SCIENCE NOTES

Excellence in Science and Mathematics Teaching Awards

The 1992 Iowa finalists for Presidential Awards for Excellence in Science and Mathematics Teaching have been announced. These individuals were nominated by colleagues on the basis of their teaching performance, experience, education and related professional activities.

During June, July and August, the Iowa awardees and their counterparts in the other states were recognized in ceremonies held at statehouses and Departments of Education throughout the United States. In September, 216 elementary and secondary science and mathematics teachers nationwide were named 1992 Presidential Awardees.

The Presidential Awardees for Excellence in Science and Mathematics Teaching in Iowa are Eleanor Marie Thomas, Northwood Elementary School (Ames); C. David Christensen, Malcolm Price Laboratory School (Cedar Falls); Jill Moser, Roosevelt High School (Des Moines) and Daniel F. McGrail, Carlisle Community High School. Each awardee will receive a trip for two to Washington, D.C., a Presidential citation and a $7,500 National Science Foundation grant. The secondary teachers will receive their awards in Washington, D.C., on March 11, 1993. The elementary teachers will receive their awards in Washington, D.C., on April 29, 1993, as part of the celebration of National Science and Technology Week.

The other Iowa Finalists in Math were Nancy C. French, Walcott Elementary School; Debra M. Jacobs, Dallas Center-Grimes Elementary School; B. Carolyn Anderson, West Branch Middle School and Joann M. Stuhr, Bettendorf High School.

The other Iowa Finalists in Science were Verlin Fleagle, Central Clinton Community High School (DeWitt); Lowell A. Wiele, Garfield Junior High School (Chariton); Margaret P. Sadeghpour, Lincoln Community Elementary School (Mechanicsville) and Robert G. Wilson, North Winneshiek Community School (Decorah).
