ABOUT OUR FACULTY ARTIST

Dr. Cayla Bellamy currently serves as Assistant Professor of Bassoon at the University of Northern Iowa, where she teaches courses in applied bassoon, chamber music, woodwind literature, and music education techniques. She is also a core bassoonist and contrabassoonist with wcfsymphony and has performed across the United States, all while maintaining an active private studio. As a member of the Kairos Trio, an Iowa-based trio d’anches with colleagues Drs. Amanda McCandless and Heather Peyton, Cayla has been invited to perform at both regional and national conferences for the National Association of Wind and Percussion Instructors. Kairos Trio is actively pursuing its debut album, a collection of original compositions for trio d’anches by American women composers, and she can also be heard on the album “A Bassoonists’ World,” featuring William Ludwig and released by Mark Records. Additionally, Cayla has performed the international premiere of three American duos for bassoon and alto saxophone at the 2017 College Music Society International Conference in Sydney, Australia with Dr. Ann Bradfield.

Over the course of her career, Cayla has maintained active involvement throughout the arts community, working with the Bloomington-based Cardinal Stage Company as marketing and sales assistant and founding the Indiana chapter of the chamber music collective Classical Revolution. A dedicated educator, Cayla spends her summers as Associate Conductor and Chamber Music Coordinator for the New York Summer School of the Arts School of Orchestral Studies and has taught at-risk college freshmen through the specialized Indiana University Groups Program. She has also held positions as Director of the Intermediate Girls Division at Interlochen Arts Camp, Director of Bands at Title I Snellville Middle School (GA), wind and percussion coach for the Gwinnett County Youth Symphony (GA), and Associate Conductor of the Emory Youth Symphony Orchestra.

In the summer of 2011, Cayla attended the Aspen Music Festival and School for eight weeks of study with Nancy Goeres of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, and in 2015 she completed the Doctor of Music degree in Bassoon Performance and Literature from the Jacobs School of Music at Indiana University as a student of William Ludwig with additional studies with Kathleen McLean. Cayla also holds Bachelor and Master of Music degrees in Music Education and Bassoon Performance from the University of Georgia, where she studied with William Davis and Amy Pollard and was distinguished as a National Presser Scholar and invited to perform with the American Wind Symphony Orchestra on a benefit tour for those affected by Hurricane Katrina.

Cayla's professional affiliations include the National Association for Music Education, College Music Society, International Double Reed Society, National Association for Wind and Percussion Instructors, Phi Kappa Lambda, and Kappa Kappa Psi (Kappa Mu). In addition to regular membership activities, she was recently elected to the executive board for the Midwest Double Reed Society, where she serves as Publication Editor. When she is not exploring the musical side of her life, Cayla is a competitive amateur triathlete who has won her divisions at sprint and Olympic distance events and regional half marathons, and she is currently training for her second 70.3 (long course) distance triathlon. She enjoys road cycling, trail running, experimental cooking, and spending quality time with her two- and four-legged friends. Find out more about her online at www.caylabellamy.com.
