OPEN LETTER FROM THE SHORT COURSE COORDINATOR . . .

It is once again my pleasure to inform the membership that the Science Teacher's Short Course is almost ready to go, and to issue my cordial invitation for each of you to come and bring a friend. The planning on the campus is sufficiently advanced to permit the publication of the program in this issue of the journal.

Recent restrictions on the delivery of bulk mail and the lack of a zip-coded address list of all teachers prohibit the direct mailing to each teacher in the state. Instead of the customary mailing, we can mail programs only to the schools and hope that the word gets around. You can help by contacting your science supervisor and being sure that you have an opportunity to record your intention of attending the Short Course.

Our program this year will feature talks from Drs. George Bowen, Dexter French, and Harry Svec. Some of these men may be known to you already and I am sure that after the meetings you will agree that all should be known by all persons interested in teaching science. The special symposia staff has made unusually detailed arrangements to interest their visitors this year. I believe that the present program is the best we have had yet and I hope that you will agree with me on the afternoon of March 4, 1967.

Science Teacher's Short Course

CORRECTION

The date for the sponsorship of the Iowa Talent Search by Clinton Corn Processing Company was erroneously reported from 1947 to 1952, but should have been '1947 to 1962.' Since 1962 (not 1952) Collins Radio Company has been sponsoring the search.
