Mammal Slide Library Offers Correction

The American Society of Mammalogists wishes to correct information previously published in journals other than the Iowa Science Teachers Journal.

Several sources erroneously reported that the society offers a free catalog of slides. The society does publish a catalog approximately every two years as a non-profit educational service, however, the current catalog (which includes 59 pages of detailed information about more than 1,100 slides) costs $3.00. A shorter publication, the "List of Slides," does not include detailed descriptions and is free.

To obtain either of the above publications or to order slides, contact Dr. Dwight W. Moore, Business Manager, Division of Biological Sciences, Box 50, Emporia State University, Emporia, KS 66801, ph. (316) 343-1200, Ext. 5611.

The Iowa Science Teachers Journal strives to prevent such mistakes by verifying each Science Note. Before publishing information about a source of information or materials, we review the publications ourselves. This is a time-consuming process, but one we feel is necessary to preserve the integrity of the Journal.

Field Testers Needed for Biology Education Project

The National Association of Biology Teachers (NABT) is seeking 40 life science and biology teachers to field test hands-on laboratory activities that require little or no money to implement. Field testers will receive a consulting fee of $450 plus $25 to implement the materials into their classrooms.

For further information, contact Dr. Mary Louise Bellamy, Education Director, NABT, 11250 Roger Bacon Dr. #19, Reston, VA 22090, ph. (703) 471-1134. The application deadline is September 15, 1992.
