All Together! Homecoming! Homecoming!

Big Time Planned For October Homecomers

October! Clear skies! Crisp, brown leaves crackling under foot! Mild Saturday afternoons! Such is the proper setting for a Homecoming, and such is the atmosphere anticipated by the alumni, student, and faculty committee which, early in August, set the date for the annual festivities as Saturday, October 22.

With the annual business meeting of the Alumni Association shifted from the June commencement season to the time of the noon luncheon in Bartlett Hall on Homecoming Day, and the attraction of the first football game with Morningside College in recent years, it is expected that a large crowd will be in attendance for the three-day celebration.

Annual Business Meeting Now At Homecoming October 22

Luncheon in Bartlett Hall dining room from 11:30 A.M. until 1:30 P.M. This dinner will be entirely informal and will give alumni an opportunity to talk with old friends and renew acquaintances. All student organizations have been asked to leave the luncheon hour free so that alumni may attend this one big get-together. Alumni may bring guests to the dinner.

First Game With Morningside Since 1919

The football game with Morningside will begin promptly at two o'clock, and alumni are especially encouraged to arrive at the stadium fifteen or twenty minutes before the opening of the game in order that they may enjoy the pageantry of the Band maneuvers and other special features arranged for the opening ceremonies. This is the first time that a Teachers College football team has played Morningside College since 1919.

From 4:30 o’clock in the afternoon until six, the various campus organizations will hold open house for alumni, and at six o’clock the various campus organizations will hold dinners in honor of returning graduates.
Traditional Dance In Evening

The Homecoming dance will begin at 8:15 and continue until 11:30 P. M. in the Men's Gymnasium. Tables for cards will be arranged in the luxurious Men's Club Rooms on the second floor of the gymnasium. This is an event to which alumni always come whether they do or do not dance, for it is here that they may enjoy the colorful atmosphere of the ballroom, chat with old friends and faculty members in the Club Rooms, or enjoy an evening of cards. The price of the dance is seventy-five cents a couple.

On Sunday morning, at 10:30 o'clock, special church services in honor of alumni will be held in the College Auditorium.

Reverend Ries Honored

It was on the gridiron of Iowa State Teachers College that "Big Mike" Ries, husky, broad-shouldered, and over six feet tall, first won fame for his ability. But in the years since his graduation with the B. Di. Degree in 1904, he has been winning victories in a greater game—the game of life.

Soon after his graduation, the football star decided to devote his life to religious work. Now he is known as the Reverend M. M. Ries, C. M., pastor of St. Vincent's Parish, one of the largest Catholic churches in the city of Chicago. The church has a membership of 1,000 families, and there are more than 1,000 children attending the parish school.

Assumed New Duties In May

The Reverend Father Ries assumed his new duties on May 8, after resigning his position as professor of De Paul University. Four assistants will be required to help the new pastor in his duties.

Characteristics which distinguish the Reverend Father Ries in the memories of his friends at the College are his friendly attitude and unquestioned sincerity. They recall him as "one who loved his fellow men." C. S. Cory, Registrar at the College, has known the Chicago teacher and pastor since the time he was a lad attending a rural school in Washington Township, north-west of New Hampton, in Chickasaw County. Mr. Cory was County Superintendent of Schools at that time.

Many Friends At Teachers College

"I have followed the Reverend Father Ries' career since I first knew him," said the Registrar. "He has always been a good 'mixer' and everyone admires him for his qualities of whole-heartedness and sincerity." Other friends of the pastor at the College include President-Emeritus Homer H. Seerley and A. C. Fuller, Associate Director of the Extension Division.

Father Ries was graduated from Immaculate Conception Academy at North Washington previous to enrolling at the Teachers College. Following the completion of his course at the College, he served as superintendent of schools.

After ten years of study for the ministry and missionary work, the pastor was ordained, and in 1916 again took up educational work as a professor in De Paul University in Chicago. Until his resignation to accept the pastorate of St. Vincent's Parish, he served as a professor, and during vacations and periods of leave-of-absence, conducted missions from coast to coast.

Father Ries still remembers his many friends at the College, and relates that he particularly enjoyed the recent meeting of alumni in Chicago.
Chicago Alumni Enjoy August Picnic ---

Mrs. Sward, As Delegate of Group, Visits Campus To Make Plans For Century of Progress Exposition

When the spirit moves, the Chicago alumni act and act quickly. When a picnic in Jackson Park was projected, telephones buzzed all over Cook County. At the request of the secretary, Mrs. Marjorie Gist Sward, the alumni office at the College in Cedar Falls mailed out the invitation to all Chicago alumni whose addresses are on the regular mailing list. More telephones buzzed and plans grew.

Thursday, August eleventh, found an enthusiastic crowd in Jackson Park. They came from the North side, and from far out on the West side. Mrs. Marguerite Rae Nichols represented the Class of 1883, and J. L. McLaughlin the Class of 1893. The Class of 1898 also had several representatives. There was one member of the Class of 1932.

Faculty Members Present

Miss Marguerite Uttley, professor of natural science at the College, then on leave of absence doing graduate study in Chicago University; Miss Mary B. Hunter, professor of economics and history, who was on leave for graduate study at Chicago University during the summer, and former members of the faculty, including Miss Harriet Case and Dr. Charles H. Meyerholz, gave a strong faculty flavor to the group. The tales told of Dr. Meyerholz and the watermelon indicate that picnic style of festivities prevailed unhampered. David Lee Shillinglaw, as Chairman, kept things lively.

The efficient secretary, Mrs. Sward, who came to Cedar Falls for a visit, brought in the roster of those who shared in the fun. The names of those who attended appear at the end of this article.

Secretary Comes To Campus

While in Cedar Falls, Mrs. Sward interviewed President O. R. Latham on plans for a combined college exhibit and headquarters space at the Century of Progress Exposition. The enthusiasm displayed and the tentative plans launched for necessary higher official consideration and development assure all that the best possible arrangement financially within the means of the College will be worked out.

Alumni from all over the United States who will pass through Chicago during the six months in which the Century of Progress Exposition will be open will find additional interest in the opportunities that will be afforded to meet college friends through the assistance provided by the information on file in the headquarters booth. Class reunion groups of all sorts can be readily organized and arranged.

Grand Reunion Planned

Sometime during the Exposition season, according to the plans, there will be a grand reunion gathering of Iowa State Teachers College Alumni in Chicago. At this Iowa Teachers College conclave alumni from all over the United States will be in attendance. These and a special contingent direct from Cedar Falls, and all of the Chicago alumni will make the Century of Progress Reunion a landmark in alumni history.

One of the major problems of this grand Reunion is the selection of a satisfactory date for the event. Alumni who would like to be present at such a gathering during the summer of 1933, should send in their suggestion for the best dates to the alumni office at Cedar Falls.

Many Alumni Attend Picnic

Those present at the recent Chicago picnic included the following: Anna Montgomery Bernhard, B. Di. '98; Mrs. Laura White Bohan; Harriet Case; Edyth Bunker Denkhoff, Pri. '26; Edith Forsythe, B. A. '24; Alice Foster, B. Di. '93; Paul Gibson; Mrs. Lillie Britten Gibson, P. C. '98; Sam Hersey, J. C. '15; Ethel Derrickson Hiles, Pri. '23; Mrs. Ruth Bliss Hoppe, C. '26; Alma Manson Horrocks, B. Di. '98; Charles Horrocks; Louise Horrocks; Mary B. Hunter, A. '12; Ann Johnson; Frank D. Joseph; Mrs. Frank D. Joseph; Irving C. Lovejoy; J. L. McLaughlin, B. Di. '91, M. Di. '92; Ada Chambers Mercer, B. Di. '11; Charles H. Meyerholz, M. Di. '98; Marguerite Rae Nichols, B. Di. '83; Beth Gillis Pennington, '22; Hazel R. Rapp, B. A. '32; Miriam Rapp, J. C. '24; Thea Sando, Kg. '20; David L. Shillinglaw, '11; R. Signe Sletten, Pri. '15; Marguerite Uttley, B. A. '15; Cilena G. Mercer Walker, M. Di. '00; Olive Wendette, '09; Leah Wyant Winsor, P. S. M. '16; Edith O. Yates, M. Di. '13, and Mary Yates, Pri. '15.

Emma B. Kuschl, C. '32, of 1208 North Adams Street, Carroll, Iowa, is teaching commercial at Attica, Iowa, this year.
Democrats Honor Cap Miller

Cap E. Miller, one of the most distinguished alumni of Teachers College now engaged in agricultural education, is being supported by leading Democrats in North Dakota as a possible candidate for the Secretary of Agriculture in case the Democrats win the coming presidential election.

"Who will be the next Secretary of Agriculture when the Democrats win," is the headline in literature now being distributed in Mr. Miller's home state. Some leading Democrats say, "Cap E. Miller, of Fargo, North Dakota," reads the slogan.

Has Distinguished Record

The distinguished record of Mr. Miller in North Dakota agricultural projects and his wide range of experience in Iowa as well as in his present home state are among the factors which qualify him for the possible candidacy.

An editorial appearing in the Cedar Rapids Gazette-Republican of Saturday, July 30, 1932, entitled, "Iowa May Still Have a Voice," states that it is "encouraging to feel that, IF Mr. Roosevelt is elected and IF he does not choose a Secretary of Agriculture from among competent farm leaders now living in Iowa, he may select a man who is an Iowan by birth and training and who is familiar with the problems of agriculture as they affect the state."

The editorial continues, "Mr. Miller has prominent backers in the middle west and northwest who believe he has a thorough and sympathetic appreciation of the farm problems of this section of the country. His prestige in the Roosevelt camp doubtless is enhanced by the fact that North Dakota Democrats were in the vanguard of the Roosevelt-for-President movement, prior to the national convention."

The life-history and qualifications of this outstanding Teachers College alumnus read as follows: "Born and reared on an Iowa farm; educated in Iowa public schools and Iowa State Educational Institutions; student at Kansas State College of Agriculture and University of Wisconsin, graduate of Iowa State College of Agriculture, 1917; County Superintendent of Schools, Keokuk County, Iowa, seven years; candidate for State Superintendent of Public Instruction in Iowa, 1908; Professor of Agricultural Economics, North Dakota Agricultural College, 1918-1932; President of the North Dakota Society of the Sons of the American Revolution two years, 1929-30; President of the Fargo Cosmopolitan Service Club, 1931; Executive Secretary-Treasurer of Northwest Farm Managers Association for many years—the old-

Chicago Alumni!

The Chicago group of Iowa State Teachers College alumni is anxious to add to its mailing list the names of all alumni in and near Chicago who would like to receive notices of the various picnics and get-togethers that may be planned. Send names to Mrs. Marjorie Gist Sward, secretary, 10349 South Hoyne Avenue, Chicago, or to Alumni Office, Cedar Falls.

Dorothy Charles, B. A. '27, daughter of Professor and Mrs. J. W. Charles of the College, has accepted a position as Head of the Catalogue Department in the Osterhaut Library in Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania. Miss Charles, who was assistant in the Catalogue Department of the Indiana State Library at Indianapolis, began her new duties July 15. The position is an advance both in salary and in rank over her former one. She was selected for the position through the library school of the University of Michigan, of which she is a graduate.

Mrs. Frank C. Tate (Emma R. Jenney), P. G. '06, of Des Moines, Iowa, called at the College on July 8, 1932. Mrs. Tate was a teacher for many years. She was accompanied by her daughter and grand-daughter.

C. L. Shartle, B. A. '32, Iowa State Teachers College, M. A. '32, Columbia University, has been appointed full time instructor in psychology at Ohio State University at Columbus. In addition, he is doing research work for the American Telegraph and Telephone Company on the selection and training of supervisors.
Lack of Education Costly, Graduates Warned

Two hundred and ninety-two students at Teachers College who received degrees and diplomas in the summer term commencement exercises on the south campus, Thursday, August 18, heard Dr. George F. Zook, president of the University of Akron, Ohio, declare that "higher education does not cost anything, but the lack of education, including higher education, costs everything."

The commencement speaker stated that proof of this assertion is found in the fact that for the want of trained men and women, many states of the country which are rich in natural resources, forests, coal, gas, oil, farm lands, and water power, are either partly or wholly undeveloped. "This situation shows not what education costs, but what the lack of it costs," the prominent educator explained.

America Assumes Leadership

At one time a student was not considered educated until he had burrowed in the British Museum and the libraries of Oxford and Cambridge or sat at the feet of some renowned French professor in the Sorbonne or delved into the mysteries of life in the laboratories of a German university. This is not true today, the speaker explained.

"For several years there have been approximately 8,000 students of collegiate grade from foreign countries and American possessions registered in American colleges and universities. Educational missions from one or more foreign countries are almost constantly in the United States studying American methods of teaching and administration. The United States is indeed beginning to assume world leadership in the realm of higher education.

Education Now Democratized

"What are some of the reasons for this marvelous development?" asked the speaker. "In the first place, the people have determined that higher education like elementary and secondary education shall be made available to every young man and woman capable of profiting by it. College education is no longer the prerogative of the well-born and the well-to-do. We have indeed gone a long way toward democratizing higher education as well as elementary and secondary education.

"America has also made an outstanding contribution in developing and organizing certain types of higher education which serve as a model to the rest of the world. I refer, for example, to dentistry, agriculture, home economics, and extension education, all of which were at least in the modern sense born and developed here. Today these lines of study, although much younger in years, have developed their own special subject matter and their own methods of teaching until today they take their places alongside the older professions of law, medicine and theology, developed in Europe centuries ago.

Research System Unexcelled

"Finally, we have developed a great system of research for new knowledge in our universities which is now equal, if not superior, to that to be found in any country in the world. Moreover, the research that is being carried on in this country is of a very practical nature. Often it is done in close cooperation with the industries themselves on a scale that would not have been dreamed of a generation ago.

"Therefore, America's contribution to the cause of higher education has been through research to add tremendously to the supply of knowledge available for increasing our material wealth; to lead the way in throwing open the doors of opportunity to larger and larger proportions of our youth representing all classes of society, to make available new and varied curricula suited to their respective needs, and withdrawal to preserve within the institutions themselves that spirit of democracy which is the ideal of our civilization.

Criticism Is "Wholesome, Helpful"

"Some of you have been a bit bewildered occasionally at the avalanche of criticism which has been levelled at American colleges and universities by laymen and educators alike. No one should resist this criticism. It is extremely wholesome, and it has been helpful. It has helped to keep the higher institutions close to the people. But let us recall occasionally how much more provision has been made in this country for higher education than in any country in the world. We shall not then be confused concerning the propaganda against the so-called cost of higher education now going forward in many states. A considerable part of this propaganda has proceeded on an entirely wrong basis. Contrary to what is widely circulated, higher education does not cost anything—but the lack of education, including higher education, costs everything!

"Go with me to some of the states which are rich in natural resources, forests, coal, gas, oil, farm lands, and water power, but for want of trained men and women are either partly or wholly undeveloped, and I will show you not what education costs but what the lack of it costs. Go with me also, perhaps to the same state, where a large part of the population is illiterate, where magazines, books, newspapers, and good pictures seldom grace the tables and barren walls of the homes, where only a small proportion of the population take the trouble to go to the polls on election day, where idle youths fritter away their time uselessly on the street corners and in the pool halls, and I will show you not what higher education costs, but what the lack of it costs.

The graduation exercises began at 7 P. M. with a concert by the College Band. The processional played by the College Band under the direction of M. L. Russell, assistant professor of wood wind instruments, and two horn solos by Charles E. Schaerges, instructor in brass instruments, accompanied by Peggy E. Lagen, instructor in piano, followed the concert. A combined group of Cecilians and Minnesingers, accompanied by the band, sang two numbers, directed by Olive L. Barker, instructor in voice and public school music, and Irving Wolfe, instructor in public school music. The Reverend Floyd D. Reeves, pastor of the First Congregational Church, pronounced the benediction and invocation. Diplomas were conferred on the 292 graduates by President O. R. Latham. One hundred and fifteen degrees and 177 diplomas were awarded. The Bachelor of Arts Degree was awarded to 75 students, and the Bachelor of Science Degree to 40 students.

Dinner Speech Stirs Graduates

Responding to the toast, "Toughened Fibers," J. H. Anderson, M. Di. '98, of Thompson, Iowa, member of the State Board of Education and former Speaker of the House of Representatives at Des Moines, told his auditors at the commencement dinner at Teachers College, on Wednesday evening, August 17, that they needed strength of mind, heart, and soul in order to be ready to accept the challenge of the times. About 400 members of the summer term graduating classes, alumni, faculty members, and friends, attended the quarterly affair which was held in the Women’s Gymnasium.

"The sun of prosperity is near the horizon," declared Mr. Anderson in expressing the conviction that our wealth is gradually finding its way back into the proper channels. "Toughened fibers are important in a sound economic recovery," he declared.

In warning the graduates against becoming discouraged, Mr. Anderson emphasized the fact that "education is not for today or tomorrow only, but to enable the trained man to meet the opportunities of the future, and to overtake them if they do not meet him half-way."

"You can’t lose your education," declared the speaker. "In fact, you can’t even get rid of it. It is invested in a bank that never breaks."

Mr. Anderson pointed out that some toughened fibers represented strongholds of evil. He illustrated his point by referring to the toughened fibers in the concentration of almost unlimited wealth and luxuries in the hands of a few, which forced millions to face poverty, and he warned against the dangerous fibers of crime and rapacious greed.

"These problems must be met by education," declared the Board member. "The state provides public schools and colleges to insure its own progress and perpetuity. It spends money on teachers’ colleges to furnish makers of good citizenship."

Mr. Anderson closed his address by extending his congratulations to members of the graduating classes.

Dr. Ralph Fahrney, assistant professor of history, presided at the toast program. A group of familiar songs were sung by the audience under the direction of C. A. Fullerton, head of the Department of Public School Music, and Miss Olive Barker, instructor in public school music and voice, sang Rasbach’s "Trees."

Two members of the graduating class responded to the first toasts on the after-dinner program. Robert Ebel, Waterloo, who has a notable record in inter-collegiate debate, spoke on "Seedling and Soil," and Cletus Bower, Coon Rapids, who is well known to play-goers at the College, responded to the toast, "Silent Forces."

President O. R. Latham concluded the toast program with the subject, "Monarch of the Forest." Dr. Latham referred to the giant redwood trees of California in drawing the analogy between a great man and big tree.

The President compared fire and decay in the forests to ignorance, fear, prejudice, vice, and other evils in society. He stated that the government was spending vast amounts of money to combat the destructive forces in the forests, but the fire line which society had established against social evils was public education.

"There is no greater calling for the young man or woman who goes out to serve than in the schools," declared the President. "I wish you well in this challenge and responsibility."
Twin Cities Reunion Set For February

The Iowa State Teachers College alumni in St. Paul and Minneapolis have been a vigorous group for years. Their next big objective is a reunion dinner for all Iowa State Teachers College alumni and friends in Minneapolis during the week of February 27 to March 2, 1933. At this time the annual meeting of the National Department of Superintendence will be in session and a large number of Iowa State Teachers College schoolmen and women from all parts of the country will be there. A large delegation of college people directly from Cedar Falls can be counted on. It will be an exceptionally fine opportunity for all alumni of the North Central Area to renew acquaintance. Bruce Francis, 1616 Seventh St., S. E., Minneapolis, is the President of the Twin Cities Alumni Association. He is already at work on plans that will make the occasion memorable. Write him if you wish reservations for the occasion.

Further announcement will be made in the January Alumnus, and notices should appear in the official program of the N. E. A. and in educational publications in Minnesota and adjacent states.

New Equipment For The Campanile

The Westminster quarter hour chimes and also the hour strike for the famous Fasoldt clock in the Campanile are now operated and controlled entirely by electricity. The new equipment is a product of The International Time Recording Company of New York City, and consists of a wall cabinet. A simple series of metal disks furnishes the contacts through which the electric current operates the solenoids already installed and used when musical programs are played. The electrical wiring is so arranged that whenever the chimer is playing a musical program the quarters and hour strike on the clock are automatically silenced. This is a practical convenience not heretofore possible.

Other new items of equipment in the Campanile include a new and more powerful motor and generator to operate both the clock chimes and the musical chimes. Since a change of motors was necessitated by the type of current produced by the new college electric plant, it was easily possible to make these substantial improvements. Both the automatic hour chimes and the selections played on the manual keyboard are sounded more vigorously.

To protect the campanile structure and its contents from dampness, a false roof has been placed just beneath the bell chamber, and two steam heat radiators have been installed on the ground floor. The Fasoldt clock has been completely encased in a large glass cabinet. Heavy wire screen now prevents sparrows and pigeons from collecting in the bell chamber or the open portions above.

The two musical programs played daily on the bells, one at 7:45 A. M., and the other just at fading daylight, continue to charm all who hear them. At the present time Irving W. Wolfe, instructor in public school music, is Master Chimer, and Lois Roush is the chimer playing the daily programs.

McDonalds Have Family Reunion

The McDonald family, which has established an enviable reputation at Teachers College through four of its members who are now alumni, held a reunion and celebration in honor of the Golden Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald at the family home in Cherokee, Iowa, Tuesday, June 23. The actual date of the anniversary was June 2 as the couple were married fifty years before that date at Kirrie Muir, Scotland, but the reunion celebration was deferred until June 23 because several of the members of the family were teaching and some of the grandchildren were in school.

This was the first time that the entire family had met since December 26, 1916. The family celebrated at a banquet, Thursday noon at the Hillside Hotel, with Lew McDonald, B. Di. '07, acting as toastmaster. Robert McDonald, prominent investment broker at Lima, Ohio, read a poem written by himself which presented the history of the family from the time of the childhood of the father and mother in Scotland, and down through their entire career, interspersing amusing incidents of family life and of the children. John McDonald, Sr., gave the response from the parents.

Other responses included one from the sons by John McDonald, Jr., B. Di. '09, B. A. '10; from the daughters by Mary D. McDonald, B. Di. '08; from the grandchildren by Helen McDonald and Alex McDonald; from the daughters-in-law by Ethelynne Smith McDonald of Los Angeles, California, and from the son-in-law by G. H. Holl of Evanston, Illinois. A tribute to the departed brother was given by Thomas F. McDonald. A solo was sung by Harry A. McDonald, who also led the group in singing.
Some indication of the importance of the event for the McDonalds and the loyalty of the family may be seen in the fact that the children came from such distant points as Tokio, Japan; Cleveland, Ohio; Detroit, Michigan; Huntington Park, California, and Evanston, Illinois.

About 200 guests were received in the home at a reception in honor of the mother and father. On the following day, the family held a golf tournament at the Cherokee Country Club, and a social dance was enjoyed with 80 guests in the Country Club House in the evening.

The elder McDonald was born and married in Scotland. He came to America about three or four days after marrying Mrs. McDonald and located near Aurora, Illinois, living there from June, 1882, until September, 1885. Mrs. McDonald came to Illinois from Scotland in 1883, and in September 1885 they moved to Cherokee, Iowa, where they started farming the next spring. Mr. McDonald landed in the United States with $30.00 in his pocket and now owns a section of good Iowa land and can boast of a family of children who have distinguished themselves in nearly every learned profession. The children were all born in Cherokee County, excepting Lew McDonald, who was born near Aurora, Illinois.

Altogether, eight sons, three daughters, and fourteen grandchildren took part in the family celebration. The four graduates of Teachers College and their brothers and sisters are as follows:

Lew McDonald, B. Di. '07, Iowa State Teachers College; Ph. B., J. D. '19, University of Chicago, attorney-at-law and present state senator at Cherokee, Iowa; Mary D. McDonald, B. Di. '08, Iowa State Teachers College, M. A., Columbia University, teacher in the Mission School at Tokyo, Japan; John G. McDonald, B. A. '10, Iowa State Teachers College; M. A., J. D., University of Chicago, attorney-at-law at Chicago; William D. McDonald, B. A., Grinnell College, M. A., University of California, B. S., Pacific Seminary, died September 26, 1920; Thomas F. McDonald, LL. B., University of Iowa, attorney-at-law at Cleveland, Ohio; C. Bert McDonald, B. A. '20, Iowa State Teachers College, investment broker at Cleveland, Ohio; Harry A. McDonald, Ph. B., University of Chicago, president of Detroit Creamery at Detroit, Michigan; Robert H. McDonald, B. A., University of Iowa, LL. B., University of Iowa, investment broker at Lima, Ohio; G. Dewey McDonald, LL. B., University of Colorado, manager of Lansing Creamery at Lansing, Michigan; Angus C. McDonald, B. A., Grinnell, M. D., Rush Medical College, physician and surgeon at Huntington Park, California; Margaret A. McDonald, B. A., Grinnell College, M. A., Columbia University, teacher in the high school at Los Angeles, California, and Isabelle McDonald Noll, B. A., University of Iowa, who resides at Evanston, Illinois.

Judge W. C. Radcliffe, of Red Oak, Iowa, was advanced from vice presidency to the presidency of the Iowa Bar Association recently. Mrs. Radcliffe was formerly Lydia May Wright, M. Di. '02, B. A. '07.

Margaret B. Ryan, B. A. '27, of Monona, Iowa, is teaching at Oyster Bay, New York. She received the M. A. Degree from Columbia University at New York City in June, 1932.

The College At The State Fair

The Teachers College booth at the annual Iowa State Fair in Des Moines was again well filled with a widely representative display. At the front were three huge enlarged photographs showing an airplane view of the entire campus, the east front porticos of the Auditorium Building and a new view of the Campanile. The departments represented in the exhibit this year included Education, with posters contrasting old and new professional practices; Natural Science, with posters, booklets, games and devices related to the teaching of health; Teaching, with several reels of moving pictures on pre-school work and dramatics; English—Dramatics Division—with miniature stages, stage properties and illustrations on costuming. In addition, a huge, brilliantly-colored poster drew emphatic attention to the importance of adequate preparation for all teachers.

A. C. Fuller, Associate Director of the Extension Division, assisted by Don McCavick, of the Department of Teaching, and Edwin Cram, student, were in charge of the exhibit. The attendants report that a large number of fair visitors were interested in the exhibit. Many alumni and former students of the College were among the visitors.

Music Head Honored

The "Second Movement of Symphony No. 1," a composition of Edward Kurtz, head of the Orchestral Music Department at Teachers College, was played at the American Composers' Concert on March 24, 1932, in Kilbourn Hall, University of Rochester, Rochester, New York.

The composition was played by the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra, conducted by Dr. Howard Hanson, director of the Eastman School of Music.
Fifty Years A Teacher

Miss Louise Barrett, N. C. '79, B. Di. '81, M. Di. '01, principal of the Whittier School at Brainerd, Minnesota, recently announced her retirement after fifty years of active teaching work. Since 1904 Miss Barrett has been principal of the Whittier School.

A Brainerd newspaper, dated May 28, in an account of her retirement says, "One of Brainerd's best known and experienced teachers, Miss Barrett, reluctantly looks to June 3, the closing of the current school term, as the date which will write finis to her half century record of service." The paper pays glowing tribute to her teaching work.

Miss Barrett was born in Iowa and received all her early education in the state. Previous to her teaching work in Brainerd, she was instructor in Wadena, Staples, and Northfield schools in Minnesota. She also taught for four years in Chicago.

A Deep Interest In Children

In a special feature interview Miss Barrett reveals her genuine love for teaching and her deep interest in children. In reviewing her teaching career she looks upon the fourth grade as the most difficult to teach. "The fourth year is a period of adjustment," she explains, "and at this time a new course of study is begun." In the interview she declares that the old theory that boys are brighter in arithmetic and girls brighter in grammar does not hold true. "They average up evenly," she says. She found in her long service that the teaching of boys was just as enjoyable as the teaching of girls or vice versa. The old question about "this younger generation" seems to be no problem in the mind of Miss Barrett for she explains that the boys and girls of 50 years ago are a little different from those of today. "If they don't study I make them," she said laughingly.

A special reception was held in honor of Miss Barrett by Brainerd citizens as a final tribute to the important part she has taken in the educating of the children of that city. Says the report, "A standing tribute to her are the trees now thriving on the Whittier school grounds. Each arbor day, with due ceremony, trees have been planted and Whittier now has more verdure than any other school in the city.

Says the editor of the Brainerd Daily Dispatch, "from the pen of a little known author flowed these lines, the text of which is refreshing, in tribute to those who devote their lives to enkindle that spark of right and wrong, of education, and somehow they bespeak the sincerity of the profession from which Miss Louise Barrett, principal of the Whittier School, will retire after 50 years of active teaching."

This Little Girl Had Dinner

An entire family was left out in the list of names of alumni attending the district meeting in Chicago, Friday, June 10, when plans were made for a country-wide reunion in Chicago at the time of the Century of Progress Exposition in 1933. The names were missing in the list sent to the Alumnus following the meeting.

The family is that of A. J. Bohan and Mrs. Bohan (Lorraine White), B. A. '23, and the two children, Eileen and Marilyn. It was the expectation of the Bohan family to have a neighbor take care of the two children while they attended the meeting, but the neighbors met with a serious car accident just before the dinner; so Mr. Bohan himself decided that he would take care of the children during the dinner hour. However, when the children came into the presence of the group at the dinner, three-year old Marilyn asked, "Daddy, why can't we stay and eat too, is it the depression?" That decided the case, and the alumni present enjoyed the company of the whole family.

Kathryn Dougherty, B. A. '32, has secured a temporary position as a Spanish teacher at West High School, Waterloo, Iowa. After the first semester, Spanish is to be dropped from the curriculum there.

Miss Dougherty, who was affiliated with the V. O. V. Sigma Phi Sorority while in school, was graduated with a B. A. Degree in Romance Languages.

Zoe Britton, B. Di. '04, visited at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Britton, 610 Iowa Street, Cedar Falls, during August. Miss Britton is employed as teacher in the public schools at Seattle, Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude E. Culley, of Le Mars, Iowa, visited at the home of Dr. and Mrs. O. B. Latham and with Dr. and Mrs. Homer H. Seely during the month of August.

Mrs. Culley was formerly (Esther L. Seely).

Their sons, Homer and Robert, accompanied them.

Four-Year Enrollment Increases

Increased enrollment of students on four-year curriculums during the school year of 1931-'32 is shown by figures compiled recently in the offices of C. S. Cory, registrar. The report reveals an increase in each of the four classes of students working for the Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science Degrees over the number registered in the previous school year.

Enrollment of four-year students increased from 1,968 to 2,062, which was a gain of 94 students.

Famous Artists On Program

Maria Jeritza, internationally known soprano, and Fritz Kreisler, internationally renowned violinist, have been engaged to appear on the Entertainment and Lecture Course program at Teachers College for the coming year.

H. C. Cummins, professor of commercial education and chairman of the committee, has announced that neither of the artists has appeared here previously.

Jeritza will appear at the College on Monday, October 24, and Kreisler will appear in recital on Friday, March 17.

Certification Bill Distributed

The draft of a new bill for the certification of teachers, prepared by the Certification Committee of the Educational Council of the Iowa State Teachers Association, of which I. H. Hart, director of the Extension Division at the Teachers College is chairman, is now being distributed as part of a campaign of information on the need of raising teaching standards.

The draft of this bill is the culmination of six years of research and study on the problems of teacher qualification and teaching standards. The bill will go before the Iowa General Assembly at its next regular meeting in January. This is a movement of interest to all persons connected with public education as well as to all other citizens of the state.

The bill calls for a recodification of all statutory provisions with reference to the certification of teachers. Under the new plan, the certification of teachers in Iowa will be based entirely on training rather than on examinations.

The Xanho Fraternity at Teachers College has rented the large rooming house at 2500 Walnut Street. The members moved to the new location in September. The Fraternity house was formerly the Leonard W. Parrish home.

Saturday Classes Grow

Thirty-four students have enrolled in Saturday classes for courses in Constructive English, Geography of South America, World Government and Politics, and Spanish. In addition, six students have enrolled in classes in French II and III.

New classes are to be organized in any course just as soon as a sufficient number of persons register. The Saturday classes are under the direction of the Extension Division. The work offers special opportunities for teachers living near Cedar Falls who may wish to continue their work toward advanced degrees or take up work in some special field.

The Saturday class work is only one of many lines of service rendered to teachers in Iowa by the Extension Division at the College. A report issued recently shows that 85,451 persons were served by the department last year, at an average cost of about thirty-six cents per person. Of these, 8,000 were teachers, 60,000 were pupils from rural grade and high schools, and others were parents of the students or patrons of the schools.

Correspondence courses were pursued by 352 students, who were distributed over 82 counties of Iowa.

Remodeling and Building Program

The remodeling and building program, which is now going forward at the College, includes eight major projects. New buildings now completed or under construction include the Heating Plant and the new Commons Building. The Heating Plant is now completed and it is expected to be in use by October 1. The Commons Building, now under construction, is expected to be completed by May 10, 1933.

Improvements and redecorations include the painting of outside woodwork of the Auditorium Building, Administration Building, Gilchrist Hall, and Central Hall, which is now completed; the remodeling and refurnishing of rooms and halls on three floors of Central Hall, the refinishing of the Auditorium, and installation of new seats and new stage scenery in the Training School Auditorium; the redecoration and installation of the new lighting fixtures in the Pre-School, the construction of new approaches to the north entrance of the Auditorium Building and the redecoration of 50 rooms in Bartlett Hall.

Last summer the exterior woodwork of the Training School and the Vocational Building was repainted, and next summer the same improvements are to be made on Bartlett Hall, the Women’s Gymnasium, and the Science Building.

Women Still Surpass Men

Seven women students and one man student scored straight A grades during the summer term, and the women students again excelled the men students in respect to grades, according to reports released by the offices of the Dean of Women and Dean of Men.

Olive Sinclair, Waterloo, led the seven girls who attained marks of A in their courses. She carried an extra five hours of work and earned A in all of twenty hours. Her mark was equalled, however, by the one man in the select class, Robert Ebel, Waterloo, who carried twenty hours and made that many hours of A.

The others who had perfect grades for fifteen hours are Harriet Damborg, Rolfe; Leta Feldkamp, Sibley; Alice Gienap, Stanhope; Hilda Miller, Rock Valley; Mrs. Gladys Sears, Nashua, and Dora Irene Thompson, Shell Rock. In addition, seventy-six women and sixteen men students earned an average of B or above while carrying the regulation fifteen hours of college work.

Freshmen Wear Purple And Green

Sophomores are being kept busy at the opening days of the term seeing to it that the first-year men appear regularly wearing their purple caps with narrow green visors. Blankets and paddles are said to be in readiness for all freshmen who fail to observe the traditional wearing of the green and purple.

The first-year women were required to wear green buttons bearing the letters “I. S. T. C.” during the first week of the term. The men are required to wear their caps at all times, except in buildings and on Sunday, until the Freshman-Sophomore contest on Dad’s Day. Then, if the sophomores win, they must wear them until the end of the fall term on November 23.

Critic Supervisor Resigns

Helen Waters, professor of teaching and for the past six years critic supervisor of kindergarten training at the College, resigned her position at the end of the summer term, and announced her engagement and approaching marriage to Lloyd F. Rader, of Brooklyn, New York.

Mr. Rader is a professor of engineering in the Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute.

The wedding took place at Miss Waters’s home at Lincoln, Nebraska, in September.

Miss Waters holds the B. A. Degree from the University of Nebraska, and the M. A. Degree from Columbia University. She was an instructor in the kindergarten and primary department at the University of Nebraska before joining the staff at Teachers College.

She is affiliated with Delta Delta Delta, national sorority, and is a member of the local chapter of the national Pan-Hellenic organization.

Following a wedding trip, the couple made their home in Brooklyn.

Student Council Activities

At the opening of the fall term an extensive program of activities was outlined by the Student Council. Wendell Bragonier, senior student, of Cedar Falls, who is president of the organization, and a member of Alpha Delta Alpha social fraternity, announced that the Council was to sponsor a reception for all students on the first week of the fall term, the regular Monday and Friday night dances, as well as the traditional Frosh night, Dad’s Day, Homecoming, Interclass Sports Day, the Tutor Ticklers vaudeville, and all of the regular student elections.

The purpose of the Council, as stated by Mr. Bragonier, is to maintain a well-balanced social life, and with the cooperation of the Associated Student Council, to help solve the student problems on the campus.

Delphians Win Intramurals

Four hundred women students at the College took part in the intramural sports program for women offered at the College last year. Hockey, offered in the fall, and baseball, played in the spring term, were the most popular of the team games, more than seventy girls taking part in each sport.

Basketball was played by the greatest number of teams. Volleyball and tennis each attracted about fifty contestants. Twenty girls took part in the intramural marathon swimming contest. Archery drew more than golf, which was the sport drawing the smallest number.

Last year saw a clean sweep of all contests by the Delphian Literary Society teams. The hockey, basketball, tennis, swimming, and sportsmanship trophies became permanent possessions of the society. The individual awards in archery, golf, and swimming went to members of independent teams.
Alumni and members of the instructional staff of the College who received degrees in the summer graduation exercises at the University of Iowa, Thursday, August 25, includes seven persons.

Harold G. Palmer, M'l A. '20, B. A. '24, instructor in manual arts; L. L. Mendenhall, head of the Department of Physical Education for Men, and Richard Wesselis, B. S. '27, received the Master of Arts Degree. Charles Denny, professor of education; Gladys E. Lynch, B. A. '24, daughter of S. A. Lynch, head of the English Department, and M. J. Wilcox, professor of education at the College, received the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy. Mr. Palmer was a graduate marshal in the Master of Arts section at the ceremonies.

New Instructors Assume Duties

Five instructors and professors joined the faculty of the College with the opening of the fall term.

Among those who assumed their new duties September 6 are Dr. Beatrice J. Geiger, new head of the Home Economics Department; John (Johnny) Baker, 1931 All-American guard from the University of Southern California, instructor in physical education for men and varsity line coach in football; Dr. Hanna Hafkesbrink, instructor in German; Dr. Hanna Hafkesbrink, instructor in history, and Mabel Hupprich, new member of the Department of Physical Education for Women.

Miss Geiger comes from Madison, Wisconsin, where she received the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy. She has taught in the Oak Park, Illinois, public schools, in the Colorado State Agricultural College at Fort Collins, and three years in the Oregon State Agricultural College at Corvallis. She served as acting head in the latter institution for a year and two summers.

Mr. Baker comes from the University of Southern California where he made football history during the past year. It was he who kicked the winning goal in the spectacular game between Southern California and Notre Dame at South Bend, Indiana, last fall. He is a graduate with the bachelor's degree, having majored in physical education. He is the new instructor in physical education for men, and this fall varsity line coach in football.

Dr. Hafkesbrink comes to the Teachers College with the highest recognition from the teaching profession in Germany. She was born in Koblenz where she received her elementary and secondary education. She studied in the University of Gottingen, and received the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy in 1930. She was recently selected by the Austauschdienst of Berlin, an organization for the international exchange of teachers, as the best teacher of the year in their list of candidates.

Dr. Sage received the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy from the University of Illinois last June. He has had experience as an instructor in Depauw University at Greencastle, Indiana, and as an assistant at the University of Illinois. He was appointed to his professorship at Teachers College to fill the vacancy caused by the death last spring of W. L. Wallace, professor of government for the past twelve years. Dr. Sage received the Bachelor of Arts Degree from Vanderbilt University at Nashville, Tennessee, in 1922, and the Master of Arts Degree from the University of Illinois in 1928. In addition to his college and university work, Dr. Sage has had four years of teaching experience in the public schools of Illinois.

Miss Hupprich, the new instructor in physical education for women, comes from the Amy Wright Seminary at Tacoma, Washington, where she has taught since 1930.

Miss Hupprich is a graduate of the Madison, Wisconsin, high school, and received the Bachelor's Degree in 1926, and the Master's Degree in 1930 from the University of Wisconsin, where she majored in physical education and minored in physical therapy and dancing. Prior to 1929, she taught at the DeKalb State Teachers College in Illinois.

Eleven Elected to Honor Fraternity

Eleven junior and senior men students at Teachers College were elected to membership in the Blue Key, national honorary leadership fraternity for men, at a meeting held this fall, according to Marshall Kathan, Osage, acting secretary of the organization.

The new members are Don Finlayson, Waterloo; Roger Prior, Cedar Falls; Wendell Dun, Kingsley; Robert Buckmaster, Dunkerton; Arthur Olsen, Cedar Falls; Eckels Hutchinson, Waterloo; Gale Fisher, Washington; Oscar Johnson, Northwood; Glenn Boysen, Dike; Dick Shane, Waterloo, and Donald Cook, Corwith.

The Blue Key organization placed a chapter in Iowa State Teachers College last year and has been active on the campus in promoting a feeling of cooperation and friendliness among the men students. As stated in the constitution, the purpose of the Blue Key Fraternity is to "study, discuss, and strive to further the best interests of the college, and to promote a spirit of fraternalism among all men students."
MEMORIES of long, long ago, will undoubtedly be revived for many State Teachers College alumni by the picture of the faculty of Iowa State Normal School in 1885, uncovered by the Editor in the basement of the Administration Building. The copper half-tone, somewhat of a "find," is now being carefully preserved in the files of the News Bureau.

In 1885 and 1886 the entire faculty of the Iowa State Normal School consisted of the eight men and women in the picture above. These eight people carried on instructional activities in the building shown, Gilchrist Chapel.

At the time this old picture was taken, Principal J. C. Gilchrist was serving his ninth year as head of the College. In 1886 Homer H. Seerley, now President-Emeritus, succeeded to the President's chair. When the school was first established, in 1876, Mr. Gilchrist was elected principal after being Superintendent of Schools at Mason City for a number of years. His salary was first set at $150 a month, but later changed to $1,600 a year.

Principal Gilchrist received his college education at Antioch College in Ohio under the tutelage of the great educator, Horace Mann. The first principal of Iowa Normal School was the head of seven schools before coming to Cedar Falls as the headmaster and professor of Didactics. He died at Laurens, Iowa, August 12, 1897.

One of the most powerful figures in bringing the educational standards of Iowa Normal School to what they are today was Moses W. Bartlett, professor of English Language and Literature. He was a graduate of Dartmouth, and after spending ten years as a Latin teacher and one year as president of Western College, he came to Cedar Falls. Mr. Bartlett was a member of the faculty for twenty-eight years. It was in his honor that the dormitory for women at the College was named Bartlett Hall. He died some years ago at the home of his daughter in Waterloo.

The first important change in the faculty was the resignation of Miss Frances Webster, instructor in Latin, in 1878. Miss Laura Ensign, principal of Cedar Falls High School, was chosen as her successor. She remained a member of the teaching staff for thirteen years, and then went to Minneapolis to teach in a girl's school.

Another woman member of the early faculty was Miss Anna McGovern. While still a senior in the institution, she taught elementary classes in methods, and upon her graduation became a member of the faculty. She has a long record of forty years' service at the College. She is now living at Los Angeles, California.

In 1878 a Department of Drawing and Accounts was added, as the result of an appropriation by the State Legislature. W. N. Hull, head of Hull’s Academy of Youngstown, Ohio, was selected to take over the work of the new department. Mr. Hull was famous for his beautiful handwriting and ability to teach his students to write legibly. He was also the author of numerous books on a variety of school topics. He was for some time connected with the state agricultural college at Corvallis, Oregon. He died several years ago in California.

David Sands Wright was elected professor of Mathematics in 1876 and served in that capacity for the next 35 years. In 1915 courses in Bible and Religious Education were opened for full handwriting and ability to teach his students to speak. Dr. F. W. Lambertson, associate professor of public speaking, and ten members of his speech classes are sponsoring the movement.

"Of course, after-dinner speaking is nothing new; in fact, it has been called 'The Great American Pastime.' Yet contests involving toasts have only recently come to the fore," says Dr. Lambertson. The Oregon Forensic Association began an intercollegiate contest of this sort some two years ago and offered a twenty-five dollar prize for the winner. A similar contest will be held at the banquet of the Iowa Forensic Association meet this year.

The general theme for the intramural contest at the Teachers College will be 'The College Bred (Bread).'' The sub-topics are as follows: "Furnishing the Dough," "Fleischmann’s Yeast," "Baked—or Half-Baked," "The Four-Year Loafer," "Mould in the Loaf," and "The Staff of Life." The speeches are five minutes in length.

Judges are to rate the students on the basis of the following factors: audience adaptation, originality, interestingness, literary skill, use of satire and railly, use of humor, significance of contest, effectiveness of delivery.

Professor Lambertson’s new book, Projects in After-Dinner Speaking, which appeared this spring, gives suggestions for planning toast programs, for constructing the individual toast, for the effective use of humor, and for delivery. The book also gives sample toasts by students of Wisconsin University, Cornell University, Oregon State College, and Iowa State Teachers College.

Since students are so often called on to give toasts in after life, or to help in the planning of Junior-Senior banquets in the public schools, the intramural contest in after-dinner speaking at Teachers College should create a great deal of interest.

An article written by Dr. R. W. Harbeson, instructor in social science, at the College, appears in the August issue of the "Quarterly Journal of Economics," published by the Harvard University. The article is entitled, "The North Atlantic Port Differentials." It deals with a problem in railway rate adjustment, and represents some of the results of a year’s research carried on in the East during 1930 and 1931.

New Members Of Teaching Department

New members of the Department of Teaching at the College are Margaret Detlie, who succeeds Miss Helen Waters, assistant professor of teaching, who resigned to become Mrs. Lloyd Rader; Miss Elizabeth Nelson, who succeeds Miss Joanna Kyle, assistant professor of teaching, who died recently; Miss Mary Robards, who succeeded Miss Mary Leona Sutherland, assistant professor of teaching, who was killed in an automobile accident recently; Miss Irene White, instructor in teaching at West Waterloo training center; Miss Lucille Beutel, Miss Elvera Hjersted, and Miss Ethel Packer, instructors in teaching in East Waterloo; Miss Mildred Miller, instructor in teaching at Hudson, and Miss Edna Flamme, instructor in Cedar City school.

Dad’s Day is this year scheduled for Saturday, November 12, when the dads will be guests at a big program of events including the game with Michigan Normal College.

Debate With Dublin Scheduled
Ten debaters at the College were competing during the last week of September for the privilege of representing Teachers College in an international debate with a team from Dublin, Ireland, which was expected to be on the campus about November 10. W. A. Brindley, associate professor of public speaking and coach of debate, is in charge of the tryouts and will have charge of plans for the debate.

The subject for argument will be, "Resolved: That Capitalism Has Broken Down."

The number of requests for loans were so numerous that no accurate estimate can be made of them. Several times as many were refused as were granted.

* Overdraft.

Iver Christoffersen, B. A. '23, invited Dr. Homer H. Seerley to talk before the Rotary Club at Waterloo, Iowa, on August 20, 1932.

Mr. Christoffersen is an attorney at Waterloo.

Dr. Cliff W. Stone, professor of education at Pullman, Washington, called at the College while touring with his wife and family August 23, 1932, on the way to his home at Pullman. Mr. Stone taught at the University of Wisconsin during the past summer.

Professor and Mrs. S. F. Hersey entertained all of their children and four grandsons at a family reunion, August 20th, at their home in Cedar Falls, Iowa. Mr. Hersey is professor of Physics at Teachers College. Samuel F. Hersey, J. C. '15, and family came from Chicago; Miss Frances M. Hersey, M. A. '29, Columbia University, now Educational Director of the Denver Visiting Nurses Association, came from Denver, Colorado; Dr. Nelson L. Hersey, B. A. '20, and family from Ann Arbor, Michigan, and Lewis G. Hersey, B. A. '27, and family from Oelwein, Iowa. This is the first opportunity in seven years when the entire family could get together.

Maud E. Lane, B. Di. '00, M. Di. '07, is a special teacher this year of foreign children in Santa Barbara, California.

Miss Lane was recently chosen historian in La Cumbre Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. The Chapter assisted in the reception given at the Old Mission at the opening of the "Fiesta," the annual Spanish celebration in Santa Barbara.

O. G. Schmidt, B. A. '27, is this year located at St. Paul, Alaska.
Gridders Set For Nine Game Schedule

Teachers College gridders downed their first two opponents of the season with the scores of 7 to 0 and 14 to 0. The Panthers defeated the team from Columbia College at Dubuque, September 24, by a score of 7 to 0, and on October 1 they defeated the Quakers of Penn College in the first home game of the season with a score of 14 to 0.

The first victory was won in a somewhat ragged game with a showing of the team not too satisfactory to the coaches. Much improvement was apparent in the second game. Seven games remain to be played, four of them in Cedar Falls.

Fourteen experienced gridders and a number of reserves and promising sophomores reported to Coach "Munn" Whitford and his assistants September 3 for the initial practice of the season in preparation for a difficult nine game schedule without the break of an open date.

With John Baker, former University of Southern California star, coaching the line candidates, and Dave McCuskey working for the third season with the backs, Coach Whitford had but three weeks to condition the squad and develop a workable offense and defense before the opening game with Columbia at Dubuque on September 24.

Line Shows Up Well

A heavy line and four "pony" backs opened the first Panther game with a type of offense that contrasted greatly with the power plays used in the first few games of the 1931 season. Passing and deception marked the State Teachers offense with Kenneth Kimberlin, Marshalltown; Max Boller, Nevada, and Art Olsen, Cedar Falls, doing most of the ball carrying. Gale Fisher, Washington power house, has stepped into the shoes vacated by the graduation of Bob Burley, Harris, and is expected to be a big factor in opening holes for the ball carriers with his accurate blocking. Kimberlin and Boller, who last year gave the opposing tacklers plenty of trouble with their elusive hips, are back with their old characteristics.

Olsen Consistent Player

As a fullback, Olsen does more than add a necessary yard or two. Every once in while he breaks away for ten or fifteen yard gains to place the Panthers in an advantageous position. In the line, Coach Baker has had letter-men for every position except center, where a gap was left by the loss of Burt Berry, Wellman, who won the coveted Berg Trophy last fall. However, Don Cole, underslung Ames guard with two years experience, has been shifted to the center post, adding weight and power to the center of the line.

Donald "Butch" Gooden, Bedford, is playing his third season at a guard position, and Harlan Rigby, Mechanicsville, and Raburn Miller, Zeving veteran, are battling for the other guard position. Alvin Stieger, Waverly; Merlin Westwick, Williams, and Clair Kraft, Oelwein giant, are all veterans and tackles. The last two named tip the beam at over two hundred pounds while Stieger has an advantage of speed over them to make up for a handicap of twenty-five pounds.

Morningside At Homecoming

At left end, Coach Whitford has one of the best wingmen in the state in Roger Willert, Reinbeck. He weighs in at 196 and is fast and smart. As a pass receiver he is unexcelled. The other flank is the scene of a three-way battle between the veteran Martin Luther, Colfax, and two sophomores, Lee Stribley, Correctionville, and Marion Odekirk, Waterloo.

The Panther team played its second game with Penn at Cedar Falls October 1. The next week is the Boy Scouts day celebration with Cornell furnishing the opposition. On October 22 Morningside comes to Cedar Falls for the first time since 1919 to renew an old feud on Homecoming. The Dad's Day game will be with Michigan Normal on November 12.

Admission Prices Reduced

Admission charges to the football games at the College were greatly reduced this year by the Athletic Board of Control.

The prices for the first two home games of the season were announced as forty cents for adults and twenty cents for children under fifteen. The price for high school students is twenty-five cents. It is possible that the prices will be increased somewhat for the other home games, after it has been definitely learned whether or not the college is obligated to collect the new federal tax on all general admissions of forty-one cents or more.

The admission price for all home football games was formerly $1.00.

This year, with the inauguration of The College Fee, all students are admitted to all athletic contests upon the presentation of their identification cards without further charge.

The Athletic Board, which governs all athletic policies and fixes the prices for the games, includes H. Earl Rath, professor of natural science, chairman; Benjamin Boardman, financial secretary, treasurer; L. L. Mendenhall, director of athletics and ex officio secretary of the board; S. A. Lynch, head of the English department; Dr. W. H. Kadesch, professor of physics; Dr. E. C. Denny, professor of education, and Homer Haddox, assistant professor of romance languages.

"Athletics For All" Program

The policy "athletics for all," inaugurated sometime ago at the College by the Men's Physical Education Department, was again carried out last year. The intramural sports program brought into active competition in athletic events 528 men. These men took part in the 11 branches of athletics which composed the official intramural program. Of these sports, soft ball attracted the largest number of competitors, 102; basketball came second in popularity with 81 participants, and volleyball, third, with 64. The other branches were wrestling, swimming, free throwing, game of "21," handball, track, tennis, and golf.

Athletic Director Honored

L. L. Mendenhall, acting head of the Department of Physical Education for Men at the College, was initiated into membership of Epsilon Chapter of Phi Delta Kappa at the University of Iowa recently.

During the past academic year, Mr. Mendenhall was pursuing graduate study at the University in the College of Education. He returned to the Campus this summer to resume his duties as acting head of the Department.

Athlete Tells of Old Days

Among the many congratulations received by President-Emeritus Homer H. Seerley on his eighty-fourth birthday, August 13, was a letter from G. V. Orr, B. Di. '08, M. Di. '10, who is now connected with the Willys-Overland Pacific Company, of Los Angeles, California.

Mr. Orr, in a letter to Dr. Seerley, called to mind many happy memories of his college life and his experiences as quarterback on the Teachers College football team in the days when Red Hamilton, now an outstanding physician, was the star athlete at the College.

In telling of his experiences, Mr. Orr recounted the following: "The experience that I recall most vividly with 'Red,' however, was a track meet at Cedar Rapids where we had been fortunate enough, through my winning the broad jump, to get within one point of Coe, having far outdistanced Cornell in the Triangular Meet. There was only one event yet to be run, the half-mile relay. 'Red,' naturally, was our anchor man and was pitted against a colored chap, Martin of Coe, who also was plenty speedy. When three laps had been run and it was 'Red's' turn to finish, Martin was away to about a 15 yard lead. 'Red' started gradually closing the distance and came to the tape with about a yard to spare. Naturally, the Teachers College team was jubilant. Going home on the train that night, everyone was congratulating the spectacular winner. The nearest we ever got him to express any enthusiasm was accompanied by this remark, 'By golly, I was running nearly as fast as I could part of the time.'"

Tennis Tournament Started

The first annual tournament for the handsome loving cup donated by Coach H. C. Haddox is under way this fall with a strong field of entries competing. The tournament is open to any man student in the college regardless of classification or experience on the varsity tennis team.

According to Mr. Haddox the cup must be won three times by one man before it becomes his permanent possession. No man may enter the meet more than four times. Among the outstanding stars who are favored to win the first running of the tourney are Joe Weisman, Waterloo; Glenn Boysen, Dike; Orville Moore, New Hampton; Max Hughes and Dick Rockert, both of Waterloo; Don Klotz, Winthrop, and Keith Page, Waterloo.
Century Of Progress Reunion

Alumni of the Chicago Metropolitan Area can be depended upon to do everything in their power to carry through the plans which they have made for a country-wide reunion at the time of the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago.

To make such an outstanding event in the history of Teachers College a success it now remains for alumni throughout the country to express their interest in such a get-together, and to cooperate in every way possible with the Chicago unit of the alumni association which is planning the event.

On page 3 of this issue of the ALUMNUS is an article describing a recent picnic of the Chicago area group and explaining a recent visit to the campus of the Chicago secretary, Mrs. Sward, with the purpose of discussing plans for this great reunion. What every interested alum-nus can do as a first move is to write to Mrs. Cecil W. Sward, 10349 South Hoyne Avenue, Chicago, Illinois, suggesting their preference for a date for the annual get-together or perhaps merely indicating their desire to attend such a reunion.

Cover Picture

All of the 1,600 students and the 200 faculty members, as well as the 100 or so local alumni who will be looking forward to your visit to the campus on Homecoming Day, October 22, could not be shown in the picture on the cover of this issue. You may be sure, however, that they are all eagerly waiting a chance to make acquaintance with you or to renew old friendships.

The group picture of students shown on the cover of this issue was taken from a larger photograph of the entire student body. A two-page reproduction of the entire photograph appears in the center section of the 1933 Old Gold. A part holiday was declared last year for the purpose of taking photographs of the entire local personnel of Iowa State Teachers College. Student, faculty members, and employees may be found in the picture. The photograph was taken from the top of the Men's Gymnasium.

Fifty Years

To have served as a guide to young minds in the childhood journey of spiritual and mental unfoldment over a period of fifty years would in itself be something to call for admiration. However, to have maintained during that time a calm and poised outlook upon the ever tumultuous sea of social change and its effect upon children and to be able to see, withal, the essential likeness of one generation of youngsters to the other is an accomplishment which all sincere teachers should covet.

Miss Louise Barrett, B. Di. '81, M. Di. '01, can be proud of this high distinction. She recently announced her retirement after fifty years of active teaching work and has served since 1904 as principal of the Whittier School at Brainerd, Minnesota. Miss Barrett, in commenting upon her years of teaching work, reveals her conviction that "this younger generation" is not the problem that many think it to be. She feels that the boys and girls of fifty years ago are little different than those of today.

A glowing tribute to her years of service written by the editor of the Brainerd paper reveals the admiration and respect which citizens of that city held for this teacher.

"Good Form" Booklet Issued

The very few alumni who like this writer, may have moments of chagrin and great indecision when brought suddenly face to face at the dinner table with a motley array of knives, forks, spoons, and horrid and vicious looking utensils too numerous to mention, may be interested in the publication of a new booklet entitled "Good Form at Teachers College." This book, published as a project of the Inter-sorority Council, is perhaps the first of its kind to be issued by any college in the country.

Some two hundred girls participated in the discussion of problems of campus etiquette, and the smaller committee working in cooperation with the editor, Anne Schoenbohm, Denver, Iowa, carried out the actual preparation of the copy for the booklet.

The publication is a serious attempt to crystallize the answers to problems of "good form" as they appear in social relationships, especially at the College.
Alumni News

Bert B. Welty, B. Di. ’86, Iowa State Teachers College; LL. B. ’98, University of Iowa, called at the College on July 26, 1932. He is a lawyer at Nevada, Iowa.

Mrs. Welty will be remembered as (Alice Shoemaker), B. Di. ’96. Mr. Welty is a brother of Ira Welty, M. Di. ’86, who operates a farm at Nevada, Iowa, and Harvey Welty, B. Di. ’91, a farmer at Spirit Lake, Iowa.

Laura A. Benedict, teacher of English at the College from 1919 to 1921, was paid high tribute by President L. A. Pittenger of Ball State Teachers College, Muncie, Indiana, following the announcement of her retirement from the Indiana school.

Miss Benedict has taught for nine years at the Ball State Teachers College and with her retirement ends a forty-year period of teaching work. She taught in two other State Teachers Colleges including Iowa Teachers and the State Teachers College at Pittsburg, Kansas. She was Head of the English Department at the Burlington, Iowa, high school for nine years, and Head of the English Department of the Plymouth, Indiana, high school for two years. For seven years she taught in Indianapolis schools, as a departmental teacher in the grades, principal of ward buildings for two years, and in the Manual Training High School.

Robert Burley, B. S. '32, is coach at Wellman, Iowa, for the coming year.

While a student at Teachers College, Mr. Burley played varsity football for three years, was president of the Student Council during his senior year, was a member of the Associated Student Council, which he represented at the National Convention at Toledo last December, and was an active member of Xanho Fraternity.

The Old Gold staff selected him as one of the "Well-Known Tutors" for the year 1931-32.

Norma Gillett, B. A. '31, received word recently that her poem, "Cobblestones," had been accepted by the publishers of the British Woman's Journal, who are purchasing the English rights to the verse. The poem was originally printed in the Purple Pen, student literary magazine at Teachers College.

Miss Gillett holds a graduate teaching fellowship at Iowa University where she plans to receive the Master of Arts Degree in June. She transferred to the Teachers College from the Northern State Teachers College at Marquette, Michigan, where she was graduated from a two-year course.

Mary B. Ormsby, Kg. '18, a teacher in the Eastman Street School of Los Angeles, California, and Miss Helen Zilk, Kg. '10, of the South Santa Anita School District, were complimented for their success with the activity method by Robert Hill Lane, assistant superintendent of schools at Los Angeles, California, in his article "A Possible Next Step in the Activity Program," appearing in the January, 1932, issue of the magazine of Childhood Education.

Miss Ormsby is praised for her success in carrying through activity programs which led the children to build a stage and scenery for the presentation of stories.

Miss Zilk was praised for "the variety and richness of experience which this fine teacher provided for pupils." The superintendent expresses pleasure "that the teacher participated fully in them likewise. So many teachers miss the point that an experience is something lived, something enjoyed, something shared.'"

Peter Luteyn, Nederlandsche, Staats Normaal, 1900; M. S. University of Iowa, '16, visited at Teachers College on Saturday, June 18.

Professor Luteyn was a member of the staff of the Department of Mathematics at the College during 1916-20. At present he is on the faculty of Marquette College, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, as professor of engineering mathematics.

An article in the University of Iowa News Bulletin reads as follows:

"An important part of Mr. Robinson's work is the discovery and listing of the maximum number of positions that can be filled by students. He makes a careful analysis of each job and of the ability and training of each student applicant. This gains the confidence of employers and it results in tremendous benefit to students.

"Dr. Robinson has had wide experience in his field. Since receiving his Ph. D. Degree at the University of Iowa in 1921, he has done personnel work for Carnegie Institute of Technology, the University of Pittsburgh, Thomas A. Edison, Inc., The White Motor Company, and Armour and Company."

Fred D. Cram, M. Di. '08, B. A. '09, extension professor of education at Teachers College, is the author of "A Course of Study in the Use of The Dictionary, The Encyclopedia, Indexes, Tables of Contents, Maps, Charts, Diagrams, Graphs, Tables, and Vocabulary Building," which was issued recently by the Wallace Publishing Company of Des Moines, Iowa.

The Course of Study was prepared by Mr. Cram on the request of Miss Agnes Samuelson, state superintendent of public instruction in Iowa, and is based upon material gathered by the author after many years of experience in the problems of elementary instruction. It follows an outline originally worked out with the teachers of the Muscatine school system for use with their pupils and has been thoroughly tested by actual classroom use. It is designed to be used in the elementary schools in Iowa in connection with and as supplement to the Iowa state course of study in language and reading. It is expected to fill a distinct gap in the array of helps to teachers and pupils.

"The necessity for the frequent use of dictionaries, encyclopedias, indexes, tables of contents, and other reference material similar in organization, the obvious difficulties which pupils have in using these aids to learning in an efficient and satisfactory manner, and the almost total lack of helps to teachers and pupils in meeting these needs, should make this course of study a very real contribution to the literature of elementary education," declares Irving H. Hart, director of the Extension Division at Teachers College, who has written the Introduction to the Course of Study.

Miss Stoddard is employed as fourth grade supervisor in the Training School at Nebraska State Teachers College at Wayne, Nebraska. She has taught there three years. She says that she is the only Teachers College graduate at the Nebraska College. She also said that up to the 1932 fall term they had not had a decrease in enrollment nor in salary. There are approximately 650 students in attendance at the college.

Mrs. A. F. Bellman (Clara Kyler), Pri. '98, and her husband of El Segundo, California, visited at the home of her mother, Mrs. W. E. Kyler, in July on the way to their former home in Aberdeen, Washington.

Mrs. Gerald Craig (Helen Baldock), B. A. '26, of Pinal Ranch, Miami, Arizona, writes that she and her husband are located in the mountains about 18 miles west of Globe on a national highway, and they would enjoy being "at home" to any Teachers College people who may pass through on their way to Phoenix or the Coast.

Mrs. Craig has been in charge of dramatics and public speaking for the past four years in Globe High School.

Gladys E. Lynch, B. A. '24, Iowa State Teachers College; M. A. '29, University of Iowa, received the Ph. D. Degree at the summer convocation of the University of Iowa on August 25, 1932.

Miss Lynch's research work was in the field of Interpretative Reading. She is a member of Theta Alpha Phi and of Kappa Delta Pi. She is the daughter of S. A. Lynch, head of the English Department at Teachers College.

Mrs. M. L. Fuller (Nancy Golden), P. C. '97, landscape architect of Peoria, Illinois, Main Street and Institute Place, gave a series of lectures on Gardens at Claremont, California, during February, according to a letter written to President-Emeritus Homer H. Seerley by Mr. Abbott Page, of Claremont. Mr. Page also writes that Bess Streeter Aldrich, B. Di. '01, is in Hollywood.

Says Mr. Page, "Nancy Golden remembers her (Bess Streeter Aldrich) reading a short story in her literary society at Normal, written by herself."

J. L. St. John, B. A. '15, Iowa State Teachers College; M. S. '18, Purdue University; Ph. D. '27, University of Minnesota, state chemist and head of the Division of Chemistry at the State College of Washington, Pullman, Washington, is the author of numerous outstanding articles in the field of agricultural and chemical research.

Among the recent publications which have been received and are now on file in the chemical library at Teachers College are the following: Hydrochloric Acid for Headache, reprint from Northwest Medicine, Seattle, Vol. XXXI, No. 3, Page 140, March, 1932; The Temperature at which Unbound Water is Completely Frozen in a Biocolloid, reprint from the Journal of the American Chemical Society, 53, 4014, (1931); The Determination of Uric Acid in the Study of Avian Nutrition, reprinted from The Journal of Biological Chemistry, Vol. XCI. No. 1, June, 1931; A Method of Determining the Biological Value of Protein in the Study of Avian Nutrition, reprint from The Journal of Nutrition, May, 1932, Vol. V, No. 3; The Fermentation Period of Northwest and Pacific Northwest Flours as Indicated by Carbon Dioxide Production and Dough Expansion, reprinted from Cereal Chemistry, Vol. VIII, No. 3, Pages 207 to 216; Protein Requirements of Chickens, reprint from Poultry Science, Vol. XI, No. 1, January, 1932; and a Study of Whipping and Coagulation of Eggs of Varying Quality.

A picture of President-Emeritus Homer H. Seerley appears on the cover of the September issue of the Midland Schools, official publication of the Iowa State Teachers Association.

In line with a recently established policy of acquainting the people of Iowa with the educational background of the state, the editors of the publication plan to carry on the covers of the various issues during the year portraits of eminent educators who have contributed most to the cause of education in Iowa. Accompanying articles are to be carried on the life and activities of each educator. Such an article concerning Dr. Seerley appears in the September publication.

The editor of the Alumnus has received a number of interesting photographs of older days sent by Edith Neely McConnell, B. Di. '93, M. Di. '94, 415 South Mayo Avenue, Compton, California, whose husband died recently. The pictures include four cabinet size photographs of Mr. McConnell's Teachers College chums of the years of 1891-'92-'93. Also included in the collection is a group picture probably taken in 1892 and representing the roomers of the Aldrich House. Harry Aldrich appears in the rear of the photograph, with Carl Treimer in an inset, and a Mr. Miller. The names of others in the picture have not as yet been ascertained.

The names of two members of the instructional staff at Teachers College appeared in the news of twenty-five years ago carried in a column of "How Times Flies," in the Cedar Falls Daily Record. Says a news item of 1907, Miss Amy Arey (B. Di. '95, M. Di. '96, professor of education at Teachers College), left this morning for a few days' visit with friends at Tipton. She was accompanied by her friend, Miss Mae Kinney, of Cleveland, Ohio, who is spending a few days at the Arey home." Says another item, "Dr. Frank I. Merchant, head of the Department of Latin, Greek, and German, successor to Professor F. C. Eastman in the Latin Department at the Normal, arrived here today from Jamaica Plains, Massachusetts, and is ready to take up his work at the opening of the fall term, September 3."

Mrs. C. J. Scheeler (Matilda Palmer), N. C. '78, was a guest of honor in attendance at the golden anniversary of the graduation of the "Cyclone" Class of Grinnell High School, at Grinnell, Iowa. Fourteen members of the class of '21, graduated from the school in 1882, in the year of the Grinnell Cyclone. Ten members of the class were in attendance at the Fiftieth Anniversary of the celebration.

Mrs. Scheeler was honored guest at many social events, including a luncheon, July 23, at Mira Mar Hotel, Santa Monica; a picnic, July 24, at Garfield Park, Pasadena; a breakfast, July 25, at Griffith Park, Hollywood; two special luncheons, and an evening party. She was a spectator at the Olympics in connection with the class reunion.

Reverend W. C. Conradi, B. A. '26, of the Trinity Lutheran Church of Canon City, Colorado, is the author of a sermon published in "The Church Messenger," a publication issued each Friday in the interest of the churches and the church activities of the Canon City district. In his sermon, entitled "The Church and Tomorrow," Reverend Conradi declares, "Just as the Church of Jesus' day failed to realize its opportunities so also has the Church of later years, and even today sometimes seems to be blinded by a transient present and fails to see the proper perspective of tomorrow." Reverend Conradi declared that the churches at the time of the World War often failed to fulfil their opportunities for giving comfort and strength and faith to mothers, fathers, sisters, wives, and sweethearts, and instead in many cases actually delivered sermons of hatred and revenge. As for the present, "today many ministers are actually driving intelligent young men and women out of the church by their unsympathetic attitude to the learning of today, not only by their condemnation of anything scientific but also by their flagrant misunderstanding of what the Bible actually teaches."

Reverend Conradi also points out that "too frequently the church, for selfish as well as unselfish reasons, has been eager to enter the political arena." "Love, not force, is the weapon of the church," declares Dr. Conradi.

The sermon also points out that the church cannot look forward to tomorrow by constantly looking backward to the ritualism and credulism of yesterday."

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Howard, of Albion, Idaho, visited Mr. Howard's brother, Sam and family, of Cedar Falls, Iowa, during September, after an absence of nineteen years.

DEATHS

Dr. Michael J. Kenneth, N. C. '22, Iowa State Teachers College; M. D. '22, Rush Medical College, of Algona, Iowa, died at his home on August 6, 1932. He was 71 years of age. He was president of the Iowa Medical Association.

William Elery Kyler, B. Di. '96, M. Di. '97, died at his home in Corvallis, Oregon, on June 19, 1932. He was associated with the real estate and insurance business.

B. C. McConnell, B. Di. '93, died July 6, 1932, at his home in Compton, California, following an illness of two years. While living in Iowa, Mr. McConnell was active in church and farm bureau work. He is survived by his wife, formerly (Edith A. Neely), B. Di. '93, M. Di. '94, and a son now located in Los Angeles, where he is an engineer in the employ of the Standard Oil Company.

Sarah J. Dickey, wife of G. W. Dickey, died at National City, California, on June 23, 1932. She was the mother of Edward P. Dickey, B. Di. '01, of Harvey, Illinois; Mrs. W. J. Newham (Frances M. Dickey), B. Di. '01, of Seattle, Washington, and Nelle Dickey Klein, M. Di. '11, B. A. '12, Orange, California.

Mrs. Dickey fell from a chair September 13, 1930, and has been in bed ever since.

Cecelia Vogelsang, B. A. '31, died July 23, 1932, at Pine Lake, Iowa. She was drowned while swimming in Pine Lake.
Miss Vogelsang was prominent in music at Teachers College. She received her piano and organ diplomas under Professors George Samson and Rose Lena Ruegnitz. She was also accompanist for glee club and voice recitals, and organist at the college movies and Sunday church services.

She taught music during the past year at Bacone College in Oklahoma, an Indian government school. The President of the school states that she had built up the largest piano class in the history of the college and that she was initiating ensemble, voice, and instrumental groups among the Indian students who were responding enthusiastically to her influence.

Mrs. Roscoe Volland (Mable Montgomery), B. Di. ’99, Iowa State Teachers College; B. A. ’06, State University of Iowa, died on Monday, August 8, at the Neurological Hospital in New York City, following an operation which she had submitted to on the previous Monday. Funeral services were conducted in Iowa City.

Mrs. Volland became ill enroute to Europe, and when she reached Berlin decided to return home. She was met in New York by Dr. Volland and taken directly to the Neurological Hospital.

It was during her attendance at the College that Mrs. Volland met the man who was to become her husband, and they were married on June 23, 1903.

Dr. Roscoe Volland, B. Di. ’88, M. Di. ’99, Iowa State Teachers College; D. D. S. ’02, M. D. ’05, State University of Iowa, was for many years Dean of the Dental College at the State University. Later, he was special instructor in the Dental School at Northwestern for several years before resigning to engage in the active practice of dentistry at Iowa City.

From 1908 to 1911, Mrs. Volland was Acting Dean of Women at the University where she also served as a faculty member in the Department of English. For many years she was active in the work of the Republican Party, and was a delegate-at-large to the national convention of the party in Chicago this year.

Other offices in which Mrs. Volland had served include membership on the State Board of Conservation, and treasurer of the Iowa Federation of Women’s Clubs.

Mrs. Volland is survived by her husband and two sisters.

Mrs. Lusetta Roadman, of Cedar Falls, died the latter part of July, 1932. Her five children have all attended Teachers College.

Members of the Roadman family who completed courses at the College are Dr. Earl A. Roadman, B. Di. ’04, Iowa State Teachers College; Ph. B. ’09, D. D. ’20, Upper Iowa University; S. T. B. ’15, Boston University, who is President of Dakota Wesleyan University, at Mitchell, South Dakota, and was formerly pastor of Grace Methodist Church in Waterloo, and other important parishes; his wife, Mrs. Roadman (Erma Keene), B. Di. ’06; O. W. Roadman, M. Di. ’04, a salesman at Los Angeles, California, and Mrs. Carl E. Hollemback (Velma Roadman), M. Di. ’02, of Spokane, Washington.

Miss Lillian Roadman, who had made a home for her mother in Cedar Falls, and Murray Roadman, of De Sota, Iowa, were formerly students at the College.

Final rites for Mrs. Louisa Jennings Rich, N. C. ’79, B. Di. ’88, were held at Cedar Falls, Iowa, on April 24, 1932. Burial was held at Janesville, Iowa.

Mrs. Rich was the widow of Arthur W. Rich, one time registrar of the Teachers College, and for several years teacher of mathematics in this institution.

For many years Mrs. Rich was prominent in educational activities of the state until ill health compelled her to discontinue the work of her chosen profession.

"Mrs. Rich had no superior as a teacher," declares Mrs. Elmer E. Bartlett (Lily Freeland), B. Di. ’98, at one time a student under Mrs. Rich.

"She had an intense human understanding of humanity, the rare faculty of directing youth to seek the worth-while things in life, and to live them faithfully in every particular. She found hearts as well as heads to educate. She will be remembered by former students and teachers as Iowa’s beloved teacher, one who did not glory in the role of a grand teacher, for she was too genuine for that, but as one whose work and influence stand out as a work of splendor to the student body.

"Mrs. Rich was a woman of charming personality, gracious and lovely, the soul of hospitality. Her greatest happiness was in doing for others, until the Master said, ‘Come up higher.’

"Some one has said, ‘A Christian is Christ’s gentleman.’ If this be true, Mrs. Rich was a Christian, Christ’s gentlewoman, as shown by her beautiful life and character.’"

The following extract of a letter from Alice Foster, B. Di. ’93, of 5721 Kenwood Avenue, Chicago, Illinois, one of Mrs. Rich’s former students, is a tribute to this beloved teacher and friend.

"One of earth’s brave souls has reached the end of the long trail and has passed, unbeaten, through the gates of death. Though her physical form no longer goes in and out among us, her influence lives on in the lives of those whose paths for a space of time made contact with her. She was gifted to an unusual degree with sympathy and human understanding, and these qualities endeared her to the students who had the privilege of working under her direction. Scattered throughout the length and breadth of the land, her former students cherish the memory and ideals of a beloved teacher. Life dealt her many a cutting blow, but her dauntless spirit refused to yield. Twenty years of blindness did not extinguish the inner light; through other years of bitter disappointment and hardship she would not forego the joy of service; and during the last sad years of loneliness and waning strength she thought of others’ sorrows rather than her own. We who have loved salute her. She fought a noble fight, she conquered the years with her courage, she kept her faith in God and humanity.

Mabel Aldah Cole, H. E. ’18, B. A. ’23, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Cole, died at the home of her parents in Diagonal, Iowa, on April 3, 1932.

Miss Cole had been suffering with arthritis for the past eight years. She had taught in the schools of Iowa for 16 years, ten years of this time being spent in Ringgold County, three years at Ackley, two years at Bristow, and one year at Fisk. She was born and lived on a farm near Mt. Ayr, Iowa, and received her high school training at Mt. Ayr. She was graduated from the Teachers College and specialized in home economics. She distinguished herself as a teacher and was prominent in church work.

A letter from a close acquaintance in Diagonal reveals an inspiring story of a teacher whose cheerfulness, patience, and courage refused to be daunted by suffering and illness. She continued teaching for two years after she was stricken with arthritis, and even after giving up her teaching work continued to apply herself, developing a reputation as an expert at quilting.

She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Angie Cole, of Diagonal, and a brother, Alonzo Ray, of Sterling, Colorado.

Margaret L. Berry, B. Di. ’08, of 2001 Jones Street, Sioux City, Iowa, died April 28, 1932.

Miss Berry was born near West Point, Iowa. She was educated in the public schools of the state and later studied at Iowa Wesleyan College at Mount Pleasant and at the Iowa State Normal School. She taught for a number of years both in Iowa and in Nebraska. Her last position was that of a teacher in Sioux City.

She is survived by her sister, May Berry, of Sioux City, and a brother, Charles E. Berry, of Casey, Iowa, and a large number of relatives and friends.

William E. Kyler, B. Di. ’96, M. Di. ’97, deputy assessor and secretary-manager of a wholesale dairy association at Corvallis, Oregon, died Sunday, June 19. His death came as a sudden shock to a very wide circle of friends in Corvallis. The distinguished career and the reputation which he had established for himself in this community is revealed by the tributes paid in an editorial in the Corvallis Gazette Times.

Mr. Kyler was born in the summer of 1872 near Cedar Falls, Iowa, and was married June 18, 1902, at Lu Verne, Iowa, to Nella Irene Niver, special primary student at Teachers College. The only child of the couple, Dorothy Irene, was killed in an automobile accident in 1925 at the age of 18 years.

Mr. Kyler was graduated from the Iowa State Teachers College in 1897 and taught in a country school for one year. He was principal at Plainfield, Iowa, for one year, and at Lu Verne for three years. After the family moved to Corvallis, he became a member of the School Board and occupied that position for six years. He was cashier of the Lu Verne State Bank for twelve years, and of the Benton County State Bank at Corvallis for seven years. He was connected with a real estate, loan, and insurance company of Corvallis for eight years, and was carrying on his work as deputy assessor and manager of a dairy association up to the time of his death.

He was a member of the City Council of Lu Verne, and vice president of the Chamber of Commerce at Corvallis. During the World War, he was active in war work, being county chairman of various drives and other activities. He was a member of the advisory board of the College Y. M. C. A. for six years, and a member of and an officer in the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was a thirty-second degree Mason, a Shriner, and a ‘hewer of wood and drawer of water’ on numerous committees for the betterment of the community, as well as a member of Kiwanis Club.

The family left Lu Verne in 1913, and lived in Long Beach, California, for several months, moving to Corvallis in 1914. Winifred Kyler, B. A. ’24, a niece, is a teacher at Eldora, Iowa.
