Art of Science Competition Suspended for 1991

The New York Academy of Science recently announced a suspension of its annual Art of Science Competition this year. The decision was a result of budget cutbacks in the National Science Foundation (a major supporter of the program) and an unexpected phasing-out of a multi-year grant from Dow Chemical U.S.A. (the competition's major corporate sponsor since 1988).

This fall, organizers of the competition are reorganizing the program format, rules and regulations and seeking a new major corporate sponsor for 1992. A complete status report will be compiled this spring, and organizers plan to send it to persons on their mailing list in early March.

To be receive information concerning the future of the competition, contact Talbert B. Spence, Director of Educational Programs, New York Academy of Sciences, 2 East 63rd Street, New York, NY 10021.
