The Impact of Advocacy and Social Justice Work on Nonprofit Funding and Support

Brittany Appleton
June 26, 2021
Outline

• Introduction
• Problem Statement
• Purpose of the Study
• Research Questions
• Significance of the Study
• Literature Review
• Literature Review – Key Findings & Synthesis
• Implications for Professional Practice
• Recommendations for Future Research
• References
• Questions
Introduction

• The mission statement “is a guide to every action taken by the organization and is the principal standard against which its performance should be measured” (Worth, 2019, p. 64).
• Vision: organization’s long-term goals and directives (BoardSource, 2016)
• Values: guidelines for an organization’s practices (BoardSource, 2016)
• Organizational identity is created from the combination of internal and external definitions of the organization - the beliefs and viewpoints held about the organization by outsiders combine with the views and beliefs held about the organization by insiders to create the full organizational identity (Hatch & Schultz, 2002; Lecy & Ashley, 2019).
• Organizational identities can be flexible, but can lead to mission drift (Kreiner et al., 2015).
Problem Statement

• Nonprofits are pulled in different directions by their supporters, which can cause conflict among their mission, vision, values, and organizational identity
• Especially problematic when nonprofits are resource dependent on a specific funder(s) (Worth, 2019)
• Decisions that will be effective in moving the mission forward may not always be the best move from a financial standpoint (Young, 2005) - i.e. - advocacy or social justice work
• Nonprofits that focus on endeavors that are financially beneficial, but not aligned with mission, vision, values, may experience mission drift (Worth, 2019).
• Advocacy and social justice work have the potential to alienate supporters (Moulton & Eckerd, 2012; Neumayer et al., 2015)
The purpose of this study is to examine the effects of advocacy and social justice involvement on 501(c)3 nonprofit organizations.

- Lack of diverse funding sources and/or resource dependency can make it difficult to pursue mission
- How can nonprofits balance the need to steward their donors, especially long-time supporters, while taking a stand on social issues that may not align with its donors’ beliefs?
Research Questions

• How do supporters impact a nonprofit’s organizational identity?

• What factors can lead to mission drift and how can nonprofit organizations combat it?

• How does advocacy and social justice work impact funding for 501(c)(3) nonprofits?
Significance of the Study

• Conflicts between organization values/beliefs and those of supporters can have serious social and financial consequences

• Marion Public Library and supporting organizations lost support for hosting a Drag Queen Story Time in honor of Pride Month (Jette, 2019)

• Metropolitan Museum of Art cut ties with Sackler family because of connection to opioid crisis (Rendon, 2019; Harris, 2019)
Significance of the Study, cont.

- Nonprofits that are profit focused and pursue revenue sources not related to their mission can alienate donors (Jones, 2007)
- Lack of current research on impact of nonprofit participation in advocacy on funding and support
- Extremely relevant in current climate (BLM, LGBTQI+, election, etc.)
Literature Review
Literature Review - Key Findings & Synthesis

- Nonprofit organizations must be strong in their mission, vision, and values to guide decision-making (Gooding, 2014; Krug & Weinberg, 2004; Macedo et. al, 2015; McLaughlin, 2009)
- May experience mission drift when they stray from their stated purpose to pursue funding opportunities (Balser & McClusky, 2004; Gooding, 2004; Jones, 2007; Ma et. al, 2018; McLaughlin, 2009; Samimi, 2010)
- Advocacy work can help combat mission drift, but not all participate (Bronstein, 2006; Levinger, 2020a; Nicholson-Crotty, 2009)
  - Organization size
  - Funding
  - Mission
  - Nonprofit Industrial Complex (Samimi, 2010)
  - Current political climate
Implications for Professional Practice

• Advocacy is beneficial for nonprofit organizations
  • Raise awareness for an organization’s mission
  • Gain more supporters
  • Prevent policies/legislation that could be detrimental for clients/organization
  • Amplify voices of those in need and encourage change

• All stakeholders should be involved in advocacy
• Different types of advocacy
  • Lobbying or legislative advocacy
  • Administrative advocacy
  • Legal advocacy
  • Community advocacy

• Funders must support advocacy work
Recommendations for Future Research

• Research is currently lacking
  • How does implementing advocacy impact an organization’s relationship with supporters/financial support?

• Research variables
  • Size of organization
  • Type of organization
  • Focus of mission
  • Funding sources

• What is the impact of rejecting gifts?
• Effective advocacy strategies for nonprofit organizations
References

• BoardSource (2016, June 8). What is advocacy? https://boardsource.org/resources/what-is-advocacy/
References

Questions?