards to serve as a guide to colleges and junior colleges that wish to have their credits accepted at the three state institutions for higher learning. The Committee visits colleges and junior colleges, and makes recommendations with reference to the acceptance of credit.
SUPERINTENDENT

A RELATIVELY new member of the College staff with whom the returning alumni might well make acquaintance is E. E. Cole, superintendent of Buildings and Grounds. In 1930, Mr. Cole was appointed to his present position, succeeding J. E. Robinson, who is now in charge of the janitorial staff.

Mr. Cole received his training in architectural engineering at Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa, where he was granted the Bachelor of Science Degree in this field of study in 1921. He has had experience in architectural work in Sioux City, Iowa, and as an engineer at Cedar Rapids, Iowa. He was later employed as architect in the Grounds and Buildings Department at the University of Iowa.

Since coming to the Teachers College, Mr. Cole has had charge of the general plans and work involving the erection of the new heating plant and the Commons Building. In the three years that he has been connected with Teachers College, he has also directed a large amount of remodeling, refitting and redecoration of campus offices, rooms, halls, and buildings.

The history of the development of the buildings and grounds at Teachers College is a story which begins with one building heated by stoves, lighted by kerosene lamps, and surrounded by corn and hay fields, and is a story which extends to a modern campus lighted and heated with the power generated on its own grounds, a campus surrounded no longer by a prairie, but by a large residential district with paved streets and wide lawns. The department which has played a large part in the direction of this development, was instituted in 1900 with Mr. Robinson at the head of three janitors. From this beginning, the work evolved into a large and efficient staff with a corps of trained men. The grounds of the College have been extended gradually from one building on forty acres of land to eighteen modern buildings on 127 acres.
"Teach Civilization, Not Subjects," Says Dr. Judd

Graduates Urged to Be Sympathetic With a Changed Society

"You are going out to teach civilization, not merely subjects," Dr. Charles H. Judd, Dean of the School of Education at the University of Chicago, declared in his charge to 374 students who were awarded degrees and diplomas in the fifty-seventh commencement exercises at Teachers College, Monday morning, May 29.

"You are just commencing your education. Society has not stopped changing with your education. A different economic and social situation lies just ahead of you. Be sympathetic with these changes, remembering that you are part of the community which has its own peculiar problems and which will pass through times of distress. As teachers, you will find yourselves amidst inspiring opportunities for service in a new day. Remember always that it is your business to see that society continues to make available ever broader opportunities for children. The wealth of the race is available to you in pursuing these aims.

Serve With Enthusiasm

"You are going out to serve when the public needs sorely the ministrations of youth and enthusiasm. As servants of the public, you will be charged with the direction of the trends of life, and if you can do this with intelligence and enthusiasm, then such institutions as this from which you are being graduated are highly justified."

Dr. Judd brought out the fact that society is vastly different today from that which existed years ago. The real revolutions in society, he pointed out, come slowly, and only become evident in times of great crises. In 1790 family life in the United States was vastly different from what it is today. For every 1,000 children of sixteen years and under, there were only 782 adults. Children were in the majority, and families were large. In contrast with this, in 1930 for every 1,000 children there were 2,000 adults. Today, adults are in the vast majority. Years ago, children contributed to the family income to a considerable extent. In 1880 three-fourths, or seventy per cent of the population of the country, was in rural areas and derived its maintenance from the farm. Only one-fourth of the total number of the people lived in the cities. Today, fifty-six per cent of the population may be found in the cities. Over one-half of the total number of people in the country are now clustered about the sources of power, and with this machine industry civilization has become complex. The large amount of machinery now used on the farm as well as the concentration of factories about the power sources has caused this change in the relation of the population of farm and cities.

Children Leave Factories

Dr. Judd brought out the fact that in 1880 thousands of children were employed in manufacturing concerns. They were exploited, paid a low wage, and brought into competition with adults. In 1870, thirteen per cent of the population representing children from ten to fifteen years of age were engaged in gainful occupations. In 1890, eighteen per cent were engaged in gainful occupation. In 1920, however, society stopped this general trend, and the number of children engaged in gainful occupations remained stationary. In 1920, the figure was seven per cent, and in 1930, it had dropped to four and seven-tenths per cent.

With the removal of children from the factories, they came to be cared for in the schools, and from 1918 to 1928, the population of the elementary grades of the schools of the country increased thirty-nine per cent.

High School Enrollment Grows

As for the high schools, in 1900 there were half a million students enrolled, and in 1930, four and one-half millions. This, the speaker indicated, had never happened before in the world. No European nation ever had twelve per cent of its population attending school. This same increase has been evident in the colleges. Furthermore, the tendency of society seems to be to offer everyone increased opportunity for development and this means a greater variety of courses. This greater variety of courses has been in a large part brought about by the demands of society, and it is the duty of the teacher to interpret these demands intelligently and direct the course of the trends in such ways that opportunity shall be made increasingly available to the individual.

In addition to the graduation address, Dr. Judd delivered the baccalaureate address in the college auditorium on Sunday morning, May 28.

The events of commencement week began Sunday, May 21, with the President's reception at the home of O. R. Latham, and continued throughout the week with the band concert held on Wednesday evening in front of the Auditorium Building; the commencement play, "The Women Have Their Way," on Thursday evening, and again on Friday evening, and the commencement dinner and party for alumni, faculty, and graduates, on Saturday evening.

Twenty-Five-Year Class Celebrates

Members of the Class of 1908 attended a Reunion Dinner in celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Class, Sunday noon. Alumni were also guests at a tea in the College Faculty Rooms Sunday afternoon.

In the commencement exercises Monday, 113 candidates received the Bachelor of Arts Degree in Education, forty-four received the Bachelor of Science Degree, four received the Department Certificate in Critic Training, six the Consolidated School Teacher Diploma; eighty-eight, the Elementary Teacher Diploma for teachers in grades above the primary; fifty-nine, the Primary Teacher Diploma; seventeen, the Nursery School and Kindergarten Teacher Diploma; two, the Voice Diploma, one, the Violin Diploma, and thirty-eight, the Rural Teaching Diploma.

American Schools Are "Unique"

The unique characteristics of American education, in the opinion of Dr. Charles Judd, who delivered the baccalaureate address to graduates at Teachers College, Sunday, May 28, are: a widespread development of the common schools for common people, education for women, and local control. These characteristics are not commonly found in foreign countries, Dr. Judd pointed out. In countries abroad, the schools are controlled largely, or almost completely, by the central government.

"Our industrial system is not better than that of other nations, our banking system is not the best, but we have one institution no one else has, the Democratic school system," said the speaker.

U. S. Has Best and Worst Schools

Dr. Judd explained that in the United States we have the best as well as the worst schools because of our experimental attitude. He declared that we had better not put our schools under a single authority unless under an intelligent, scientific authority. Dr. Judd urged the graduates to strive, not for class division, but for a system where there is an equal opportunity for every boy or girl who wants to take advantage of it. "Don't teach subjects," urged the noted educator, "teach ideas."

In explaining the differences between American and European education, Dr. Judd pointed out that European education began at the top among intellectuals. Schools were of university caliber, and students were drawn exclusively from the ruling classes. Since there were no common schools, the common people received no education. Secondary schools soon became a necessity, but again the students were drawn from the upper classes.

First Schools Copy European

With the coming of the Reformation, schools for the common people were organized, but they had no connection whatsoever with the secondary and upper schools. In these schools for the common people, instruction was meager and rudimentary. No foreign languages or higher mathematics were taught, although in the upper schools these subjects were taught to ten year olds.

"The change to a more Democratic spirit in education first occurred in America," said Dr. Judd, "but not immediately." In the beginning, the colonists established a typical European type of education.

Dr. Judd stated that the clergy were the first highly trained people in America; therefore, it was common in early times for young people trained for the clergy and law to teach at frequent intervals. He explained that Europe is learning that distinctions between higher and common education are unprofitable. Germany today has "ground schools" where all classes of people are welcome. France offers a university education to anyone interested. Germany has 24 universities. America has 1,000.

Dr. Judd stated that European schools tend to be alike due to central control, whereas American schools vary greatly.

Mrs. Lillian Goodwin Peck, B. Di. '13, has been appointed secretary in the Forestry Department at the University of Idaho, at Moscow. She began her work June 1, 1933.

Mrs. Peck was financial secretary at the Teachers College for fourteen years.
Six Hundred Gather For Graduation Dinner

More than six hundred graduates, alumni, and faculty members of the College gathered at the Women's Gymnasium, Saturday, May 27, for the annual Commencement Dinner.

"Ain't Life Interestin'," was the toast program presided over by Dr. H. A. Riebe, professor of education, and toastmaster of the occasion. The speakers certainly made life interesting and amusing for the candidates for graduation and the alumni and faculty members present.

Selections were presented by a woodwind quartet composed of students from the Orchestral Music Department as the first number on the program. As the first speaker, Maurice Kramer, B. S. '33, taking the title, "The Early Bird Catches the Worm," declared that the graduating class was grateful for superior instruction and unusual advantages in athletics, forensics, music, journalism, dramatics, and other activities, all maintained at a high standard of excellence during the depression year of 1932-33. Mr. Kramer prefaced the more serious side of his address with a sally of remarks concerning the Faculty which set the students rocking with laughter.

Perfectly Good Sports

Josephine Hirons, B. A. '33, urged the graduates to "Give The Devil His Due," in a talk "taking one last crack" at the Faculty. "Think what our teachers give up for us. They live perfectly respectable lives. They are perfectly stainless people," she declared. "In spite of it all, however, they are pretty good sports and we like them."

A mixed quartet composed of Margaret Shockey, soprano; Muriel Luick, contralto; Wilbur Bauer, tenor; Leland Meyer, bass, and Carol Prescott, accompanist, next presented two numbers. All the members of the quartet received the Bachelor of Arts Degree this May.

Benjamin Boardman, M. Di. '99, financial secretary of the College, in expounding upon the toast, "Fools Rush in Where Angels Fear to Tread," took as his text, "Then there was the fool, the devil, and the graduate of Iowa State Teachers College, and the greatest of these is the graduate of Iowa State Teachers College.

"The best fool," he said, "is the fifty-fifty fool, whereas the worst is the 3.2 per cent fool. There is not much difference between the fool and the wise man. For the fool we have the cap and bell, and for the wise man, the cap and gown."

Fred D. Cram, B. A. '09, in elucidating on the stupendous problem, "Every Dog Has His Day," announced that he was representing the alumni and particularly the Class of 1908. This rather quiet gentleman immediately proceeded to convulse the dinner celebrants with laughter with his account of the manner in which he was secured for the toast program.

"Permit The Faculty To Live"

Later he declared, "It is altogether fitting, my friends and Mr. Toastmaster, that a member of the twenty-five year class should respond to the toast proposed. The Class of 1908 was the last to be graduated from the Iowa State Normal School. It marks the transition from the time when the Faculty prepared students to teach, and the newer period in which students permit the Faculty to live so long as they will agree not to teach anything-already obvious. This class marks the dividing line between the time when each notebook turned in was a gift of the gods in its primeval virginity, as over against the present system in which every notebook is a gift of the preceding class."

Thoughtful Faces, Those

"During the past week," he said, "I have turned again the pages of the 1908 Old Gold. There is the class roster, and there is the class, the unsmilingest class that ever tripped across their own feet to cross the rostrum and receive their sheepskins with a muttered, 'Thanks.' I gaze into those dear old faces . . . those are thoughtful faces, for life in 1908 was a serious battle indeed. For the female of the species it was a constant fight with tight collars . . . for the men, life was a never-ending battle with trousers that admitted a leg only after having been stretched with a broomstick, which legs always pulled up every time the owner sat down."

And more of this, until the listeners nearly upset their chairs. Following musical numbers by the woodwind quartet, President O. R. Latham introduced Dr. and Mrs. Charles Judd of Chicago, who were guests at the occasion. The dinner program was ended with group singing led by Alpha Mayfield. Following the dinner program, the graduates and guests attended the annual dance and get together in the men's gymnasium.
Four Alumni Honored By Teachers Association

Four of the seven vice presidents of the Iowa State Teachers Association for this year are graduates or former students of Teachers College. One member from each of the seven districts of the Association is elected each year to serve with the group of vice presidents who act as an advisory board to the Executive Committee, making a point of contact between the districts and the State Association. The Alumnus is indebted to the Midland Schools for the following information and pictures.

Miss Edna Gibbs, Pri.'17, county superintendent of Adair County, representing the South Central Division; F. B. White, B. A. '29, superintendent of schools at Sperry, Iowa; Miss Dessie Penney, B. A. '27, history instructor in the Cherokee High School, representing the Northwest Division, and Delbert Pidgeon, former student, superintendent of the Treynor Consolidated School, representing the Southwest Division, are the four Teachers College alumni honored.

Superintendent Gibbs was born in Greenfield, Iowa. Her early education was in the schools of that city. Following her graduation from Teachers College, she taught in the primary grades of Greenfield, Mason City, and Des Moines. This year she completed her third term as county superintendent of her home county. Since 1928, she has been a life member of the National Education Association, and last year she was president of the South Central Division of the Iowa State Teachers Association.

Mr. White was born at Mediapolis where he received his elementary and high school instruction. After his graduation from Teachers College, he studied at the University of Iowa, where he received the M. A. Degree in 1932. He has taught for three years as athletic coach and teacher in the Stanwood Consolidated School, and he is now serving in his fourth year as superintendent at Sperry.

Miss Penney is instructor in history in the Cherokee High School. She was educated in the rural schools of Fremont County, and in the Omaha schools. Later she was graduated from the Sidney High School. Her first teaching work was done in the Fremont rural schools, and from 1922 until 1925 she taught in the Junior High School in Odebolt. She has occupied her present position since 1927.

Superintendent Pidgeon was born in Iowa, and received his education in this state. He attended in turn Iowa Wesleyan, Grinnell College, Teachers College, and the State University. He received both the B. A. and M. S. Degrees from the University of Iowa. He had his first teaching experience in the rural schools of Henry County, and was next a high school instructor in Moravia for one year. For the past fourteen years he has been superintendent at Treynor.

HART HEADS ASSOCIATION

I. H. Hart, director of the Extension Division at Teachers College, was elected president of the State Teachers Association at the Convention in Des Moines. Mr. Hart came to Teachers College in 1914 as professor in rural education, and in 1916 was made head of the Extension Division.

He has had extensive experience in the field of education, both as a teacher and administrator.
Class Memorials Beautify Campus Grounds

A brief sojourn about the campus will reveal quickly to any visitor a type of class spirit and deep loyalty to the Alma Mater which in the opinion of many an enthusiastic class officer of the present day belong to glorious but nevertheless by-gone days.

Dropping down for a brief rest on the wide stone bench at one side of the northeast entrance to the campus (the entrance facing Twenty-Fourth Street) one may look up to see on a brick pillar the deeply engraved legend, “Class of 1912.” The red brick pillars are beautiful and imposing, and flanked and backed as they now are in the summer by a mass of foliage, they constitute a class memorial such as would bring a feeling of pride to any returning alumnus.

A Cathedral of Trees

On sauntering toward the famous Bergs corner, the observer will see two brick pillars and wide stone benches arranged in a semi-circular fashion, beautifully in keeping with the markers at the east entrance. Here the inscription engraved in a cement tablet reads, “Class of 1913,” and the pillars mark the entrance to the north diagonal which curves to the left as the visitor approaches the college buildings. High overhead, the campus elms arch their branches in true cathedral style, and the orderly rows of large, clean-barked tree trunks on either side preserve an even perpendicular to the curving of the walk.

While crossing in front of the main campus buildings, which now include in one continuous line the Auditorium Building, the “crossroads entrance,” the Administration Building, and finally the Gilchrist Hall, the visitor will notice a large granite boulder embedded in the lawn in front of the Auditorium Building. Deeply chiseled in the irregular surface of the stone is the date, “1881.” This boulder, according to Mrs. D. Sands Wright, was dedicated by the Class of 1881 at the time of the dedication of Gilchrist Hall.

“Sun Time” By Class of 1923

Continuing his walk, the visitor may stop to inspect the large cannons in front of Twenty-Fifth Street entrance, and after noticing, as most keen observers do, that the cannon balls are too large for the cannons, the visitor may spy the sun dial, gift of the Class of 1923.

The visitor may then circle across in front of the College Library and just north of the building he will see the Arey elm, a stalwart and beautiful tree, “Affectionately Dedicated to Melvin F. Arey by the Alumni, June 5, 1917.” A bronze tablet bearing an inscription to this effect is attached to the tree. Professor Arey was a teacher of long and faithful service at the College, and at the time of his retirement from the headship of the Department of Natural Science, in June, 1917, the commencement season that year was made the occasion for recognition of his services. In connection with a program held in his honor, the memorial was erected.

Campanile A Crowning Achievement

Following this stop, the visitor may walk down the brick road to pass through the south entrance. Here, upon inspecting the tablet on one of the two pillars he will observe that the Class of 1914 helped to complete the third set of entrance pillars. No other campus memorials apparently were dedicated by graduating classes, and as far as can be learned, from 1923 to 1926 senior classes as well as all other organized groups on the campus joined their efforts with those of alumni of the College in raising money for the erection of the tower of huge bells “dedicated to the founders and builders of the Iowa State Teachers College.” The campanile, according to present plans, is to mark the central point for all campus planning, and the landscaping for the new Commons Building is to follow the general layout established by walks leading to this towering structure.

Graduate builds music work

Max Noah, B. A. ’27, director of the Guilford College Choir of Guilford College, North Carolina, recently sponsored a county-wide music school festival in which 4,000 school children of the Guilford Grammar and High Schools sang together as one chorus. This huge chorus, according to an article in the local newspaper, came “as the most recent achievement in the field of music by Max Noah. The organization, of the well known Guilford College Choir, the annual Christmas presentation of Handel’s “Messiah” by the Guilford College community chorus, and the state church choir festival held in Raleigh last April are a part of the musical activities Mr. Noah has led during his six years at Guilford College.”
Mr. Noah came to the Guilford College in 1927 as head of the Music Department. His first undertaking was the presentation of Handel's "Messiah," which has become an annual affair at the college. The chorus for this famous oratorio has grown until at its sixth presentation last December, 150 singers participated.

In his second year at Guilford College, Mr. Noah started the Guilford College choir, which has since brought the college into public attention throughout the Eastern coast states from North Carolina to New York. In the third year of its existence the choir attracted nation-wide attention when the young singers made their first annual northern concert tour and sang before the President of the United States on the White House lawn. On that trip the chorus traveled as far north as Haddon Hall, and received very favorable comment at every appearance during the tour.

In the spring of 1932, the choir now having achieved considerable public recognition, extended its itinerary to New York State, and last March the singers appeared for the first time in New York City, making a total of sixteen appearances in the course of a twelve-day trip. On this tour, the Guilford choir sang in the National City Christian Church for a group of nearly one thousand people, and in Wilmington, Delaware, they were applauded by an audience of 1,200 persons.

Mr. Noah last April directed five hundred singers from some forty church choirs from various parts of North Carolina gathering in the city auditorium at Raleigh in the first statewide church choir festival.

Miller Nelson, M. Di. '01, a prominent citizen and community leader of Goldfield, Iowa, died September 26, 1932.

Mr. Nelson was highly respected in his community, and was unusually active in all public enterprises. For more than 25 years he was a member of the Iowa Corn and Small Grain Growers Association, having served as its president for two years.

He was much in demand as a judge in corn and small grains at county fairs, short courses and at the Iowa State Fair. He did not miss one annual short course in 25 years.

Three years after graduation from Teachers College in 1900, Mr. Nelson taught in the high schools of Stacyville and Renwick, leaving the teaching profession to take over the management of his farm home.

Alumnus Invents "Mecograph"

Many alumni of Teachers College out in the teaching field are frequently making worthwhile contributions both to the literature and to the mechanical equipment and methods of education. As an instance, R. C. Haight, B. A. '16, of Grass Range, Montana, is the inventor of "the Mecograph," a device recently devised by him for quickly preparing a graph of any given set of figures or factual material.

A description of the invention appears in the January issue of "Montana Education," official organ of the Montana Education Association, issued at Helena.

Patent papers for the Mecograph state, "The device may be constructed very cheaply and can be used for various purposes. A teacher may quickly arrange slides to show graphically any factual material and display the graph to the classroom for instructional purposes. Students may be assigned studies which may be quickly and effectively portrayed on the device. Photographs of studies worked out on the device may be taken and cuts made therefrom for prints. It might also be used for any public display where matter of factual or statistical nature is to be presented, such as displays in banks, brokerage houses, etc."

Says the Montana education magazine, "The following are some of the specific uses to which the Mecograph might be put in the educational field:

Economics—wages, price trends, taxation, etc; Sociology—immigration, per cent of illiteracy; History—size of countries, population, dates; Geography—value of products, population, distances; English—frequency of errors, climaxes, tests; Arithmetic—theory of graphs, percentage; Algebra—plus and minus quantities, graph construction; Agriculture—soil composition, growth, transportation costs; Home Economics — calories, budgeting; Student—special project assignments; Teacher—contests, personal achievement records; Administration—community talks, school costs, budget, tax levies, school surveys, attendance; Permanent record—photograph or reproduction of graph.

In addition to the B. A. Degree which he received from Teachers College, Mr. Haight received the Master of Arts degree from Leland Stanford University, in 1931.

Mrs. Haight (Sylvia Ufford), received the B. A. Degree at Teachers College in 1917.

Professor W. A. Brindley Dies

William A. Brindley, a man who valued the friendship of his students and the benefit of general speech and debate work to those students even greater than he valued the victories won on the forensic platform, died Monday evening, May 1, at the University Hospital at Iowa City where he had gone for treatment after a period of illness.

Hundreds of students can testify to the human qualities this teacher possessed, and scores of debate coaches in Iowa high schools who had their training under Mr. Brindley can give proof of the excellence of his teaching methods. Professor Brindley was known alike by students, faculty members, and townfolk as a plain, simple, lovable man.

He was born in Boscobel, Wisconsin, August 27, 1881. He received the Bachelor of Arts Degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1907, and was awarded the Master of Science Degree from Iowa State College in 1918. During the summer term of 1931 he did post graduate work at Wisconsin University. He came to the Teachers College in the fall of 1927, after having served as English and speech instructor in the Fort Dodge High School and as dean of the Fort Dodge Junior College.

Made Debaters of All

During his service at Teachers College, Mr. Brindley built up the speech work to a point where his students were actively participating in dozens of debates each year. In one year, his students participated in approximately sixty debates. It was Mr. Brindley’s belief that every student in his debate classes should have an opportunity to participate in an actual forensic contest, and instead of selecting a few superior students to represent the College in all intercollegiate contests, he made it a point to see that every student participated sometime during the year. Many a student found himself by this method, and Professor Brindley discovered superior ability in many students who approached their first contest “with fear and trembling.” In this way, his teams won many victories, and the contestants won greater victories over the opponents of timidity and ineffectiveness in speech.

Inaugurated International Meets

Under Mr. Brindley’s direction, the first international debate was held at the College. A team from Cambridge University, England, came to Teachers College in 1930, one from Oxford College in 1931, and a team from Trinity College, of Dublin, Ireland, in 1932.

Mr. Brindley was sponsor of Delta Sigma Rho, national honorary speech fraternity, and the Hamilton Club. In addition to his speech work, he taught classes in English composition.

Professor Brindley is survived by his wife, Marie Pauline Albert, whom he married at Holcomb, Wisconsin, in 1905, as well as by his three sons and two daughters. Thomas lives at Moscow, Idaho, and John, Robert, Harriett, and Mary Jane, are living with their mother at Cedar Falls, Harriett received the Bachelor of Arts Degree from Teachers College in 1930, and John was graduated with the Bachelor of Arts Degree in the commencement exercises this May.

Rites Are Held For H. L. Eells

Harry LeRoy Eells, B. A. '18, Teachers College; M. S. '22, Iowa State College; professor of rural education at Teachers College since 1914, died Thursday, June 8, 1933, at a hospital in Des Moines, Iowa, where he had been undergoing treatment.

Mr. Eells, well known to hundreds of alumni of the College and especially to students who have gone out to teach in the rural schools of Iowa, was born February 5, 1878, at Waukon, Iowa. He was married August 17, 1904, to Pearl Gould.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by his two children, LeClair Herald, B. A. '26, Teachers College, and a daughter, Ruth, B. A. '30. The son has been teaching in the School... of Business at Notre Dame University, South Bend, and the daughter has been teaching at Cherokee, Iowa.

A Graduate of Teachers College

Mr. Eells attended Waukon Business College in 1895 and received the first county certificate in 1897. He enrolled at the Iowa State Normal School in 1900, later receiving the Bachelor of Didactics Degree, and in 1904 the Master of Didactics Degree. He received the Bachelor of Arts Degree from the Teachers College in 1918, and the Master of Science Degree from Iowa State College in 1922. In recent years he had pursued at various times graduate work toward the Ph. D. Degree at the University of Iowa, where he conducted specialized studies in the field of vocational education, rural sociology, and education.

Mr. Eells brought to his teaching work a wide background of practical experience in the rural schools of Iowa. He taught in the rural schools at New Hartford, Iowa, from 1897 to 1899. After receiving the Master of Didactics Degree, he was made superintendent of the high school at New Hartford, and continued in this capacity until 1908, when he was made superintendent of schools at Schaller, Iowa. He was elected superintendent at Rolfe, Iowa, in 1911, and served there until 1913.

He came to Teachers College in 1914 as professor of rural education, and was made acting head of the Department of Rural Education in 1920-21. In 1927, he was given the full title of Head of the Department. In 1930, however, the Rural Education Department was consolidated with the Department of Education, and Mr. Eells was continued with the title of professor of rural education.

Mr. Eells did part time teaching at Iowa State College, Ames, during the years of 1919-21, where he was engaged in research work. He also served as assistant professor at the University of Iowa in 1924.

His military service in the Spanish-American War began with his enlistment on April 26, 1898, in the Company 1, Forty-Ninth Iowa Regiment. He was transferred to the Hospital Corps on June 24, 1898, and was mustered out of service on April 25, 1899. He served with the Seventh Army Corps in Cuba. He was a member of the Fred Willier Camp, U. S. W. V., which he joined in 1921.

During the World War, he was made educational director of Camp Unit 93 at Fort Dodge, in which capacity he served from March 1918, until he went over-seas in December, 1918. In his over-seas work, he was assigned to the American University in France. He returned to the United States early in the summer of 1919.

Mr. Eells published several books, including "Rural School Management" and "Seat Work and Helps For Busy Teachers." He also published results of a rural social survey conducted in 1922 in the consolidated schools of Hudson, Jesup, and Orange Township.

He was a member of Phi Delta Kappa, the Iowa Historical Society, the Masons, and the Lion's Club. He was at one time a member of the Commission on the State Course of Study in Iowa, serving on the Committee on Agriculture. He also served on various advisory committees in the field of elementary education.

Active in School and Community Work

Mr. Eells was unusually active in his chosen field, and vigorously promoted many significant educational activities and reforms, including model one-room schools and safety campaigns in the interests of rural school children using the state highways. He took deep interest in the religious life of students at the College as well as in general community projects in Cedar Falls. He was adviser of Pi Tau Theta, national honorary society for Methodist men at College, which has as its aim "the building of leaders to encourage high moral standards among college men."
Twenty-Five Year Class Celebrates Anniversary

The Class of 1908 was honored by special ceremonies during the commencement exercises for the spring term Class of 1933. This annual custom of many years standing in honor of the class celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the commencement exercises is one of the interesting and valued traditions of the College. Fred D. Cram, a member of the Class of 1908, acted as chairman of arrangements in behalf of the Class. He began his duties with the preliminary letter of invitation and by collecting notes and messages from those who could not be present in person.

Position of Honor at Banquet

The twenty-five year class was given a position of honor in the banquet hall for the commencement dinner Saturday evening. They occupied a table by themselves centrally located near the speakers’ table. An additional factor of interest lay in the fact that Mr. Cram was one of the speakers on the toast program for the commencement dinner.

On Sunday the Twenty-five Year Class had their regular luncheon at 12:30 in Bartlett Hall Dining Room. Members of the immediate family and guests accompanying the members of the class were present also. At this occasion, in addition to individual reminiscences, Mr. Cram presented the messages he had received from those members of the class who were unable to be present.

Campus Tours, Alumni Tea

Following the luncheon, the class spent the time visiting the interesting points of the campus and later joined in the fellowship at the alumni tea in the Faculty Room at 5:30 p.m.

Following is the list of class members who were present: Mrs. Anna Hinkson Armientrout, B. Di. '08, Iowa Falls, Iowa; Miss Mable McL. Barr, Pri. Many Teacher Actors Join Ranks of Alumni

Students in the drama classes at Teachers College under the direction of Miss Hazel Strayer, B. A. '14, associate professor of oral interpretation, assisted by Charles Holden, technical director, and Winnfred Tuttle, now Mrs. I. H. Hart, B. A. '20, assistant professor of oral interpretation, presented four major dramatic productions during the year 1932-33.

The plays produced include "The Good Hope," presented July 14 and 15 last summer, "The Scarecrow," given October 21 and 22; "Once In a Lifetime," presented February 16 and 17; "Romeo and Juliet," staged on April 20, 21, 22, and "The Women Have Their Way," presented on May 25 and 26, as the annual commencement play, and again on June 9 in the first week of the summer session.

New "actor alumni" initiated into the ever-growing ranks at commencement exercises during the past year include Howard Roberts, B.A. '33, Winom, Minnesota; Marshall Kathan, B.A. '32, Osage; and Josephine Hirons, B.A. '33, Sac City, who played in "The Scarecrow," and J. B. Lake, B.A. '33, Cedar Falls, and Pauline Moothart, B.A. '33, Des Moines, Gayle Ristrim, B.A. '33, Stanhope; Naomi Jewell, B.A. '33, Cedar Falls, and Raymond Berrier, B.A. '32, Cedar Falls, who were members of the production staff for "The Scarecrow."

Mr. Roberts, Miss Hirons, and Mr. Lake appeared in the next play, "Once In a Lifetime," and Flora Thane Shaw, B.A. '33, of Kellogg; and Gwendolyn Bloker, B. A. '33, Waterloo, were members of the production staff.

Miss Jewell, Mr. Lake, Miss Bloker, Miss Hirons, and Miss Ristrim also appeared in the play, "Romeo and Juliet," which was produced during the spring term in the regular Thursday and Friday evening presentations, and again on Saturday, April 22, for alumni and teachers in attendance at the annual conference on play production.

In the play, "The Women Have Their Way," Miss Ristrim, Miss Hirons, and Mr. Lake were members of the cast.

Teachers College music organizations including the College Band and glee clubs will take active part in the first state-wide music festival at Cedar Falls, August 11.

Approximately 500 bands will be invited to compete in a special band contest. Glee clubs and choruses will also compete for prizes.

Contest Named For Brindley

In memory of the high ideals and keen interest which the late Professor Brindley promoted in the field of speech work at the College, the Delta Sigma Rho, national speech fraternity, through the local officers, Howard Blanchard, B.A. '33, and Roger Ranney, B.A. '31, secured administrative approval for the renaming of the Iowa High School Invitaiton contest as "the Brindley Forensic Tournament." The new name goes into effect with the coming year.

SEND A STUDENT

Send a student. This does not mean that we are asking each alumnus to finance a student in attendance at Teachers College. Neither does it mean that we are urging alumni to impress upon high school graduates, regardless of interest or capacities, the desirability of attending Iowa State Teachers College. It does mean, however, that one very concrete way in which each alumnus may show his appreciation and loyalty for his Alma Mater is to search out one student who, in his opinion, has high qualifications for the teaching profession, and who, in addition, has shown by capacities or preference a definite leaning toward teaching work, and to encourage this student to come to the Iowa State Teachers College.

Encourage Superior Students

We are asking that each alumnus encourage one superior student to come to a college where the high quality of instructional work is not only being maintained during the depression years, but is actually being improved in many respects through new methods and the reorganization of curriculums and general activities. We are urging that each alumnus tell one superior student that at the Iowa State Teachers College he can receive his training at an expense probably less than that possible in any other institution of equal standing, at an institution where a recent survey revealed that students make an average expenditure of only $251.00 for the entire year, this amount including tuition, board, and room. Board can be had at an average of $94.00 for a nine months period, according to the survey, rooms for an average of $70.00, and tuition for an average of $87.00. These figures, of course, do not include “ice cream, shows, and candy.”

Cost Surprisingly Low

However, the average total expense, even including such additional items as books, entertainment, transportation, clothes, and incidentals, in addition to the usually recognized items mentioned above, is $392.00. Scores of students, moreover, are beating off the depres-

Nation-Wide Reunion

As this issue of the Alumnus goes to press, alumni from all parts of the country are assembling in Chicago for the first nation-wide reunion and banquet attempted in the history of the association.

Members of the Chicago Alumni Unit, working under the direction of their officers, including David Lee Shillinglaw, 5836 Stony Island, assisted by Joe Wright, B. A. ’09, of 330 Webster Avenue, vice president, and Mrs. Marjorie Gist Sward, Kg. ’16, of 10349 South Hoyne Avenue, secretary-treasurer, have been working for months in preparation for this greatest of all Teachers College alumni gatherings.

A complete account of the reunion will be carried in the October issue of the Alumnus. New officers of the Chicago unit elected recently include Joe Wright, president; Lula Parsons, vice-president, and Mrs. Sward, secretary-treasurer.
New Debate Coach Selected

The untimely death of Professor W. A. Brindley, professor of speech and coach of debate, who in past years has placed the name of the Iowa State Teachers College high in the records of intercollegiate forensic activities, has left a vacancy in the teaching ranks of the College which has been hard to fill. However, in the selection of Dr. F. W. Lambertson, associate professor of public speaking and coach of extempe work, oratory, and after-dinner speaking, the English Department at the College has selected a man apparently highly qualified in the matter of training, experience, and demonstrated ability. He will have no easy assignment, however, in the maintenance of the high standards set by Professor Brindley.

In the year just past, Professor Brindley's debaters engaged in approximately sixty contests, many of them practice debates, but nevertheless all of them representing actual competition with outside schools. In addition, Professor Brindley's teams were unusually active in competing before service clubs and in providing intellectual refreshment for various other social gatherings in the form of debates on current topics.

Announcing his desire to continue these and other phases of the debating work, the new coach has outlined tentative plans for the year which call for numerous debates. Among them is the contest with a team from Cambridge University, England, in December. Work in extempe speaking and oratory, which was sponsored last year by Dr. Lambertson, will be carried forward again in the coming year.

Discussion Group to Meet at Chicago

A feature of the work planned for next year will be a discussion group which will meet with other leading colleges and universities at Northwestern University, and which will take the speakers to Chicago during the World Fair. In after-dinner speaking, Dr. Lambertson's students will enter a local contest sometime in October and will compete in the State Peace contest to be held the first Friday in December at Drake University, Des Moines. In addition, the students will visit service clubs giving talks on subjects of current interest.

Thus, Dr. Lambertson will take over the debate work administered by Mr. Brindley, and will direct the work in extempe speaking, oratory, and after-dinner speaking, and in addition will continue his work in speech correction.

New Debate Coach Is Experienced

The first training of the new debate coach was had under Dr. Charles Woolbert at Albion College, Albion, Michigan. This was followed by courses in argumentation under Lew Sarrett, of Northwestern University, and studies in advanced argumentation under A. Craig Baird at the University of Iowa.

For eight years Dr. Lambertson has coached debate in college and university. His first position was in the Teachers College of Emporia, Kansas. For the next four years he coached debate in Dakota Wesleyan University in South Dakota. Later, as Graduate Assistant in the University of Iowa, he assisted Professor A. Craig Baird in coaching men's teams.

Dr. Lambertson was initiated into Delta Sigma Rho in 1921 in the Northwestern University chapter. For three years he was Governor of the Province of the Sioux in Pi Kappa Delta. He is joint author with Professor A. Craig Baird of a high school text in debating, "Informal Discussion and Debate."

Dr. Lambertson is the author of several other textbooks, including "Projects in After-Dinner Speaking," and "Preparing the Commencement Address," a text containing compilations of commencement addresses from such speakers as Calvin Coolidge, Nicholas Murray Butler, Owen D. Young, and Glenn Frank.

F. W. Lambertson

In spite of somewhat threatening weather conditions during the middle of the forenoon, there was a splendid attendance and the usual fervent and enthusiastic alumni spirit. The Reunion Committee reports that 80 people were served.

Baker to Direct Gridders

John W. Baker, Jr., assistant football coach at Teachers College during the past year, who had announced his resignation from the staff to take effect at the end of the spring term, has reconsidered his decision, and is now fairly certain that he will return to the campus next fall to become head football coach.

Although L. L. Mendenhall, director of athletics at the College, had not made a final announcement at the time this information for the Alumnus was sent to the printer, indications were that Baker would serve as head coach for the 1933 Tutor gridiron aggregation, assisted by David McCuskey as backfield coach and perhaps by Paul F. Bender, former varsity coach. L. W. Whitford, varsity coach in 1932, will be in charge of the freshman squad.

Will Appear At World’s Fair

Baker is at present at his home in Los Angeles, California. He will remain there until early in August, when he plans to return to the midwest to play in the World’s Fair football game with an All-American team of the Pacific coast coached by Howard Jones. This organization will meet a mid-western team coached by Dick Hanley, as part of the sports program of the Century of Progress Exposition. Baker, while a member of the varsity squad at Southern California, was awarded All-American honors for two years at his running guard position. In 1931 he kicked the famous field goal that enabled the Trojans to defeat Notre Dame.
New Coach Has Eight Lettermen, Stiff Schedule

Only eight men who won their letters on the 1932 football team will be available for Coach John Baker’s first edition next fall. Two of these are backfield men, Kenneth Kimberlin, Marshalltown, a two-year veteran, and John McCaffrie, Dubuque, who won his first letter last season.

The six linemen who will probably return to school next fall are Raburn Miller, Zearing, guard; Clifford O’Dea, Valley Junction, center; Harlan Rigby, Mechanicsville, guard; Truman Manship, LeGrande, and Vernon Stribley, Correctionville, ends.

Besides the letterwinners expected back, there are a number of potential prospects from the frosh team of last year, who will no doubt be promoted to fill some of the vacancies left by the thirteen lettermen who were graduated this year. Also, there are a number of non-lettermen of last season’s varsity squad who will be battling for a position on the team when Coaches Baker, Bender, and McCuskey make the initial call for material.

Strong Candidates

Among the candidates from the varsity and yearling squads of last fall who will undoubtedly make strong bids for positions on the team are John Sindingler, Cedar Falls; Charles Porter and Robert Mimback, Hutchinson, Minnesota; Harry Helgason, Wallingford; Myron Cedarholm, Waterloo; William Kirsher, Valley Junction; and Lester Petersen, Alta; backs.

In the forward wall Coach Baker will have such material as James DeSpain, Marengo; William Shultz, Chicago, Illinois; Kenneth Albee, Muscatine; Paul Hoeman, Adair; Irvin Berryhill, Buffalo Center; Wendell Griggs, Cedar Falls; George Beebe, Waverly; Richard Geertsema, Parkersburg; Raymond Smalling, Janesville; Herluff Peterson, Cedar Falls; Marion Odekirk, Waterloo; LeRoy Rechenmacher, Naperville, Illinois; and Marion Bragonier, Cedar Falls.

The team will face one of the hardest schedules arranged for the Teachers College in several years, playing nine games against some of the stiffest competition in the state.

Lettermen who were graduated this year are: Clarence Bain, Max Boller, Don Cole, Virgil Dues, Gale Fisher, Donald Gooden, Berg Trophy winner and all state tackle, Maynard Harmon, Arthur Olsen, Frantz Rausenberger, Phillip Sheffield, Alvin Stieger, Merlin Westwick and Roger Willert.

Track Squad Wins Conference

Starting the season as more or less of a mediocre squad, the Iowa Teachers track team, under the tutelage of Coach Paul F. Bender, rapidly rounded into shape, and as a fitting climax to a highly successful season, won the Iowa Conference track and field championship. This is the sixth successive year that the Conference laurels have been won by the Panther trackmen.

The Teachers squad opened the season by placing third in the eight-eighty yard relay, and fourth in the mile relay in the Conference section at the Drake Relays. The next meet in which Coach Bender’s men participated was the South Dakota Relays, held at Sioux Falls, South Dakota. Roger Willert, giant weight man, began to display his wares at this meet by winning first in the shot and discus, to repeat his performance of the year before. The combination of Wendell Pierce and Harry Myers garnered second and third in the pole vault for the Panther team. Bill Hulin, entered in the 100-yard dash, won a third, and the half-mile relay team, composed of Hulin, Grimes, Meikle, and Bain, placed fourth in that event.

Baseball Squad Wins Five Games, Loses Three

A large group of baseball aspirants reported to Coach L. W. Whitford for practice at the beginning of the spring term. Only six of these men were former letterwinners in the spring sport, but there was a likely lot of prospects who had seen action on the varsity and freshman squads of 1932. With this material, all indications pointed toward a fairly successful season for the Panther ball club.

The Panther baseball fans were not disappointed, as the team won five games and lost three, playing a good brand of ball against every team that they met. Early in the season, Lee Coler, who had previously been working as a catcher, was shifted in the left field position, and Max Boller was assigned the job behind the bat, where he did the receiving for Oscar Johnson and Elmer Carty, veteran pitchers, who bore the brunt of the mound duty, with Richard Rollins, acting as alternate.

Paul Lambert, playing his third season at second base, was instrumental in the success of a number of double plays, either to Truman Manship, at first base, or Arthur Olsen at third. “Hoot” also did some good work with the bat during the season, making several timely circuit clouts. This outfit, with Donald Blanchard, at short stop, made a smooth-working infield arrangement.

Donald Cook and Lee Coler, veteran baseball men, came to be permanent fixtures at center and left field, respectively, soon after the season got under way, both playing a bang-up game of ball. The right field job was held by several alternates, chiefly Isadore Schultz and Alfred Ogland. Late in the season Manship’s bad knee was injured, and Wendell Dunn took over the duties at first base.

Following are the scores of the 1933 schedule: Iowa State 3—Teachers 4; Iowa State 10—Teachers 9; Upper Iowa 3—Teachers 4; Luther 4—Teachers 7; Luther 5—Teachers 0; Iowa U. 12—Teachers 5; Iowa State 2—Teachers 2; Iowa State 2—Teachers 4. The home game with Upper Iowa was cancelled because of inclement weather.

For fifteen busy years we loved and looked up to him. And then, too suddenly, he was taken from us, and something that is irreplaceable is gone from us—something great and fine and true and understanding.

Tell A Student . . . .

That at the Iowa State Teachers College, your Alma Mater, he can secure more education for less money than at any other institution of equal standing in Iowa.

That rooms in Cedar Falls can be had for as low as $1.00 per week and board for less than $4.00 per week, with the total cost of board and room for the year not exceeding $165.00. (These figures are based on an actual survey of student costs. They represent an average, not a minimum. In spite of this, however, they are not bettered by figures quoted at other schools.)

That by renting light housekeeping rooms he can reduce his costs for room and board, as many students are now actually doing, to $2.00 a week or $72.00 a year. (This is actually below figures quoted for cooperative housing schemes in force at other schools.)

That he can enroll in his first year at Teachers College expecting to spend not more than $240.00 for tuition, board, and room. (This again is an average, not a minimum.)

That the new Commons Building, student social center, will be ready for use this September, providing all manner of opportunities for social recreation.

That the high quality of instructional work at your College is not only being maintained during the depression, but is actually being improved through new methods and reorganization.

Remember, every college necessarily depends upon its alumni to assist in building up its enrollment. Are you with us?
